G. O. P. LOSES 8 IN SENATE; MAY LOSE THE HOUSE

Bad Times, Wet Issue Are Blamed.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

The Democrats won victories approaching the proportions of a landslide in the national and state elections yesterday.

In the election of the Seventy-second congress an avalanche of Democratic votes hit the Republican majorities in the senate and house with devastating force, reducing them close to the vanishing point, according to the incomplete returns.

It is possible that when the returns are complete the Republican majority of 16[illegible] in the present house will be found to have been completely wiped out.

The Democrats have gained close to 80 seats in the house now held by Republicans, according to the figures so far tabulated, and fragmentary returns from additional districts indicate the possibility that the Democratic gain may have been even greater. A net gain of 53 seats would give the house to the Democrats by a majority of one.

Near a Tie in Senate.

In the struggle for the senate the Democrats appear to have captured 9 and possibly 10 seats now held by Republicans while the Republicans wrested one—that in Iowa—from the Democrats. This is a gain of 8 or possibly 9 seats for the Democrats, leaving them one or two votes short of a majority in the senate.

At midnight Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, claimed a Democratic majority in the house. This claim was disputed by Will R. Wood, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, who asserted that the Republicans would be found to have held the house by a majority of at least 20.

The best information obtainable at 2 a. m. brought the Democrats within four members of controlling the house. Some reports from Washington were that they would have 20 majority but these were not confirmed. Uncertainties in some Ohio and Indiana districts accounted in part for the discrepancy.

Noble Experiment a Factor.

Stats after state that was carried by President Hoover two years ago exhibited a political change of heart in this election, attributable to the dissatisfaction bred by the business depression and unemployment, to the reaction against national prohibition and to dissatisfaction with the record of the Hoover administration up to date. To the extent that voters were dissposed to hold the administration to blame for the business depression and to disagree with the devotion of the President to the noble experiment the reverses suffered by the Republicans take on the character of a vote of want of confidence in Mr. Hoover as chief executive of the republic.

Wets Gain in Both Houses.

One of the most impressive results of the election was the gain registered by the anti-prohibitionists. Of the eight or nine Democrats who were elected to replace Republicans in the senate six are wets who will take the place of drys. With three other senators who are drys replacing wets the net wet gain in the senate will be three. In the house the election has brought about a gain of 40 wet votes.

The Jeffersonian landslide did more than bury Republican senators and congressmen. It swept Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York into a second term by the most impressive plurality ever accorded a candidate for governor in the Empire state. He defeated Charles H. Tuttle, the Republican candidate, by close to 800,000 votes. By virtue of this extraordinary demonstration of his capacity to carry the most populous state in the union Mr. Roosevelt becomes at once the most formidable candidate for the Democratic nomination for President in 1932.

Pinchot Beats Bolters.

In Pennsylvania, however, the landslide hit a snag. Despite the widespread bolting of the Republican ticket by wet and conservative Republicans Gov. Gifford Pinchot, dry radical Republican, defeated John M. Hemphill, wet conservative Democrat.

Pinchot Wins Pennsy Vote by 100,000

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 5 (2 a. m.)—[Special.]—Former Gov. Gifford Pinchot, foe of the Vare organization and outspoken critic of public utilities, has made a successful political comeback and will become Pennsylvania's chief executive next January for the second time in his stormy career.

The dry Republican nominee defeated John M. Hemphill, candidate of the wet Democrats and liberals in yesterday's election, despite the fact that Philadelphia gave Hemphill the largest vote it ever accorded a Democrat, a larger vote even than it rallied for William S. Vare, the Republican organization leader, in his senatorial battle against William B. Wilson in 1926.

Totals from State.

Returns from 7,065 of the state's 8,321 districts gave: Pinchot [R.], 920,481; Hemphill [D.], 883,854.

This included 1,567 of the 1,587 Philadelphia districts, which gave Pinchot 112,535 and Hemphill 329,995.

While these figures put Pinchot in the lead by only 36,527, practically all of the missing precincts are in rural regions which will return Pinchot pluralities and run his total margin near 100,000.

Secretary of Labor Davis ran true to form and amassed a big majority over Sedgwick Kistler, Democrat, in their senatorial contest, but the Democrats cut into the solid Republican delegation of 36 in the house and appeared certain to seat four or more of their candidates.

Mr. Pinchot, claiming victory in the gubernatorial battle after it became evident that his opponent's Philadelphia majority of more than 200,000 could not overcome his own upstate lead, characterized his success as one of "the plain people against the great special interests."

Mellon's County Aids Pinchot.

Allegheny county, home of the Mellons, came through in impressive fashion for Mr. Pinchot, rolling up a lead that promised to touch close to 70,000.

With the aid of the old Vare Republican organization's machinery Hemphill carried every Philadelphia ward and in addition won out in the wealthy Main line district, which voted wet in the primary. He also led in several upstate counties, including Montgomery, Erie and Berks.

Democratic leaders apparently were making good their boast to cut into the solid Republican rivals in four of the doubtful districts and all seemed to have good chances of winning.

DESERTS G. O. P. FOR FIRST TIME IN 70 YEARS

Kokomo, Ind., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Capt. Harry H. Stewart, eldest of three living brothers, cast his first vote here seventy years ago today for Abraham Lincoln. Since then, as a party leader in Howard county, a Republican stronghold, he has helped lead it to victory in every national and state election since until today, when he and ten members of his family voted the Democratic ticket for the first time in their lives. Capt. Stewart is 95, his brother Henry 87, and Lew, the baby, is 82.

Police Seize Thirteen Men and Six Revolvers

Three detective bureau squads under command of Lieut. Walter Storms, acting on information that Al Capone and his first lieutenant, Ted Newberry, would be found there, raided a rooming house at 901 South Halsted street shortly before midnight last night and seized 13 men and six revolvers.

The raiders failed to find Capone or Newberry, but among the 13 who were taken to the detective bureau for identification was Frankie Rio, hoodlum and public enemy. The men were busily tabulating election returns which were being received by radio when the police burst in on them. State Senator James Leonardo, former Ald. John Prignano, and Attorney Libonati, found entering the building, were taken to the detective bureau, but later released. City Sealer Daniel Serritella and Ald. William Pacelli appeared at the bureau in behalf of the arrested men.

Wilmette Woman Fined as Speeder in Evanston

Mrs. Milton H. Friend, 806 Linden avenue, Wilmette, was fined $5 costs for speeding by Magistrate Harry H. Porter in Evanston yesterday. Motorcycle Policeman Elmer Higley and Albert Hagel testified that she drove her automobile 40 miles an hour in Ridge avenue.

GOV. ROOSEVELT ROUTS RIVAL BY 735,000 VOTES

His Plurality Breaks All Records.

BULLETIN.

New York, Nov. 5.—3 a. m.—(Special.)—With 495 of 8,397 precincts in the entire state missing (all upstate districts) the vote for governor stood:

Roosevelt, 1,716,128; Tuttle, 999,185; Carroll, 165,752.

Roosevelt's actual plurality over Tuttle, with 495 precincts missing, 716,943.

Roosevelt's indicated plurality on complete returns was 735,000.

New York, Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt was reelected today in a Democratic landslide of unprecedented proportions, which swept him back into office by a plurality of approximately 750,000 over his Republican opponent, Charles H. Tuttle.

Piling up a lead never before approached by any Democrat upstate, Roosevelt came into Tammany controlled New York City an overwhelming winner, there to pick up the largest plurality ever received by any local candidate.

In his victory Gov. Roosevelt carried with him Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, Controller Morris S. Tremaine, and John J. Bennett Jr., candidate for attorney general. His slate obtained huge pluralities in the city, but ran far behind the governor upstate.

Now a Presidential Contender.

Tonight Gov. Roosevelt is regarded as having virtually established himself as the Democratic candidate for President in 1932, for which he is known to be an aspirant.

In his sweep of the state, the Democratic candidate exceeded all previous records of any man running for governor of New York, and his plurality may pass the 800,000 mark when the final count is made.

Dry Polls 200,000 Votes.

Both Roosevelt and Tuttle ran on a wet platform calling for repeal of the prohibition law and the wet and dry issue was not stressed in the campaign. Nevertheless it undoubtedly played an important part. Prof. Robert Carroll, Anti-Saloon league dry candidate for governor, polled less than 200,000 votes, but every ballot was a "protest" vote from some dry Republican who wished to register his complaint against the state party for joining the wet cause.

The collapse of the Republican organization upstate was complete. With nine districts missing, Seneca, the home county of William J. Maier, chairman of the Republican state committee, gave Roosevelt 3,024, Tuttle 2,257, and Carroll 936. Mr. Maier early tonight issued a statement characterizing the Democratic victory as "a political tidal wave."

Tuttle Concedes Defeat.

Soon after 8 o'clock Mr. Tuttle saw that his campaign issue of Tammany corruption had not been strong enough to draw the voters to his side and formally conceded defeat.

He sent this telegram to Gov. Roosevelt:

"I congratulate you heartily on your unprecedented victory and wish you and your administration all success."

He then issued this statement from Republican headquarters:

"The result, which is a great tribute to Gov. Roosevelt, speaks for itself. I want heartily to express my deep gratitude to the many friends in and out of the Republican party who aided me."

The New York City Democratic victory was expected, but in not quite such a large dose. It was, however, the amazing upstate vote that created the biggest surprise.

An Utter G. O. P. Rout.

The early upstate votes exceeded the highest expectations of the most optimistic Democratic leaders. Gov. Roosevelt carried Tuffalo and Erie county by 33,677, Schenectady county by 5,279 and Rockland county by 3,165. Coming out of Albany county with a plurality of 20,000 the governor swept on through thirty-five counties which normally are strong Republican.

Roosevelt in his victory march carried, for the first time, his home election district in Hyde Park, Dûchess county, which he twice before had lost. Complete returns from 32 of the 59 cities of the state outside this city showed that Roosevelt had carried 28 of these and Mr. Tuttle only

Wet Ballots Swamp Drys in Referendum

Wets Triumph

Victories by the wets in many parts of the country formed an outstanding feature of the election. Besides the vote against prohibition in the three states where there were referenda, Illinois, Rhode Island and Massachusetts, there were wet triumphs in contests for members of congress and for other offices.

The prohibition issue was responsible for many upsets in house contests. Wet Democrats were elected over present dry Republicans in Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, and other states. It is probable that final returns will give the wets a net gain of several senate seats and anywhere from 40 to 60 seats in the house.

The voters of Illinois yesterday for the third time registered their opposition to the present prohibition laws of the state and nation.

On the basis of partial returns from Cook county and downstate the voters in both divisions of the state gave all three prohibition propositions a substantial wet majority.

These returns indicate that the state will go wet by a majority of more than half a million.

In Cook county the wet vote was running four and a half to one ahead of the dry sentiment, with the Chicago precincts averaging better than five to one.

Former Dry Areas Vote Wet.

Downstate the vote was closer, the wet votes predominating by about three to two.

Considered significant was the indication, shown in vote tabulations of the downstate counties, that territories hitherto voting dry are now to be found in the wet column, revealing the losses of the drys in these long arid communities.

Partial returns from 10 of the 101 downstate counties showed that in seven of these the wet vote is leading. Of these seven counties now indicated as wet, four had voted dry in the prohibition referenda of 1922 and 1926. None of the figures gave any indication that any previously wet territory would become dry in sentiment.

Three propositions were submitted to the voters in this election, as follows: First, for repeal of the eighteenth amendment; second, for modification of the Volstead act to permit the states to allow the manufacture of light wines and beer, and third, for repeal of the Illinois prohibition and search and seizure acts.

Cook County Vote.

Tabulation of 1,305 precincts out of 3,470 in Cook county give:

	Yes.	No.
Repeal of 18th amendment	224,949	55,151
Modification Volstead act	229,404	53,519
Illinois prohibition repeal	229,098	51,604

Using the vote for a gauge over the entire county, it is indicated that the wets will carry Cook county by an estimated majority of 455,000.

	Pcts.	Yes.	No.
Repeal 18th amendment	463	83,534	35,027
Illinois prohibition repeal	463	44,881	28,507

Estimates upon this vote place the wet majority downstate at about 144,000, or a wet majority for the entire state of 600,000, but it is predicted that the total may not be that high after some of the more remote districts, which are normally dry, are included in the totals.

Tabulation of precincts out of the total of 7,109 in the entire state gives:

	Pcts.	Yes.	No.
Repeal 18th amendment	833	122,838	50,905
Modification Volstead act	861	111,494	47,754
Illinois prohibition repeal	818	114,733	43,887

In 335 of the 3,009 precincts in Chicago the vote on the three proposals was as follows:

	Yes.	No.
Repeal of 18th Amendment	57,870	11,843
Modification Volstead Act	57,123	11,362

Vote in Downstate.

The vote in the 10 downstate counties, tabulated by the Associated Press, showed that the vote on the three propositions was practically the same. The vote on the repeal of the 18th amendment is shown in the following tabulation, which also indicates the wet or dry predomination in the 1928 referendum.

County—	Precincts.	Wet.	Dry.	1928 vote.
Carroll	1	74	122	Dry
Champaign	4	283	212	Dry
Coles	2	133	113	Wet

BY PARKE BROWN.

Even before the police returns on local contests began to come in last night it was apparent that the tremendous Democratic vote would carry the Cook county ticket in the landslide; and when the first unofficial figures on the principal county offices arrived the general conclusion was that not a single Republican nominee had survived.

There was gloom around the Republican headquarters in the Steuben club that was relieved by only a faint suggestion now and then that perhaps this man or that man running for some office upon which no figures were available had slipped through for some reason or other; but even such whispers were extremely weak.

Meyering Running 2 to 1.

The indications were that Ald. William D. Meyering, war hero nominee for sheriff, led all the other stars in the race, running two to one ahead of Maj. Carlos Ames, the city hall favorite out of the whole field, whom Mayor Thompson had called his own candidate and whom he sought to boost in a last minute statement from his hospital bed.

Running second for headliner honors on the local battle ground, County Judge Jarecki appeared to be nosing in ahead of President Cermak of the county board. Judge Jarecki was just about two to one over Municipal Judge William E. Helander, one of the Deneen entries who won out in the April primary. And President Cermak was just about as far ahead of Otto F. Reich, supported chiefly by Charles V. Barrett.

Police returns were telephoned for newspaper use on one more local office, that of county treasurer. It was here that a few Republican leaders still were hopeful in the early evening. They thought they saw signs that Col. Howard P. Savage, former national commander of the American Legion, was creeping up on Ald. Joseph B. McDonough, the Democrat.

McDonough Victory Expected.

But having watched the trend of the earlier reports on the senatorship, the Democrats were sanguine of the outcome of this contest from the start and when only a few score precincts were in it was concluded that McDonough would beat the Republican favorite by better than 120,000 votes.

The estimates on the offices for which returns were received by telephone at this stage of the proceedings were that Meyering would win by 300,000, Cermak by 275,000 and Jarecki by 260,000.

Sixteen hundred and thirty precincts in Cook county for county offices gave the following totals:

Meyering [D.].....307,949

Senator-Elect Lewis to Talk Over W-G-N Tonight

Senator-elect James Hamilton Lewis will make his first address over the radio since his victory of yesterday from W-G-N at 9:45 o'clock tonight.

MRS. M'CORMICK OVERWHELMED 3 TO 1 IN CITY

Politicians Dazed by Ballot Earthquake.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

James Hamilton Lewis, Democrat, won in a landslide over Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican, in yesterday's battle for the United States senatorship.

On the issues of prohibition and Hoover prosperity and the hard times phase, something of a seismic upheaval struck the old rock ribbed Republican state—the home of Lincoln, the first Republican President—and turned it topsy turvy with a Lewis plurality that seems to be around 650,000.

It looked more like an earthquake than an ordinary election, and the politicians, still rubbing their eyes, rate it the greatest blow against national prohibition thus far struck.

The Latest Returns.

The latest returns received early this morning from 2,385 precincts—within the city, 30 in the country towns, and 1,563 from downstate counties, show:

	City precincts.	Country towns.	Downstate.	Totals.
Lewis	516,415	15,400	294,962	826,777
McC'k	197,163	5,563	185,613	388,344
O'Neill	13,675	608	25,688	38,971
Lewis' plurality	337,252	9,838	111,349	458,433

If each candidate continues in the remaining precincts at the ratio reported above—of which there can be no definite assurance—the final results would be approximately:

	City precincts.	Country towns.	Downstate.	Totals.
Lewis	651,500	28,700	576,100	1,316,300
McC'k	226,100	32,100	358,800	616,800
O'Neill	16,000	3,500	20,100	69,600
Projected plurality	425,400	36,800	217,300	699,900

Leads 3 to 1 in Chicago.

Incomplete figures thus show Mr. Lewis out in the lead both in Cook county and downstate.

In Chicago he is running three to one ahead of Mrs. McCormick. The incomplete returns indicate his Chicago plurality will be around 425,000. He is running two to one ahead in the country towns of Cook county, and the partial figures indicate he may carry them by 45,000.

Downstate he is leading in 74 counties out of 96 which have reported partial returns. These figures indicate he may carry downstate by 180,000.

Prohibition and the hard times issue piled up for Mr. Lewis the largest plurality ever given a Democrat in Illinois. To gauge the extent of the political upset, Hoover only two years ago carried the state by 455,000, while yesterday Mr. Lewis took it by approximately 650,000. It's a spread of nearly a million votes in pluralities yesterday as compared with two years ago.

Lewis Leads in 47 Wards.

In Chicago Mr. Lewis carried 47 wards in the incomplete figures. Mrs. McCormick rolled up majorities in the 2d, 3d, and 4th wards, where Mayor Thompson tried to swing the Negro voters to Mr. Lewis.

As the politicians view it, the great vote and upheaval indicated that in the final weeks the contest developed out of a mere race between Mrs. McCormick and Mr. Lewis into a popular demonstration against the Hoover administration, with prohibition, hard times, unemployment, and business conditions as the power house for the voting.

It is the first time the Democrats have carried the state on a big statewide office since the Bull Moose year of 1912, when the Republican split gave them the state. In a two party contest yesterday was the first time in thirty-eight years they have swept the state—in 1892 Illinois voted for Cleveland for President and elected Altgeld governor.

The Lewis majority has only been exceeded on high state offices in Illinois in 1920, when Harding had a majority of 886,000 and Republican state candidates had landslide pluralities.

Dry League Gets Wallop.

While they were at it the voters seem to have obliterated the Anti-Saloon league as a political agency. Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, independent with league backing, polled a negligible vote so far as affecting the results. Candidates for the legislature and congress who have been pets of the league were dropped overboard.

and league candidates for the most part sang in vain. "Throw Out the Life Line."

On the basis of the incomplete figures Mrs. McCormick is indicated to have polled about 100,000 fewer votes than in the April primaries. The projected figures from returns from one-half of Cook county precincts and one-third downstate give her an indicated total vote of 610,000. In April her vote in the primaries was 714,505.

Through the hours of tabulation Lewis persisted in his 3 to 1 ratio in the city with the monotony that 16 to 1 did in Bryan days. In the first 400 precincts reporting Lewis led in all but six.

G. O. P. Strongholds Fall.

Some of the old rockribbed Republican strongholds fell to Lewis on the issue of Hoover prosperity and prohibition. Agricultural counties in the north piled up a Democratic vote—here the Democrats had assailed the administration on farm relief.

In Du Page, incomplete returns gave Lewis two to one. In Knox, good old G. O. P. territory, Lewis was leading. In Winnebago county, which ordinarily is as Republican as the state of Iowa, Lewis was holding Mrs. McCormick to a reduced lead. This is Mrs. McCormick home county. Byron, home of Mrs. McCormick gave her 398; Lewis, 173; O'Neill, 23.

Two years ago Winnebago rolled up a Hoover plurality of 25,574. Yesterday on the issues of prohibition, "Hoover prosperity" it fell to an indicated Republican lead of about 3,500 for Mrs. McCormick.

Kane Goes to Lewis.

Kane county, close to Chicago, gave Lewis a lead of 4,000 with two-thirds of the precincts in. Two years ago it gave Hoover 22,000 plurality. In the campaign the Democrats in Aurora stressed unemployment as much as they did prohibition.

Will county, adjoinfng Cook, with three-fourths of the precincts in, was running two to one for Lewis. Hoover carried it by 5,200. The liquor issue and Hoover prosperity were hammered on in Joliet and Will county has given an indicated Democratic plurality of 10,000.

Lake county went almost two to one for Lewis. Liquor and unemployment were the issues in Waukegan. The county gave Hoover a plurality of 14,500 two years ago. Yesterday 58 out of 71 precincts gave Lewis 14,907, McCormick 8,001.

Republican Parade Halted.

In McHenry and Stephenson, Jo Daviess and Ogle, where on election night the elephant is wont to hold a parade, the Democratic donkey is either out in front or tagging more closely behind than usual.

Down through the corn belt Mr. Lewis is leading in counties that normally would be headed the other way. Territory that is dry is rolling up pluralities for the Democrats on the dripping wet plank. The agricultural vote is supplemented by the industrial vote in the manufacturing centers.

In Champaign county Lewis is almost two to one in the incomplete figures; in Decatur he is running better than two to one on partial figures. In Springfield he is leading in Sangamon county, home of Lincoln. Here the Democrats hammered on "Hoover prosperity" and the liquor question. All through the campaigning the Republicans conceded Hoover and hard times were the great load on the state ticket. Two years ago Sangamon went to Hoover by 10,000; yesterday it went to Lewis by an indicated two to one vote.

Results in Egypt.

Down in Egypt, St. Clair and Madison fell into Lewis' lap on the basis of the incomplete figures. This region, with 300,000 population, the largest concentration outside of Cook, is as wet as they come. The liquor issue was predominant, and unemployment, the attack on "Hoover prosperity—just around the corner"—by the Democrats, surged to the fore in the final weeks and seems to have rolled up the votes.

The mining regions in central Illinois tumbled into the Lewis column, the incomplete figures indicate.

In Peoria, old home of the great distilleries, where prohibition has been the great issue, flanked by unemployment, 55 out of 92 city precincts gave McCormick 2,884, Lewis 9,551, O'Neill 205. The incomplete figures indicate Peoria will return a majority of five to six thousand for J. Ham Lewis. Two years ago Hoover got it by 7,800.

In Pekin, near Peoria, the first precinct reporting in Tazewell county gave McCormick 40, Lewis 370. Hoover in 1928 had Tazewell by 2,800.

Lewis Sweeps Chicago.

Down in Christian county, near Springfield, early returns from Taylorville indicated Lewis would carry the county by more than 2,000.

In Chicago it was a parade for Mr. Lewis nearly all through the town. Banner Republican territory in Hyde Park, Englewood, and Lake View, which the Republicans generally consider as nailed down and clamped, leaped into his lap. The stockyards district rolled up four to one votes. Over on the west side three to one and better was the tune of the early precinct figures.

The incomplete figures indicate that starting at 67th street J. Ham paraded up the lake shore, through Hyde Park, skipping the Negro area, then crossed the river and through the gold coast, through the Wilson avenue district and up to Calvary cemetery. The only doubtful territory was in the Negro area. It was a great night for the Democrats.

The rush to the polls brought out the voters in record breaking numbers for an off year election. When the voting ended the election officials estimated that in Chicago alone about 900,000 votes were cast. In Cook county more than a million, it appears, turned out. Incomplete figures indicated that more than 70 per cent of the voters registered cast their ballots yesterday.

Englewood for Lewis.

The first precincts to report indicated that territory in Englewood, Hyde Park and Lake View reacted to the hard times issue and the cry of "Hoover prosperity" and to the wet and dry issue, as did Democratic strongholds in the stockyards regions and on West Madison street.

In the nine north side wards, incomplete returns show Lewis running an average of three to one. On the west side, the ratio in the partial figures runs almost four to one while on the south side in some residential districts the Lewis territory is two to one.

The Seventh ward was in dispute all night. It is the home of State's Attorney Swanson and District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson. On the early figures it went to Lewis. On later returns it swung to Mrs. McCormick, and still later it swung back on the incomplete returns to Mr. Lewis.

Virginia Democrat Wins Over G. O. P. Congressman

Richmond, Va., Nov. 4.—(AP)—John V. Flannagan, Democratic opponent of Representative Joseph C. Shaffer, Republican, in the Ninth Virginia district, had a lead of 5,222 votes when 28,674 votes had been tabulated tonight, and claimed the election. About half the precincts had been reported. Because of bad weather and the mountainous country in the Ninth district, many of its precincts will not report before tomorrow.

DEMOCRATS WIN COUNTY OFFICES IN LANDSLIDE

cial news service because they all were involved in what were thought to be serious contests. Returns on other offices were not received until late; but it was declared obvious that the Democrats had won the other important places by just as substantial margins.

It was believed certain that County Clerk Sweitzer had romped home easily ahead of Peter I. Bukowski, the Deneen Republican candidate, and that Probate Judge Horner had rolled up one of the biggest majorities in the county battle, over David H. Brill in whom the Republican organization was little interested from the start.

There were reports that Probate Court Clerk Robin was close behind the leaders of the ticket in his race for reelection against Louis Nettlehorst, a Brundage supporter, and that Ald. George Seif had defeated Criminal Court Clerk Passmore although this was one of the places concerning which some Republicans whispered there was a ray of hope.

Two veterans of the tax boards, William H. Weber, reviewer, and Charles Krutckoff, assessor, were said to have been snowed under in the landslide. John E. Traeger, son of the present sheriff of the same name, and Walter L. W. Meyer were the Democratic standard bearers reported to have walked over the Republican choices for assessors. State Senator Edward J. Hughes defeated Weber.

Returns on the "group offices"—those of sanitary trustee and county commissioner were lacking, but it was predicted that all the Democratic nominees would be shown among the winners, with the possible exception—only whispered—that perhaps some of the Republican country town candidates for the county board had squeezed through.

Win Court Offices, Too.

Until the figures began to return the Republicans had expressed some confidence about their nominees for executive offices in the Municipal court organization, Clerk James A. Kearns, seeking reelection, and Bernard J. Kelly, nominee for bailiff, who has been County Chairman Snow's chief aid in that office for several years.

But there were no returns even hinting that there had been an exception in the case of those two offices, which are voted upon only in the city. The Democrats, State Representative Joseph L. Gill, a brother-in-law of the late George E. Brennan, and Ald. Albert J. Horan of the Twenty-ninth ward, were said to have won easily.

Estimates of the final results took into account the fact that the Democratic organization held back the vote from the strong Democratic wards with the result that the early figures came almost entirely from Republican precincts.

Report Mayor's Effort Fruitless.

The one consolation that the Republicans felt from the standpoint of organization workmanship was that the Negro vote, particularly on the south side, was said to have resisted solidly the special efforts of Mayor Thompson to swing it behind Lewis.

So far as could be learned during the evening rush there was some slashing of the Republican ticket by some ward leaders, but the deliberate cutting was said to have been relatively unimportant in effect in comparison with the wave of wet and anti-Hoover sentiment.

Maj. Ames, who went down so decisively under the load of Thompson's personal support, telegraphed Ald. Meyering early in the evening as follows:

"My sincere congratulations, Bill, on your fine victory. I am confident that you will so conduct the office that it will reflect credit not only upon yourself but upon all service men, and nobody wishes you better luck. It was a clean fight and I am glad a service man won."

A statement issued by Chairman Snow of the Republican county committee read in part as follows:

"It is very evident that, as usual in periods of economic stress, a large section of the voters are holding the party in power responsible for hard times and unemployment regardless of the fact that the condition is world-wide and the situation here is better than anywhere else.

"It is also evident that the tremendous protest against the ghastly failure of the effort to enforce the prohibition amendment has played a tremendous part in the result regardless of the fact that the referendum furnished a proper place for the protest.

"In addition to these general conditions, the Republican local ticket suffered from treachery and a continuation of bipartisan deals, defeating the best Republican ticket ever presented in Cook county."

Too Late with Poll Tax, but He Votes 'By Courtesy'

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Election officers in the home precinct of C. Arthur Bruce, Republican gubernatorial candidate, said tonight they allowed him to vote today "by courtesy," waiving their ruling that his poll tax was paid one day too late.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Harold F. McCormick, son of the founder of the International Harvester company, today left the Good Samaritan hospital, where he underwent a severe abdominal operation six weeks ago.

MOSES SCANS G. O. P. LOSSES; SEES TROUBLE FOR ADMINISTRATION

Concord, N. H., Nov. 4.—(AP)—United States Senator George H. Moses, chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, in a statement made at his home here tonight, said that this was "plainly a raw, a wet and characteristically a Democratic day." Senator Moses' statement follows:

"Tuesday was plainly a raw, wet, and characteristically a Democratic day. To say 'I told you so' is slight satisfaction, but I have constantly maintained that the Republicans would encounter disaster this year.

"However, I had not thought it to be so widespread. It is early now to forecast any of the implications of this election, but it is evident that the next two years will contain an amplitude of difficulty for the administration and for Republicans generally."

LEWIS IS HAPPY FOR THE PEOPLE: 'THEIR VICTORY'

Praises Ruth McCormick for Valorous Race.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

It was the hour of triumph for James Hamilton Lewis.

The piled up telegrams on his desk at Metropolitan building headquarters last night had one refrain. His victory was mounting and mounting. He had bowed his way through a crowd of political friends.

"Thank you, gentlemen, thank you," he said, stilling their rising applause with lifted hand. His face was serious. His blue eyes, which are so ready to twinkle in a good story, were stern looking.

"Smile, senator, smile," begged the photographer, when they had seated and arranged him to their satisfaction. "Gentlemen, I am not in the vaudeville business."

He Does Not Exult.

"This is a serious matter," said the senator-elect. "I will do almost anything for you, but I am not exulting over the defeat of a woman."

"Won't you fix up a statement?" asked a reporter, after the still cameras and the movie men had taken all the pictures they wanted.

"I will not fix one up, but I will make one," he said. "If you are ready I will dictate. It is this:

"I wish as a first expression to give praise to Mrs. McCormick for the valorous fight she has made. With her women voters forsaking her, her men's organization deserting her, she continued in the hope that the 800,000 Republican majority of the state, given to President Coolidge, would rescue her."

Solicitous for Rival's Health.

Here he stopped to cough and explain that a bug had flown into his throat one day when he was riding in the country and had caused a slight irritation there. This reminded him of a story of what an old lady in his audience had said about it. Then he continued:

"No man in any state could have made a more persistent and persevering contest than she did. I have observed that her health was waning and I hope she will be quickly returned to health and strength and enjoy the splendid days which must await a woman of such spirit and capacity."

"As for myself," he continued, after a pause and the reading of more messages of congratulation, "if you will do me the kindness to report this: I send my thanks to the newspapers of every political complexion in the state. They all have treated me with a generosity that takes my gratitude. Later I shall make specific acknowledgment to my managers and their aides in different parts of the state for the splendid efforts they have put forward in my behalf.

"I wish to have my country know that this victory given to me is the expression of the people of my state upon personal issues of the rights of man and on the platform that I set forth describing these rights."

Welcomes His Manager.

"William," he remarked, turning to his personal campaign manager, William L. O'Connell, "I am glad to see you."

"I can call you senator, now," said Mr. O'Connell.

"You have called me everything else," said the victor.

Friends and members of his staff crowded around him. The telephone rang constantly. Returns were tumbling in from all parts of the state. But there was nothing of hilarity around the Lewis headquarters. No "set" signs in evidence.

The senator-elect looks fit to carry through his part in political affairs. He is tired from campaigning since Aug. 11, but expects to be completely restored after a few days' rest.

His Own Debonair Self.

He was dressed immaculately, as usual. The pearl gray spats were matched by the pearl gray vest. A blue bordered silk handkerchief hung from his coat pocket, matching the blue silk puff tie. His famous whiskers, once reddish and now nearly white, were party slightly in the middle. His hair was carefully arranged. His words were carefully chosen, his manner flawless to all.

"I went out for a bite of supper at the City club while waiting for the returns," he said, "and when I was coming out the bootblack stopped me and said we ought to congratulate each other.

"'I have just been elected president of the bootblacks' union,' he said, 'and you are elected, so let's shake hands.'

"So that was my first notice of victory."

Retires Early to Bed.

So inquired as to the county ticket and how the rest of the country was going and after an hour or so retired to his hotel and to bed.

His platform, which he had referred to as his formal statement as the real issue upon which the people voted, was that delivered by him as the keynote speech of the Democratic convention at Springfield on last Aug. 20. In this also, he declared that this campaign was not a political party campaign merely, but a "call to the citizenship of our country to bring back this government to its people."

Platform Speech Recalled.

In the course of his address, after setting forth the ills of the country, he said:

"Where is the remedy? What is the relief?

"We answer: That the Democracy bring back this government to the foundations laid by the fathers—that we resurrect the spirit of the republic and revolve the states on the axis of the constitution.

"Let us hear again the sacred assurance, proclaiming 'In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you.' So, in this assemblage, dedicated to the veneration of human rights and the rebirth of constitutional justice, we reconstruct the mansions of the states as the house of refuge against oppression and the storehouse of plenty against want.

"Let us announce the immediate prescription—that as to food, drink, or the needs of man and the administration of morality, the state, the voice of the citizen, shall prescribe by law the quality and quantity of beverage and the limits and place of creation and distribution. This, by a system which makes drunkenness impossible, the saloons odius, and establishes temperance, under the teachings of parent, home, and church.

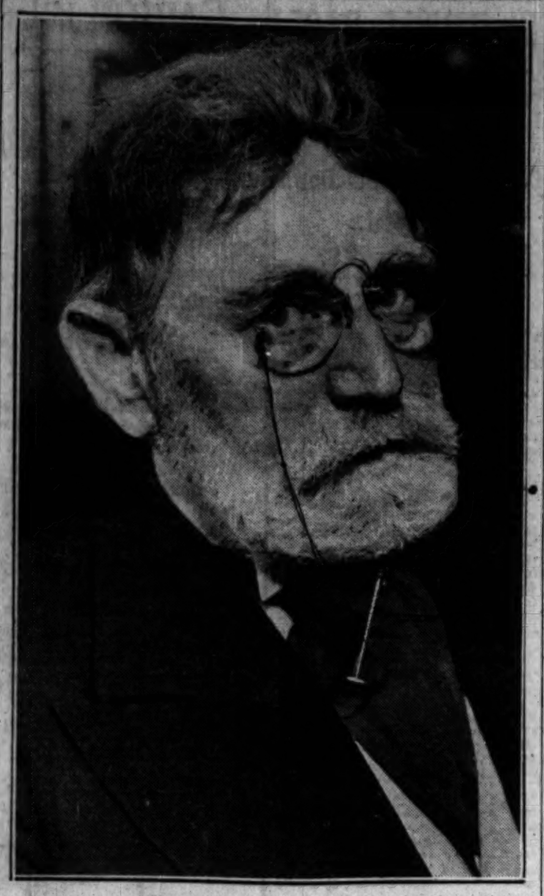
The New Senator from Illinois



JAMES HAMILTON LEWIS.

"To this end there must be a liberalization, qualification or repeal of the Volstead act, or of the 18th amendment, or any portion of either of these, which cannot run concurrently with right and privilege of state, or which stands as an obstruction of righteous morality in the government of each state and home.

"Then, to assure that these laws, expressing the will of the citizen and the welfare of the state, shall not be intruded upon by any form of invasion by any other state whose policies are different, we demand that that the assembled states, speaking through national congress, apply or enact such laws as shall forbid and prevent any state from invading or trespassing upon any other state—on its method—in violation of the rights of a sister state."

A Native of Virginia.

Mr. Lewis was born at Danville, Va. [Who's Who does not say when], the son of a confederate soldier, Maj. John Cable Lewis. His mother died when he was born and his father was an invalid from wounds, and so he was reared by members of the mother's family at Danville and Augusta, Ga. He went to Houghton college, Georgia, and the University of Virginia, and in the early 80's he came to Chicago and then went on to Seattle, Wash., where he studied law.

He was elected to the 55th congress from that state. In congress, in 1897, he was the author of a resolution for recognition of Cuban independence.

He went into the Spanish-American war as a lieutenant of the Washington militia and was promoted to the staff of Gen. Frederick Dent Grant.

Lewis moved to Chicago when his term in congress was ended and served as corporation counsel under Mayor Dunne. Following the Bull Moose split of 1912 he was chosen United States senator by the legislature. He served from 1913 to 1919 and was defeated for reelection in 1918 by Medill McCormick. In 1920 he ran against Len Small for governor. He has since practiced law in Chicago.

CRUSADE CHIEF SEES RESULT AS DRY LAW REVOLT

J. Russell Forgan, executive commander of the Crusaders in Chicago, issued the following statement concerning the outcome of the election:

"The result in Illinois and elsewhere where prohibition was a dominant issue show that the people are taking a recess from party affiliations until the all important question of prohibition is settled. The results in Illinois show that the people are undeniably opposed to the eighteenth amendment and will not stand for any candidate dodging the issue. Naturally, we are gratified with the results here and elsewhere."

EDWARD BARRETT, 30 AND UNKNOWN, IS STATE VICTOR

Edward J. Barrett, a young Chicago Democrat, leaped from nowhere into state politics yesterday by defeating Clarence F. Buck for state treasurer. At midnight Barrett was leading by about 200,000 votes. The Democratic landslide enabled Barrett, a 30 year old ex-service man, to defeat a G. O. P. state leader.

Early this morning, Barrett was leading Buck in Cook county by more than 30,000 votes, 395 out of 3,470 precincts tallying 66,760 for Barrett and 36,349 for Buck. The latter was falling behind downstate by about 15,000 and the ratio of gains over losses remained constant as the returns flowed in. Of the state's 7,109 precincts, 1,430 gave Barrett 175,042 and Buck 160,183.

The young ex-service man, who is married and lives at 5728 South Maplewood avenue, learned some of his first political principles under the guidance of Mike Carrozzo, head of the street sweepers. Until two years ago, he said last week, he served as one of Carrozzo's organizers in the 15th ward. He quit, he said, to enter a La Salle street investment house and is with it at the present time.

A Surprise in Primary.

Barrett was not his party's organization candidate for the treasurership before the April primaries. He entered the lists as an unknown and little attention was paid to him, but when the votes were counted he was shown to have defeated the regular candidate, M. C. Zacharias, west side banker, and he thus became the Democratic nominee and received the impetus of his party organization.

During the war Barrett served with the 131st infantry overseas, was wounded, and spent twenty-seven months in hospitals.

The sweep that carried him into office also appeared to have pushed the veteran Republican superintendent of public instruction, Frances G. Blair, from the post he has held for twenty-six years. Blair was opposed by Mrs. Eva B. Batterton of Springfield, politically unknown before the campaign.

Mrs. Batterton was leading Blair by more than 6,000 votes at midnight, 1,105 precincts out of 7,109 in Illinois giving her 131,414 and Blair 122,473.

As in other races, the Batterton majority in Cook county was almost twice that of Mr. Blair, but she trailed him slightly in downstate counties. Before she entered politics, Mrs. Batterton was a superintendent of schools of a downstate county.

Democrats Lead for Trustees.

In the races for four trusteeships of the University of Illinois, the Democratic candidates were leading by about two to one, their Republican rivals in the city. Three full term trustees and one to fill a vacancy, were elected.

A total of 395 precincts out of 3,470 in Cook county gave them the following vote: Walter W. Williams, Benton, 66,254; C. A. Ewing, Decatur, 63,276; M. C. Zacharias, Chicago [whom Barrett defeated for the treasurership nomination], 63,676, and Marjorie Robbins Hopkins, Lake Forest, 64,588.

About half this vote was polled for the Republicans in the same territory which was counted as follows: George A. Barr, Joliet, 37,533; Edward E. Barrett, La Grange, 39,106; Leonard A. Colp, Marion, 35,437, and Mrs. Margaret Day Blake, 1301 Astor street, Chicago, 34,769.

Mrs. Hopkins and Mrs. Blake were running for the vacancy left by the death of Mrs. Mary Busey.

View Result as Vote for Employment.

All of the 13 local bond issues, totaling $28,520,000, were approved by the voters yesterday by overwhelming majorities. The least popular issue will probably win by a vote of two to one and the others up to three to one.

It has been many years since bonds were indorsed so decisively, but probably the desire of the voters to relieve unemployment and aid in restoring better business was largely responsible for the showing.

The Lincoln park $3,000,000 issue to extend the filled-in land northward from Montrose avenue appears in the early returns to have been the most popular, but the electorate privileged to vote upon it was limited to the townships of North Chicago and Lake View on the north side.

State Street Bridge Popular.

The State street bridge issue will be one of the leaders in popularity. The argument that the present span must be removed because its foundations prevent the construction of the State street subway, appears to have made a strong appeal to the public.

Even the $14,000,000 bond issue to acquire state fish, game and forest preserves was running strong in the Chicago precincts which have reported. It was winning one and a half to one. Downstate returns however showed more votes in opposition than in favor of it. If however the Cook county early trend continues it will probably be sufficient to make this bond issue win in the entire state.

The amendments to the state banking law are shown in the incomplete returns to have won by more than two to one, so far as Chicago is concerned.

City for Woman Jurors.

The habit of voting "yes" in Chicago extended to the referendum on the laws permitting women to serve on juries, although on this proposition, as on practically all of the other proposals, the total vote cast was only 60 per cent of those who voted for the candidates for United States senator. Downstate precincts registered against woman juries by a ratio of 8 to 7.

The public policy question on whether the city council shall pass an ordinance providing for the filtration of the drinking water of Chicago won by more than three to one. Some of the early returns showed four to one. And yet on this proposition no one was given any authoritative information on how much the water filtering will cost. The estimates were between $30,000,000 and $60,000,000.

The annexation of the village of Beverly appears also to have been carried by a substantial majority.

STILL SEIZED; MAN ARRESTED.

A 150 gallon still, two 1,000 gallon vats, one filled with mash, and a quantity of alcohol were seized by prohibition agents yesterday in the home of Samuel Leich at 180th street and Thornton road, Lansing. Leich was arrested.

HOOVER'S CHOICE IS NEAR DEFEAT IN TENNESSEE

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Apparent defeat of Representative B. Carroll Reece, regular Republican, of the First district by O. B. Lovette, Independent Republican, was the outstanding feature of today's election. Democratic candidates for senator and governor triumphed. Returns from 219 out of 240 precincts gave Lovette 18,362; Reece, 16,287.

In the Republican primary in which Reece was nominated opponents attacked his stand against the Norris bill for government operation of Muscle Shoals and President Hoover wrote Reece a letter upholding his views.

Sam W. Price, Reece's primary opponent, announced as an independent against him but later withdrew. Lovette then entered the campaign.

Representative Cordell Hull, Democrat, was elected over Paul Divine for a six year senate term beginning March 4, and Senator William E. Brock, Democrat, defeated F. Todd Mecham, Republican.

TAX AMENDMENT TURNED DOWN BY DECISIVE TOTAL

City and Downstate Both Reject It.

The tax amendment to the state constitution is indicated by the incomplete returns to have been decisively defeated. The returns at hand indicate that it will be defeated in Cook county by a majority of 110,000 and downstate by 36,000, a total of 146,000.

Even if it had obtained that majority in its favor it still would have lost, because an amendment to the state constitution requires a majority of all the votes cast. For United States senator the returns indicate that 1,998,000 votes were cast. To have won the amendment needed more than half of that vote. The total vote cast for and against the amendment is indicated by the average number in the precincts reported to have been less than 1,100,000.

Fourth Defeat for Tax Change.

This is the fourth time that an amendment to the revenue article of the constitution has gone before the voters in some form or other. Each one has been defeated.

The form of the amendment submitted yesterday was criticized because it gave large powers to the legislature to deal with tax matters. It permitted the adoption of a state income tax, but did not require the legislature to reduce the taxes on real estate and personal property accordingly. Therefore the charge was made repeatedly that the amendment would only add another tax to the burdens of the property owners.

Loses in Cook County.

In Cook county 935 precincts gave the amendment 39,925 favorable votes and 62,625 votes against it. Downstate reported 254 precincts with 16,203 votes for it and 28,765 against it.

Under the constitution no tax amendment can be submitted for another four years, which would be under the next state administration. An effort has been made by the last three governors to have a tax amendment approved.

WET BALLOTS SWAMP DRYS IN REFERENDUM

Voters Demand Repeal by Huge Majority.

voters by action of the Chicago Republican organization, which sent a petition bearing 400,000 signatures to Springfield, causing the questions to be put to a referendum. The Democratic organization, under the leadership of James Hamilton Lewis, recommended a "Yes" vote on all three propositions.

The victory of the wets downstate was hailed as evidence that sentiment of this long dry territory is changing. In the last referendum, in 1926, downstate went dry by a slight majority, the state at large going wet because of the two to one wet margin in Cook county.

In 1922 the proposition was to permit the manufacture and sale of light wines and beer for home consumption and the result was: Yes, 1,065,242; no, 512,111. The 1926 question was to legalize beverages which "are not in fact intoxicating" as determined by various states. The vote was: Yes, 840,631; no, 556,592.

THREE STATES VOTE WET

Opposition to prohibition was expressed in emphatic fashion in the states where an opportunity was given the voters to declare themselves directly. The wets won overwhelmingly in referenda in Rhode Island and Massachusetts as well as in Illinois.

These victories, coupled with the election of wet senatorial and congressional candidates in Illinois, Ohio, Massachusetts, and other states, furnished cause for jubilation in the wet camp. The day's successes were hailed as a step toward eventual repeal or modification of prohibition laws.

Voters in Rhode Island declared for repeal of the 18th amendment. The latest figures show for repeal, 149,462; against 44,067.

In Massachusetts latest available figures show for repeal of the state dry enforcement act, 173,368; against, 126,369. Only in Massachusetts of the three states holding referenda did the Anti-Saloon league present organized resistance.

There was but a single question on the ballot in Rhode Island and Massachusetts instead of three as in Illinois where the voters declared for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, modification of the Volstead act and repeal of the state enforcement law.

It was the belief of the wets that the outcome of the referendum votes in the three states would furnish an impelling motive to a number of members of congress in these states who have heretofore been dry to declare themselves for repeal or modification of prohibition laws.

The question in Rhode Island was as follows:

"The eighteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States—shall it be retained?"

Arizona Governor Contest Close; Hunt's Lead Slight

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 4.—(AP)—George W. P. Hunt, Democrat, six times governor, and Gov. John C. Phillips, Republican incumbent, went into a close contest tonight when the governor cut into Hunt's early lead materially. The vote for governor was: Hunt, 14,754; Phillips, 14,013, with 82 complete and 149 incomplete out of 491 precincts reporting.

WET DEMOCRAT WINNER IN OHIO FOR U. S. SENATE

Carries State Ticket to Victory.

BULLETIN.

Columbus, O., Nov. 5 (2 a. m.)—(AP)—Latest returns—5,611 precincts give for governor: White (Dem.), 583,668; Cooper (Rep.), 528,352.

Columbus, O., Nov. 5, 2 p. m.—(Special.)—Robert J. Bulkley, Cleveland, Democrat running on a wet platform calling for a repeal of the eighteenth amendment, was elected to the United States senate today and carried with him practically the entire state ticket. In 5,296 of the 8,985 precincts in the state Bulkley polled 537,571 and his opponent, Roscoe C. McCulloch, Canton, a bone dry, 468,397.

George White, Marietta, Democratic candidate for governor, had run up a lead of more than 50,000 in 4,937 precincts of the 8,985 precincts over his Republican opponent, Myers Y. Cooper.

White Majority Gaining.

White was picking up a majority of about ten votes on a precinct, indicating that his lead would be more than 100,000 when the final vote was tallied. In 4,937 precincts Cooper had polled 453,768 as against 504,606 for White.

Bulkley was amassing large majorities in most of the large city counties where he was expected to run strong. He also was showing surprising strength in some of the small rural dry counties.

Longworth in Close Race.

Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the house, was among the Republican congressmen finding it hard going. He had 14,571 against 13,789 for John W. Patterson, his Democratic opponent, with several precincts yet to be heard from.

From his home in Cleveland, Mr. Bulkley issued a statement in which he said:

"It is clear that Ohio is not satisfied with the results of the 18th amendment to our constitution and is ready to bring to an end the federal government's prohibition activities and restore to the several states the authority to deal wit hthe question."

Missouri Goes Back Into the Democratic Column

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Return of Missouri to the Democratic column in the national house of representatives was indicated tonight by incomplete returns which showed Congressman J. J. Manlove, Republican incumbent, as the lone Republican candidate in the lead.

Close races were reported between Hopkins, Republican incumbent, and Culver, Democrat, in the Fourth district, and Kiefner, Republican incumbent, and Williams, Democrat, in the Thirteenth.

REPORT 3 COPS DISCHARGED FOR POLL ACTIVITIES

Three county highway policemen of the Homewood station were reported to have been discharged last night because of their election activities yesterday in defiance of Sheriff John E. Traeger's orders that all men were to report for duty in case of election disorders.

The three are Frank McGillen, John M. Hines, and Frank Dubish. Inquiry at the Willow Springs and Morton Grove headquarters and at the county jail revealed that a number of men assigned there also had been absent in order to work for their political sponsors, and numerous dismissals today were predicted.

Sheriff Traeger at his home last night said the order was intended as a matter of public safety and that the men would have been needed in case of election disorders. He said his move had no political significance.

DEMOCRAT IN LEAD FOR U. S. SENATE IN SOUTH DAKOTA RACE

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Gov. W. J. Bulow, Democrat, was leading Senator W. H. McMaster, northwest Independent Republican, by about 3,500 votes tonight when half the state had reported.

At the same time, a Republican farmer—Warren Green—was nearly 10,000 ahead of D. A. McCullough, Democratic banker, in the governorship race.

Unofficial returns tabulated by the Associated Press gave Bulow 58,439 and McMaster 54,927 in 973 of 1,928 precincts.

MORROW WINNER IN DOUBLE RACE FOR JERSEY TOGA

Bad Weather Cuts Down His Total.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 5.—[2 a. m.]—[Special.]—Dwight W. Morrow, former ambassador to Mexico, was hourly increasing his impressive lead over two Democratic opponents in his race for both the full and short terms for United States senator from New Jersey early this morning as the late returns came in. The figures from 663 of 3,321 districts gave Mr. Morrow 95,456 and Alexander D. Simpson, former Democratic state senator from Hudson county, 32,639.

Original Estimate Cut.

While Republican leaders who originally had claimed that Mr. Morrow would run up a majority of 200,000 were paring down their estimates to be between 75,000 and 100,000, the indications were that Mr. Morrow might roll up a plurality over Mr. Simpson of more than 200,000 if his average for the 663 districts was maintained at 64. Unfavorable weather and overconfidence of Republican voters were credited with cutting his vote.

Democratic leaders claimed that the 663 districts included only 17 in Hudson county, where the vote is running 4 and 5 to 1 for Simpson. W. Bertan Mott, chairman of the Republican state committee, early this morning said a conservative estimate of Mr. Morrow's majority would be 100,000.

Tabulations Are Slow.

Tabulations of returns from 739 districts showed that Mr. Morrow was leading Miss Thelma Parkinson, Smith college graduate in the race for the short term of vacancy caused by the resignation of Walter E. Edge to become ambassador to France, by a vote of 108,972 to 65,524.

Although tabulations were unusually slow because of complications growing out of the inclusion of bond issue proposals, incomplete returns indicated that the $100,000,000 bond issue proposals were running behind; that the Democrats were leading in contests for the house of representatives in six districts nominally Republican, and that the state legislature was overwhelmingly Republican.

50 CENTS A VOTE IS STANDARD FOR 'CLEANEST WARD'

Hinky Dink's Province Holds an Election.

Democracy and prosperity were triumphant in the South State street district of the First ward yesterday. The instructed ballot took care of democracy and 50 cents a vote, with no arbitrary limit on repeaters, provided the prosperity. Everybody had a good time and the general comment was "a quiet, orderly election."

Last August Michael (Hinky Dink) Kenna, for forty years boss of the First ward, appeared before County Judge Jarecki to proclaim his "the cleanest ward in the city." A reporter, therefore, spent yesterday in the State street lodging house district, where as many as 139 free men are registered from the same address, to observe a clean ward at the polls.

The first citizen who took any notice of the reporter was Mr. Patrick Sheehan—born in Boston but raised in the old country—who wore a long black overcoat, a cap with a broken bill, a white Lewis for senator badge, and a tomato nose.

"Do You Want 50 Cents?"

"Have you voted, son?" inquired Mr. Sheehan, extending a long, quivering hand. "Do you want to make 50 cents?" He was told that a vote had been cast in another precinct.

"Well, I voted once in the 27th ward and then voted here," he replied. "But that was all right, I voted in the 27th ward for my son. He's in Minnesota. Excuse me."

Mr. Sheehan caught the arm of a passing prospect. "Have you voted yet, pardner?" A short conference ensued and Mr. Sheehan escorted the patriot to the door of the 8th precinct polling place. The voter emerged five minutes later and went into the corner cigar store, where he remarked to the proprietor: "I've voted six times today and I'm gonna vote four more times. That'll be five dollars for the day's work."

Get Too Drunk to Work.

For three hours Mr. Sheehan was observed sauntering from one citizen to another, always with the same query, "Want to make 50 cents?" And most of them did. The four polling places in the two blocks between 8th and 10th streets were constantly attended by from twenty-five to one hundred of the 25 cents a day lodgers throughout the day, and it was a simple matter to single out one of them, and watch him vote two or three times, often in the same polling place.

These men were not the unemployed type, who, on Michigan avenue approach a stranger for the price of a bit of food. They frankly asked for enough to buy a drink. But when they got too drunk Mr. Sheehan would have nothing to do with them and they would walk away grumbling about "such a tight election."

"No use trying to take care of a fellow when he's drunk," Mr. Sheehan told the reporter.

Some of the precinct captains for the anti-Thompson Republican faction, assigned to assist the Democrats and Thompson Republicans in watching the polls, were asked about conditions.

"We're going along," one of them said.

"Any repeaters?"

"Lots of them."

This man, when asked why he did not challenge them, jerked his shoulders in a gesture of futility. "If we do they overrule us," he said. "If we say nothing, we get a few votes, but if we squawked we'd get nothing." Another captain explained how it was possible for a man to vote a half dozen times in the same place.

"They register these floaters by the hundreds, under any names," he said. "Then when a bum comes in to vote, they instruct him. He can use any name on the precinct roll."

"Watch Out for U. S."

The roll of the 9th precinct lists 130 names at 652 South State street. This is the address of the Loyal hotel, where rooms may be had for forty cents a day. Other lists contained more than 200 names at one address.

Although vote buying and instructed balloting was reported at all the State street polling places from Van Buren to 12th street, conditions were the most flagrant in the 8th precinct, where Mr. Sheehan worked. No repeaters were reported in the 9th precinct, because a captain stated, "orders are out to watch out for the G." A deputy United States marshal was a watcher there.

A city policeman mingled with Mr. Sheehan's prospects across the street. He took no notice of the soliciting until a photographer appeared on the scene. "Go on, move out of here," he ordered, and the crowd dispersed.

"Hinky Dink" was making the rounds yesterday conferring with the boys at each polling place.

OLSON DEFEATED IN COURT RACE; LYLE TRAILING

9 Other Sitting G. O. P. Judges Are Losers.

Chief Justice Harry Olson went down to defeat with nine sitting judges of the Municipal court on the Republican ticket in the swirling Democratic storm of votes, returns from representative precincts indicated this morning. The Democratic candidates for bailiff and clerk of the courts were carried into office along with thirteen of the fourteen Democratic nominees for associate judgeships.

Chief Justice Olson was one of the founders of the court and has held the post since its organization in 1906. He had been reelected in the past in the face of heavy Democratic victories. He was victor in the recent bar association poll by a slight margin over his opponent, John J. Sonsteby, former school board trustee and once assistant corporation counsel. The margin in the bar poll was not regarded as an indication of a close fight as Chief Justice Olson was considered a good vote getter.

Judge John H. Lyle, leader in the campaign against public enemies, whose popularity during the campaign was considered positive evidence of his ability to lead the ticket, was the one Republican who appeared to have a chance for victory. He was leading his ticket and was creeping up on the Democrats as the returns came in.

For the chief justiceship 1,100 precincts out of 3,009 in Chicago gave: Stonsteby, 144,071; Olson, 111,083. The same number of precincts gave Albert J. Horan, Democratic nominee for bailiff of the court, 137,148, against 108,192 for Bernard J. Kelly, Republican. Joseph L. Gill, Democratic candidate for court clerk, received 171,574 against 125,305 for James A. Kearns, who has held the office for twelve years.

Seven hundred and fifty precincts gave the following on the associate judgeships:

Democrat.		Republican.
O'Connell, J.	120,762	*Lupe	87,776

Democratic candidates for the five vacancies in the Superior court and the one in the Circuit court were indicated victors in the sweeping landslide on early returns this morning. All held better than even in the country towns and paced to 2 to 1 leads in the city precincts.

Howard W. Hayes, who had been considered a certain victor, was far behind John Prystalski, although he was ahead of the other Republican candidates.

Returns from 750 city precincts and 155 country precincts gave the following:

Wisconsin Records Another Landslide for a La Follette

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Phil F. La Follette, 33, younger son of the late Robert M. La Follette, was elected governor of Wisconsin today by the traditional landslide majority always given members of his family.

He joins in public life his brother Robert M. La Follette Jr., who is the senior senator from Wisconsin. They are Progressive Republicans.

Victory Virtually Assured.

La Follette had been virtually assured of victory when he won the Republican nomination in the September primary over Gov. Walter J. Kohler in 30 years this state has not elected a Democrat as governor nor has it rejected a La Follette.

La Follette, who becomes one of the two youngest governors in the United States, led Charles E. Hammersley, Democratic nominee, by nearly three to one.

The vote in 2,001 precincts out of 2,286 was: La Follette, 260,467; Hammersley, 103,310.

State Officials Reelected.

The remainder of the state ticket was reelected. The officials were Lieut. Gov. Henry A. Huber, Attorney General John W. Reynolds, Secretary of State Theodore Dammann, and Treasurer Solomon Levitan. They ran ahead of La Follette in the ratio of victory.

It was just thirty years ago to a day that the senior La Follette, now dead, was first elected governor of Wisconsin. Adding a strange twist to this election was the fact that Hammersley's father, 50 years ago, had lent his aid to "Old Bob" when the latter ran for his first public office, district attorney of Dane county.

Ten Republican nominees for congress appeared to have won, but in the Sixth district Philip Lehner [R.] was defeated by M. K. Reilly [D.], an avowed wet, by 50c votes.

SEE DEMOCRATS OF ILLINOIS GAIN 7 CONGRESS SEATS

Three Victories in Cook County Indicated.

Late returns indicated that the Democrats gained three congressional seats from Cook county districts, two and possibly three seats downstate, and the two places as members of congress at large. Correspondingly, the complexion of the Illinois delegation to Washington had been changed by wet gains of eight or nine seats.

The defeat of Congressman Elliott W. Sproul of the 3d district and Carl R. Chindblom of the 10th district, both Republicans, was forecast by the returns, and it appeared that a Democrat, Leonard W. Schuetz, had won in the 7th district, succeeding Congressman M. A. ["Leaky Trunk"] Michaelson, a dry Republican, who was defeated in the primaries.

De Priest in Close Race.

Congressman Oscar De Priest, only colored member of the house to be elected in 48 years, was running close on partial returns, but it was the belief of leaders in that district that the vote of the Negro section had not been reported.

Downstate reports were that Congressman W. E. Hull of Peoria, for years a dry voting member, but who switched to the wet cause last spring, had been beaten. A dispatch from Pana, Ill., announced the election of former Congressman J. Earl Major of Hillsboro, a Democrat, over Roger E. Chapin of Springfield, Republican indorsed by the Anti-Saloon league, to succeed a Republican.

The defeat of Congressman-at-Large Richard Yates, one time governor of Illinois, and Frank L. Smith, who was once elected senator but was not seated, appeared certain from the returns available at midnight. Both were drys and Republicans, and their victorious opponents, William H. Dieterich of Beardstown and Walter Nesbit of Belleville, are Democrats and wets.

MRS. McCORMICK SEES DEFEAT AS AFFAIR OF PARTY

Laughs at Question on What Caused It.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

Ruth Hanna McCormick, in acknowledging her defeat for the United States senatorship last night, stressed the same points that she has stressed during her campaign for that office: the insignificance of the personal pronoun in comparison with the importance of party principle; her own continuing faith in the fundamental principles of the Republican party; and her earnest prediction that the landslide which snowed her under did not incapacitate her for further public service.

At her headquarters in the Hotel La Salle, late last night, she made the following statement:

"I want to express to those men and women of Illinois who worked for me and voted for me, my appreciation of their confidence and support. I made a vigorous, sincere campaign on the issues as I saw them. So far as I am personally concerned, I shall continue to take an active interest in public service. My faith in Republican policies and principles remains the same. I shall continue to support my party enthusiastically.

Holds to Convictions.

"I still hold the conviction that this country would be better served by an administration in Washington cooperating with a congress that would insure unified Republican control.

"So far as the result of my own candidacy is concerned I cheerfully accept it, as I believe in majority rule. The victory or defeat of candidates is of little moment as compared with the importance of wisely charting our course for the next few years. It is not possible at this hour clearly to analyze the reasons for the Republican losses in this and other states. I shall only say now that I shall regard it as my first duty to assist as a member of congress, to the utmost of my ability, in the solution of the present difficulties which concern our people everywhere.'

Laughs at Defeat Query?

Urging her to comment further on the statement, a young man asked solemnly, "Mrs. McCormick, to what do you attribute your defeat?"

She laughed.

"What causes anybody's defeat but the fact that somebody else got more votes? Mr. Lewis got the votes. I still believe in majority rule; so there's no use whining, is there?"

Then she called a stenographer to her and dictated the following telegram to her victorious opponent:

"May I offer you my congratulations on your election as United States senator."

As the copies were passed out a reporter, detailing the message to a comrade, muttered something about "congratulate on victory."

"I didn't say 'victory,' corrected Mrs. McCormick, I said, 'election.'"

Completes Dramatic Cycle.

It was very early in the evening that she and her associates realized that this was the dramatic completion of a circle that has taken many years and several hard hitting campaigns to swing around the circuit. James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic United States senator, was defeated for reelection by Medill McCormick. At the end of his first term, Senator McCormick was defeated in the primaries by Charles S. Deneen. Last spring Senator Deneen was beaten overwhelmingly in the primary race by the widow of the man he had beaten. And last night this same woman was defeated by the man her husband had whipped, at the beginning of the story.

But it wasn't of history that Mrs. McCormick was thinking last night; it was of wards and precincts in her own state of Illinois; and it was, with an almost equal eagerness, of the changes that were writing themselves into the history of other states in the country.

She motored out to her home town of Byron, Ill., before noon yesterday to cast her ballot, and she didn't get back to town until 7 o'clock. Eight o'clock found her over at her headquarters, where the first thing that met her eyes was a circle of lugubrious looking women.

She came in jauntily, and instantly the tempo changed. People began to smile; voices took on tone.

Studies Other Results.

She tossed her hat on the table, slipped off her coat and sat down at a telephone. She talked to Ohio and puzzled over the curious mingling of Democrat and Republican; she talked to Indiana and got the Democratic news from there: she learned the one of the women members of the house was winning her reelection and she wired her congratulations.

In between times she penciled figures on sheets of paper; but she penciled to analyze, not to tease herself with an idea of victory. Katrina, her eighteen year old daughter, who has made the campaign with her, took the defeat with her, bravely. The two will remain in Chicago until Sunday when Mrs. McCormick leaves for Colorado to visit her young son, Medill, in school there, and Katrina returns to their Washington home where the third child, nine year old Ruth Elizabeth, is in school.

WETS TRIUMPH IN CONTESTS FOR ASSEMBLY

Repeal Advocates Gain Ballot Decisions.

The Democratic landslide and outpouring of anti-prohibition sentiment throughout the state yesterday resulted in victory for virtually all the state legislative candidates who expressed themselves in opposition to the 18th amendment and the state prohibition laws, early unofficial returns indicated this morning.

More than a dozen new senators and more than three times that number of representatives were picked by the voters, and practically all of them were pledged to seek modification or repeal of the dry laws.

In two districts in Chicago the senatorial nominees were elected without opposition. They are Daniel A. Serritella, Republican, in the First district, and Senator John Broderick, Democrat, in the Twenty-seventh. Both are wet.

In the 3d, 5th, 7th, 9th, and 11th districts, all in Chicago, the sitting senators appear to have won. In the order their districts were named they are: Abelbert H. Roberts [Rep.], Roy C. Woods [Rep.], Arthur A. Huebsch [Rep.], Patrick J. Carroll [Dem.], and Thomas J. Courtney [Dem.].

Battle in 13th District.

In the 13th district the contest between Senator Harry W. Starr, the Republican nominee for reelection, and Francis J. Loughran, Democrat, is still in doubt. Peter P. Kielminski, Democrat, appears to be leading Simon A. Murray, Republican, in the 15th district contest to succeed Senator John J. Boehm, Democrat, who was defeated in the primary.

The 17th district race between Senator James B. Leonardo, Republican, and John Harold Morteil, Democrat, also is close with Leonardo holding the edge.

Richey V. Graham, Democrat, who retired from the house of representatives to enter the 19th district senatorial race, is leading Robert Dusek, the Republican choice, and the early returns indicate his election.

Another close race is being decided in the 21st district between Francis A. Horrigan, Republican, and George M. Maypole, Democrat, to succeed Senator Edward J. Hughes, a Democrat. Maypole has the advantage.

Mason Trails Gillmeister.

Senator Lowell B. Mason, Republican, seeking reelection in the Twenty-third district, was trailing William F. Gillmeister, Democrat, in the early returns. Mason had been a dry voting senator, but twice had been involved in liquor scandals.

In the Twenty-fifth district Frank J. Ruckin Jr., Democrat, is battling Oscar C. Johnson, Republican, in their contest to succeed Senator Theodore R. Steinert, Republican. Charles Peace, the Republican nominee in the 29th district, has a margin over Edward P. O'Grady, the Democratic nominee, in the early returns. Harold G. Ward, Democrat, is giving Senator Herman J. Haenisch, Republican, a close fight in the 31st district.

The only contests for the house of representatives in Chicago and Cook county districts were in the 7th, 11th, 19th, 25th, and 31st. In the 7th the candidates are the three incumbents, Anna Wilmarth Ickes [Rep.], William F. Dropper [Rep.], and Emmett McGrath [Dem.], and Frank E. Foster [Rep.]. The three sitting representatives were holding an early lead.

Lee Appears as One Winner.

In the 11th district George A. Fitzgerald [Dem.], is competing with Representatives David I. Swanson [Rep.] and Calvin T. Weeks [Rep.] for one of the three seats. Representative John M. Lee [Dem.] appears to be reelected. The 19th district contest is in doubt, with Representative John R. McSweeney [Dem.] holding an early lead over three other candidates, Representative Charles E. Marinier and Solomon P. Roderick [Rep.], and John O. Hruby [Dem.].

Benjamin S. Adamowski, Democrat, son of the late Ald. Max Adamowski, on the basis of the first figures, is assured of a seat from the 25th district, along with Representative Rena Elrod and Representative Edwin B. Bederman, Republican nominee for reelection. Raymond T. O'Keefe, Democrat, is the fourth candidate.

In the 8th district, which consists of Lake, McHenry, and Boone counties, Representative R. J. Lyons of Mundelein, Representative Lee McDonough of Waukegan, and William M. Carroll of Woodstock, Republicans, and Thomas A. Bolger of McHenry, a Democrat, are in a contest for the three seats.

Five nominees are running in the 10th district, Ogle and Winnebago counties. Two incumbents, Representative Leroy M. Green of Rockford, and Representative David Hunter of Rockford, Republicans, appear to have been reelected. The third place is between Carl O. Nyman, Republican, of Rockford, and Frank B. Wilson, Woosung, and E. T. Hamer, Davis Junction, Democrats.

Representative Frank A. McCarthy, Elgin; John M. Peffers, Aurora, and John F. Petit, Batavia, are leading in the early returns from the 14th district. There was no contest in the 12th, 16th, 18th, and 20th districts.

In the 22d the three incumbents, Karl R. O'Hair [Rep.] of Paris, Hugh M. Luckey [Rep.] of Potomac, and P. J. Breen [Dem.] of Vermilion Grove, are leading W. O. Edwards [Dem.] of Danville. The 24th and 26th districts had no contests. In the 28th Representatives W. C. Chynoweth and John Clark, Republicans, of Decatur are ahead in the first returns, with Evan Worth, Republican, of Lincoln and Howard L. Doyle, Democrat, of Decatur battling for the third place.

Robbins Up for Reelection.

There was no contest in the 30th district. In the 32d Representative Rollo R. Robbins, Republican, of Augusta was the only incumbent to seek reelection. Roy R. Barnes, Republican, of Bushnell and Miss Mary Davidson of Carthage and James C. Taylor of La Harpe, Democrats, are running for the two other seats.

There were no contests in the 33d, 35th, 36th, 40th, 41st, 42d, 43d, 45th, and 51st districts.

ALLEN LOSING TO A DEMOCRAT IN KANSAS RACE

Topeka, Kas., Nov. 5.—[2 a. m.]—(AP)—The senate seat of Henry J. Allen, strong supporter of the Hoover administration, was threatened early today as his Democratic opponent, George McGill, Wichita lawyer, forged into a scant lead on returns from half the precincts in Kansas.

Kansas Republicans, however, reelected Arthur Capper, another administration adherent and the state's senior senator, by a substantial vote over former Gov. Jonathan M. Davis, Democrat.

In the contest for the senate short term the vote in 1,605 precincts out of 2,674 in the state gave: McGill, 168,847; Allen, 167,466.

Frank [Chief] Haucke, Republican, held a narrow lead over Harry Woodring, Democrat, in the race for governor. Returns from 1,386 precincts gave: Haucke, 120,450; Woodring, 116,778; Dr. John R. Brinkley [I.], 86,664.

Gov. Ritchie Winning in Maryland by 7,000

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Returns from 123 polling places out of 1,304 in the state, including 103 in Baltimore, gave Gov. Albert C. Ritchie 22,063 votes to 14,568 for his Republican opponent.

DEMOCRAT LEADS IN CONNECTICUT GOVERNOR RACE

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 5, 2 a. m., Wednesday. — (AP) — Dr. Wilbur L. Cross, Democrat, who, on the face of unofficial and incomplete returns, apparently has been elected the first Democratic governor of Connecticut in a decade, was tenaciously clinging to a lead of slightly more than 3,500 votes at 1:45 a. m.

His Republican opponent, Lieut. Gov. Ernest E. Rogers, pressed him closely as the returns from the rural districts filtered in, but with only five towns out of 169 to be heard from, there was practically no chance of overtaking the college professor.

Rogers conceded defeat early this morning. In a statement he said:

"From unofficial returns it appears as if I am defeated by about 5,000 votes. May I thank my many friends for their loyal support in this Democratic year."

Congressman John A. Tilson [Rep.] was reelected.

OLD BAY STATE VOTES WET AND DEMOCRATS WIN

G. O. P. Loses Senator; Governor Close.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Massachusetts went Democratic and wet in today's election, choosing a wet Democratic United States senator as well as voting to repeal the state Volstead act and while the defection may not extend throughout the entire state ticket, the overturn at the head of the list reflected the outcome of the elections all over the nation.

With the vote of more than half of the state counted before midnight, Marcus A. Coolidge, Democratic candidate for U. S. senator, had a lead of over 50,000 votes over former Senator William M. Butler, former chairman of the Republican national committee, while Joseph B. Ely of Westfield, was leading Gov. Frank G. Allen, Republican seeking re-election, a narrow lead of less than 10,000.

The Vote in State.

The vote from 929 precincts out of 1,005 in the state including 329 of the 338 in the heavily Democratic city of Boston gave:

For governor—Allen, 293,832; Ely, 304,245.

For U. S. senator—Butler, 268,796; Coolidge, 323,938.

At the same time the voters registered an overwhelming sentiment in favor of repeal of the state prohibition enforcement laws which was on the ballot in referendum form. Returns from 570 voting precincts of the state, mostly outside of Boston, showed the wets leading by about 50,000 votes, the total on the question of repeal reading: Yes, 173,368; no, 126,269.

Prohibition Affected Result.

While analysis of the prohibition referendum vote revealed an apparent total disregard of party lines, with communities which supported the dry Republican ticket voting in favor of repeal, it was the general belief of political observers tonight that the Democratic sweep at the head of the ticket resulted not only from the defection of large numbers of wet Republicans but also from a general feeling of discontent with the party in power over business depression and unemployment which expressed itself in a general protest vote.

Early returns from today's elections, mostly from the rural and normally strongly Republican districts, gave Butler and Allen slight leads over their opponents, but it became apparent soon after returns from Boston began to appear that their upstate margins and strength in the more Democratically inclined industrial centers would not be enough to carry them to election.

"ALFALFA BILL" GOES OVER, TAKES GORE WITH HIM

Senator Pine Beaten in Oklahoma.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Obviously the choice of Oklahoma's electorate for governor and United States senator, picturesque W. H. [Alfalfa Bill] Murray and Thomas P. Gore, sightless former member of the upper house, rolled up imposing Democratic leads late tonight.

Murray led Ira Hill, Republican gubernatorial nominee, 161,281 to 95,135, when votes from 1,903 out of the state's 3,360 precincts had been reported to the Associated Press. Gore drew farther away from U. S. Senator W. B. Pine, Republican incumbent, leading 138,180 to 103,668 with votes from 1,873 precincts counted.

The defeat of Representative Charles O'Connor of Tulsa left Oklahoma with but one Republican representative in congress. O'Connor's defeat at the hands of Charles Wesley S. Disney, Democrat, seemed certain at 11:30, with but few rural precincts to hear from. Representative M. C. Garber, Republican incumbent from Enid, Okla., has been returned to congress.

Fifth district returns also spelled the doom of Representative U. S. Stone, Republican incumbent, and made certain the election of F. B. Swank, former Democratic congressman, defeated in the Hoover landslide two years ago.

Murray's popularity with the labor and farm vote and resentment against the Hoover administration were largely responsible for the Democratic landslide and the defeat of Senator Pine.

Concedes 100,000 Majority.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Daily Oklahoman at 9 o'clock tonight conceded the election of William H. Murray, Democratic nominee for governor, by a vote in excess of 100,000 majority over his Republican opponent, Ira A. Hill. The Oklahoman also estimated that former United States Senator Thomas P. Gore, Democrat, would beat W. B. Pine, Republican incumbent in the senate, by around 80,000 votes.

Gov. F. B. Balzar Leads for Re-election in Nevada

Reno, Nev., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Gov. Fred B. Balzar, Republican, was leading Charles L. Richards, Democrat, in incomplete reports.

DEMOCRATS GAIN 50 HOUSE SEATS AND 8 SENATORS

Wet Bloc's Strength Is Greatly Increased.

for the governorship by 100,000 votes.

The extent to which the Republicans suffered from the discontent due to hard times and unemployment was graphically revealed in New Jersey, where Dwight W. Morrow, Republican candidate for the senate, was elected, but by only a fraction of the plurality expected. The prohibition issue did not figure in this contest, inasmuch as Mr. Morrow and his Democratic opponent were both in favor of repeal of national prohibition. The pinch of hard times and unemployment in New Jersey, however, resulted in reducing the Republican and increasing the Democratic vote.

Some Surprising Upsets.

The upsets left in the wake of the landslide are impressive. In Illinois, which was carried by President Hoover two years ago by a plurality of 456,000, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican candidate for the senate, was defeated by her Democratic opponent, former Senator James Hamilton Lewis, by a margin of 600,000 or 650,000.

Ohio, which recorded itself dry and Republican two years ago by a plurality of 760,000 votes for Mr. Hoover, went wet and Democratic yesterday by upwards of 100,000. It elected Robert Johns Bulkley, wet Democrat, to the senate in place of Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch, dry Republican.

Another Democratic gain was scored in Massachusetts, where former Senator William M. Butler, dry Republican, was defeated for the senate by Marcus Aurelius Coolidge, wet Democrat.

Colorado, which Mr. Hoover carried in 1928 by 120,000, elected a Democratic senator yesterday in the person of Edward P. Costigan, who is a dry and a radical and who will affiliate with the Norris-La Follette group in the senate. Mr. Costigan won by 30,000 plurality.

Gore Wins in Oklahoma.

Former Senator Thomas P. Gore, a Democrat with wet inclinations, defeated Senator William B. Pine, dry Republican, in Oklahoma, which Mr. Hoover carried two years ago by 175,000. The issue was not prohibition but hard times in Oklahoma.

In Minnesota, which gave Mr. Hoover a plurality of 164,000 in 1928 and in which the Democratic party has been more or less non-existent for years, Einar Hoidale, wet Democrat, defeated Senator Thomas D. Schall, dry Republican.

South Dakota, carried by Mr. Hoover by a margin of 55,000, contributed another Democratic gain in the senate. Gov. W. J. Bulow, Democrat, defeated Senator W. H. McMaster, Republican, for reelection.

Likewise in West Virginia, which gave Mr. Hoover a 112,000 vote margin two years ago, former Senator M. M. Neely, Democrat, defeated James E. Jones, Republican, for the senate.

The only Republican gain in the senate was that in Iowa, where Senator Daniel F. Steck, Democrat, was defeated for reelection by Representative L. J. Dickinson, Republican.

Hoover's One Man Beaten.

One of the upsets which was specifically a repudiation of the Hoover administration was the defeat of Congressman B. Carroll Reece, Republican, for congress in the first Tennessee district by O. B. Lovette, independent Republican. The Republican primary in this district last summer came into prominence because it is the only one in which President Hoover intervened. He wrote a letter commending the position of Mr. Reece on the Muscle Shoals bill. Mr. Reece won the nomination and entered the election with the badge of Mr. Hoover's indorsement, but Mr. Lovette filed as an independent candidate and beat the Hoover nominee.

In Rhode Island Senator Jesse H. Metcalf, Republican, succeeded in reelecting himself over Peter G. Gerry.

NO COMMENT FROM WHITE HOUSE GROUP LISTENING TO RETURNS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—No official comment on the election was forthcoming from the White House tonight, where the President with members of his official and personal family listened in on the early returns, which disclosed a strong Democratic trend throughout many states normally Republican.

Although officials had nothing official to say regarding the apparently overwhelming defeat of Mrs. Ruth McCormick, Republican senatorial candidate, by James Hamilton Lewis, it was manifest that the size of the Democratic victory had come as a surprise. Word received from Illinois in recent days had, however, prepared the President for a close race and possibly a Democratic defeat.

With the President in the White House library were Mrs. Hoover, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde and Secretary of the Interior Wilbur.

wet Democrat, by declaring himself two weeks before the election in favor of repeal of national prohibition. The state voted in a referendum for repeal of the Eighteenth amendment.

The drys won in Delaware, which elected Senator Daniel O. Hastings, a dry Republican, instead of Thomas F. Bayard, wet Democrat.

A repudiation of Hoover Democrats was recorded in Alabama, where Senator Tom Heflin, a Democrat who bolted the nomination of Al Smith and supported Mr. Hoover, was overwhelmingly defeated an an independent candidate by John H. Bankhead, the regular Democratic nominee. Senator Heflin had been excluded from the Democratic primary because he bolted his party two years ago. He was punished as a deserter like Senator Furnifold Simmons in North Carolina, who also bolted Smith and was defeated for renomination last spring.

No returns from Kentucky were available because of the state law requiring that the ballot boxes shall not be open till today, but the estimates of political leaders favored the election of M. M. Logan, Democrat, over Senator Robsion, Republican.

Party Lines Torn Down.

Analysis of the returns discloses a shattering of party lines unprecedented, with the possible exception of the Hoover-Smith contest for the presidency two years ago. Both parties suffered from wholesale bolting yesterday, and for one of the reasons—prohibition—accounting for the mugwumpcy of 1928. The other reason—religion—did not figure yesterday.

In every state in which prohibition was an issue in this election hordes of wet Republicans plumped for wet Democratic candidates, while dry Democrats supported dry Republicans. In a few regions the situation was reversed, dry Republicans deserting their party to support dry Democratic candidates and wet Democrats going over to support wet Republicans.

Economic conditions and prohibition were almost everywhere the questions upon which the election turned. In the big cities in which there is an enormous amount of unemployment and also a predominant wet sentiment wet Democratic candidates made the best showing against their Republican rivals. In such territory it was hard to determine whether it was hard times or the prohibition issue that was actuating Republicans the more in voting for Democratic nominees or in staying away from the polls altogether.

Strong Protest Vote.

In the dry Republican rural districts, however, the returns disclosed so many Democrats either defeating Republicans or giving them such a close run that it was evident the Democrats were benefiting from a widespread disposition to blame the party in power for the current depression of business and of agriculture. Another evidence of the disfavor of the party in power on the economic issue was the marked apathy of voters in many strongly Republican districts, causing them to stay away from the polls altogether.

The cry of hard times and of the alleged responsibility of the Hoover administration therefor was raised by the Democrats early in the election canvass and pressed with great vigor. This was in accord with a time honored political rule, that the party in power takes credit for prosperity and the party out of power blames the party in power for business depression.

That these seeds sown by the Democrats were falling upon fallow ground became apparent by the middle of the summer, when the country was beginning to feel the brunt of the depression and unemployment was becoming widespread.

During the greater part of the campaign the President manifested a disposition to remain aloof from the contest.

In the last fortnight of the canvass, however, the administration came into the struggle with its heaviest guns and delivered itself of a supreme effort to rout the Democrats in the fight over the responsibility for hard times. Secretary of State Stimson, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Secretary of War Hurley, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, Secretary of Labor Davis and Secretary of the Interior Wilbur either took the stump or delivered radio addresses in which the Hoover administration was defended generally from the Democratic attacks, and the hard times and unemployment prevailing in America were ascribed to a world wide industrial depression growing out of post-war overproduction, with which Mr. Hoover and his administration had nothing to do.

Avoid Prohibition Issue.

The administration orators avoided mention of prohibition and confined themselves to the economic issue, defense of the Hoover administration, and exploitation of the President's accomplishments in office.

It is as a curtain raiser for the great drama of 1932 that the wets looked upon the election yesterday. They realized the impossibility of overturning the overwhelmingly dry majority in the senate and house, in each of which bodies the number of drys approximates 75 per cent of the membership, but they did look to the gain of wet votes in the senate and house to give a formidable impetus to the movement for repeal of the eighteenth amendment following the election two years hence.

What with the gains recorded in the 1930 election and what with the spread of anti-prohibition sentiment they confidently look for in the next two years, the wet leadership aims at the election of an administration and a congress in 1932 definitely committed to the repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Drys Minimize Result.

While conceding that the 1930 election had increased the number of wet votes in the next congress, the dry leaders minimized the extent of the wet gains and insisted that analysis of the returns demonstrates that the country is still overwhelmingly committed to national prohibition.

DENIES GARBAGE WAS USED TO FILL RIVER CHANNEL

William J. Newman, president of the company bearing his name, which has the contract for filling in the old channel of the river between Polk and 16th streets, yesterday denied that garbage or any other perishable material had been used as a fill in violation of the terms of his contract. Only solid fill was used on the entire job, Mr. Newman stated.

Mr. Newman's statement was in answer to the statement made by Ald. Arthur F. Albert [43d] that a complaint had been made to him that garbage had been used. In giving publicity to the complaint, Ald. Albert announced that he would ask the council committee on efficiency, economy, and rehabilitation to investigate the complaint.

"Not a pound of garbage was dumped in the old channel bed," said Mr. Newman. "The health department had inspectors on the job to see that no perishable material went in the old channel and they never found any. I have done work for the city before and have always observed strictly the terms of my contracts."

WOMEN CAPTURE FOUR PLACES ON COUNTY BOARD

Ahead in Vote to Serve on Juries.

In the feminine political camp this morning there is as much of rejoicing as of regret left in the wake of the landslide of yesterday. For even though the proud post of United States senator had fallen into masculine custody, Cook county had elected a quartet of women as county commissioners—conceded, individually and collectively, to be exceptionally high grade political material.

Moreover, a seesaw back and forth in the bulletins on the women on jury referendum kept hope high that the measure would ultimately carry. Downstate it was almost universally a losing contest despite a heavy vote on the measure. But in the urban areas of Cook county every precinct added a bit more to the possibility that the quarters for women jurors, built into the new Criminal court building by a forward looking officialdom, would soon be utilized.

In the wee small hours this morning, the vote stood at 85,488 for and 69,842 against the proposal in 1,074 precincts out of 7,109 in the state. In Cook county, 415 precincts out of 2,470 voted 45,806 for and 27,546 against the proposal.

Miss Sears Gets Big Vote.

Miss Amelia Sears, whose 30 years of experience in active social welfare work had won her innumerable friends and supporters, had a vote of 25,306 for 140 precincts from Chicago proper, which was not far behind the vote of Anton Cermak for the same number of precincts. Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb, widow of the labor attorney and a trained social worker, had 24,761 votes, and Miss Mary McEnerney, widely known for her labor union affiliations, had 24,955.

In comparison, the largest vote on the Republican side of the county commissioners section of the ballot at that time was 10,978, polled by Paul Schulze.

Equally cheering news was given in the only report received up to that time on the race in the country towns, where the fourth member of the feminine troupe of county board candidates, Mrs. Edwin J. Fleming, was running third out of a field of ten candidates. Her total vote from 35 precincts out of 461 was 4,083. The largest individual vote polled then was 4,207, also in the Democratic column.

Mrs. Batterton in Lead.

Mrs. Eva B. Batterton, Democrat, of Springfield, who was opposing Francis Blair, the incumbent for many years, as a candidate for superintendent of public instruction for the state, was in the lead. Blair's vote was piling up downstate, but it appeared that Mrs. Batterton, who got a heavy lead in Cook county, would be elected.

Early in the evening Mrs. Mary Joyce, an independent candidate for state senator in the 29th district, conceded that she had fallen a victim to the isolation of the independent names on the unprecedentedly large ballot. Her candidacy was colored with drama, since she entered the race after the death of her husband, the former state senator from that district, who had been nominated in the primaries.

At a late hour little had been learned about the fate of three other women prominent in the campaign—Miss Josephine Perry, for state representative in the Fifth district, Mrs. Anna Wilmarth Ickes in the Seventh and Mrs. Rena Elrod in the Twenty-fifth. The latter two already have served at Springfield and were asking reelection. All are Republicans.

G. O. P. ELECTS ROLPH GOVERNOR OF CALIFORNIA

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 4.—(AP)—(Sunny Jim) Rolph, more formally known as Mayor James Rolph Jr., of San Francisco, and his Republican cohorts were riding toward the state capitol tonight on a wave of votes.

As returns poured in San Francisco's "perpetual mayor" held his lead of two to one over Milton K. Young, Los Angeles Democrat, in the race for governor. The vote from 1,744 complete and incomplete precincts out of the state's 10,283 gave: Rolph, 141,078; Young, 71,835; Upton Sinclair, Socialist, Pasadena, 9,477.

The tickets will be good in coaches or chair cars. The special low rate applies via the famous daylight scenic route through Denver, Colorado Springs, Royal Gorge, Colorado Rockies, Salt Lake City, and San Francisco. METCALF'S LEAD IN RHODE ISLAND RACE IS NARROW Former Senator Gerry Is Close to His Rival.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 5 [2 a. m.] —(AP)—The outcome of the battle for the U. S. senate seat now occupied by Jesse H. Metcalf, Republican, hung in the balance early today after votes cast yesterday in 218 of the state's 222 election districts had been tabulated.

The tabulations gave Metcalf a lead, 108,867 to 106,456, over his Democratic opponent, former Senator Peter G. Gerry, but some normally strong Democratic districts remained to be heard from.

Metcalf was running considerably behind the Republican vote cast in the 185 districts two years ago.

Of the present Republican congressmen, Clark Burdick [First district] and Richard S. Aldrich had comfortable leads on a basis of tabulation from about two-thirds of their districts. Francis B. Condon, Democrat, had a slight lead over William R. Fortin, Republican, in the Third district.

Gov. Norman S. Case, Republican, was leading Theodore F. Green, Democrat, by more than 10,000 votes.

MYSTERY PARADE OF TURTLES ENDS IN FIELD MUSEUM

When 2,000 turtles started their unhurried way somewhere or other down Michigan avenue in the midst of traffic Monday they little knew their line of march would lead them to the Field museum. But it did. The turtles, however, are not to be stuffed and placed on exhibit, the Illinois Humane society explained yesterday, but are to be established in a colony all their own.

When no owner appeared to claim the turtles the society agreed to turn them over to Dr. K. P. Schmidt, assistant curator of the Field museum. After a sojourn there the turtles will be taken by Dr. Schmidt to the dunes north of Waukegan, where they will form a colony. They are by name the terrapene ornata species, peculiar to the territory from the Mississippi river west of the Rocky mountains, Dr. Schmidt explained.

Just how popular turtles are among Chicagoans was discovered over the buzzing telephones at the humane society. Fish houses wanted them for soup, aquariums and parks wanted them for exhibiton purposes, and a large number of grownups sought them for pets.

Georgia Democratic Ticket Wins Without Opposition

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Democratic state ticket, headed by Richard B. Russell Jr. for governor and United States Senator W. J. Harris were elected in Georgia today without opposition.

DRY REPUBLICAN TICKET AHEAD IN DELAWARE RACE

Claim Victory Over Wet Democrats.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—With a good half of the vote yet to be heard from, Republican leaders were claiming the reelection of United States Senator Daniel O. Hastings and the triumph of the entire "dry" state ticket nominated with him by a decisive majority tonight.

Estimates of Hastings' margin over his wet Democratic opponent, Thomas F. Bayard, ran up to 5,000. Robert G. Houston, G. O. P. candidate for congress, seemed to be leading the Republican ticket in the early returns.

The first 66 precincts out of the 138 in the city of Wilmington gave Hastings a plurality of 1,188 over Bayard. A gauge to the rural vote was furnished by 15 districts from Newcastle county, which gave Hastings and his Republican colleagues a lead of 797 votes over the Democratic slate.

Some Counties Doubtful.

The Democrats appeared to have carried Kent county, but early returns were too meager to forecast the result in that debatable section.

Sussex county was in the doubtful column with a majority of its precincts still to be heard from, but Republicans were claiming it by a small majority. The Georgetown vote was declared to be a tossup, with some of the larger precincts yet to report.

The campaign was one of the hottest in the history of the state and was featured by serious defections from both party camps—chiefly over the prohibition issue.

Duponts Bolt G. O. P.

Early in the campaign Irenee Du Pont, vice president of the board of directors of the E. I. Du Pont de Nemours company, bolted the Republican party because of its stand in favor of prohibition enforcement and announced his intention of supporting the Democratic nominees.

Pierre Du Pont, a brother of Irenee, also came out in support of Bayard. A group of disaffected Republicans styling themselves the "liberal" wing of the party formally indorsed the candidacy of Bayard and the rest of the Democratic ticket.

Republican Candidate for Sheriff Dies Near Polls

Lincolnton, N. C., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Fred C. Fink, 45, candidate on the Republican ticket for reëlection as sheriff of Lincoln county, died late this afternoon shortly after being taken ill near the Republican campaign headquarters. Sheriff Fink, who had served Lincoln county since 1926, was opposed for reëlection by Maj. J. A. Leonard, Democrat.

GOV. ROOSEVELT BEATS TUTTLE BY 735,000 VOTES

four, Jamestown, Cortland, Johnstown and Oneonta.

Gov. Roosevelt carried the city by a plurality of 556,868 votes over Tuttle. The city vote for gubernatorial candidates was as follows: Roosevelt, 926,665; Tuttle, 369,797; Waldman, 88,329; Carroll, 8,883. The Roosevelt plurality surpassed the record margin of 547,202 piled up by Senator Copeland in 1928.

"Hard Times" Explanation.

The vote for Gov. Roosevelt was piled up despite the vigorous campaign waged by Mr. Tuttle on the issue of judicial corruption and the alleged barter in judicial offices.

In explaining the results the general belief was expressed that the main factor, even above prohibition, was the business depression, with the attendant fall of the stock market and unemployment, coupled with resentment of many of the Republicans against the Hoover administration.

Mrs. Ruth B. Pratt, Republican congresswoman, according to unofficial returns tabulated at her headquarters, retained her seat in congress from the Seventeenth Manhattan district by the scant margin of 606 votes over Magistrate Louis B. Brodsky, her Tammany opponent. Heywood Broun, Socialist, was third with 6,585 votes. Mrs. Pratt's count was 19,912 votes to 19,226 for Magistrate Brodsky.

Magistrate Brodsky conceded Mrs. Pratt's election earlier tonight without waiting for an official count.

In the Fourteenth Manhattan district Representative William I. Sirovich appeared reëlected, despite the strong showing made by his Republican opponent, Earl E. Spafford. Congressman F. H. La Guardia, with about half of his election districts accounted for in the Twentieth Manhattan district, led Vincent H. Auleta [D.], 1,915 to 1,596, and claimed victory.

Despite the Roosevelt landslide, the Republicans will continue in control of both branches of the state legislature. Returns indicate the Republicans will retain their working majority of two votes in the senate. In the assembly, with returns missing from two districts, both of which showed a Republican majority last year, the figures indicate that the Republicans have elected 80 members and the Democrats 68 out of the 150 members of the lower house.

DEMOCRATS OF VIRGINIA GAIN 2 HOUSE SEATS.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Virginia Democrats failed in an effort to unseat one Republican congressman, defeated another by a huge majority, and were leading in the remaining district, now represented by a Republican, on the basis of unofficial returns.

Congressman Menalcus Lankford's victory in the Second district was conceded by his Democratic opponent, Joseph T. Deal. Practically complete returns gave Lankford a majority of over 2,500 votes.

In the Seventh John W. Fishburne, Democrat, had a lead of 3,543 votes over Congressman Jacob A. Garber, Republican, in 155 of the district's 168 precincts. In the Ninth district John W. Flannagan, Democrat, was leading Congressman Joseph C. Shaffer, Republican, 9,291 to 7,341, with 64 of 260 precincts reported.

In the senatorial race Carter Glass, veteran Democrat, overwhelmed J. Cloyd Byars, independent. Democratic nominees in other congressional districts won easily.

Oregon Independent Leads in Governor Race by 10,000

Portland, Ore., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Julius L. Meier, independent, had a lead of nearly 10,000 votes in the race for governor of Oregon tonight. With 333 precincts of the 1,046 reporting unofficial returns Meier had 19,256 votes. Edward F. Bailey [Dem.] had 9,984; Phil Metschan [Rep.], 7,963, and Albert Streiff [Socialist-Independent], 665 votes. Willis C. Hawley, Republican, incumbent, and chairman of the house ways and means committee, was trailing W. A. Delzell, Democrat, for congress.

THE BALLOTS IN THIS ELECTION.

Voters in cramped quarters with a barely manageable big ballot and a handful of smaller ones must have been convinced yesterday that their elections needed some changes in methods. If the questions puzzled them the physical conditions of voting made the matter worse. Many must have felt that the administration of government was on a really shaky basis when its authority must come from sensible decisions arrived at in such fashion.

It was apparent that this election, like many before it, escaped from the control which the voter reasonably could be expected to exercise over it. The number of decisions and the size of the ballot made the provisions for the voting inadequate and made the voter feel his insufficiency.

The ballot on which the names of candidates appeared was too big for two reasons. There were too many elective offices to be filled. There were too many political parties. The laws for the administration of public affairs require election in too many instances. It is an old fallacy that democracy is preserved by making the electorate the direct source of authority in as many cases as possible. Legislative representatives must be elected or representative government ceases. There is a preponderant feeling for an elected state judiciary with comparatively short terms. That feeling may be wise, considering what the alternative would be, although longer terms would make fewer elections. Many judicial places are filled by separate judicial elections, which is a remedy.

It is in the administrative offices that the elective method has covered entirely too much territory. Frequently in elections half the offices to be filled could be removed from the ballot and made appointive, simplifying the ballot, increasing the voter's ability to handle it, and putting the responsibility for the offices upon an official elected to assume it.

Another cause of the large ballot is found in the privilege given small groups of people to form parties and present a few candidates. It would seem that this privilege is abused. Voters yesterday saw party names of which they had never heard occupying a space which made the ballot something hard even to keep out of the candle flame in the booth, if, indeed, the voter could get in a booth for the privacy legally imposed upon him.

In yesterday's TRIBUNE there was the story of a citizen who formed a party principally of his own family and went into the election in the hope that he had the nucleus of a new party which, by some eccentricity of voters who knew nothing about it, might poll the 2 per cent vote and thus get a standing in law as a party organization. Obviously there is too little restriction of the use of the party column. It should not be a democratic privilege of a few energized, imaginative, or resourceful citizens to gather together and decide to throw a new party into the election machinery of the state. A show of cause should be required and reasonably can be. The right of independent candidacies could be guarded and the right of minorities protected without exposing the ballot and the election processes to the vagaries of citizens with innovations for experiment with the electorate.

Democracy should always seek the checks which experience proves it must keep on itself for its own preservation. One essential is that the requirements of an election shall be kept within the reasonable limitations within which the voter can work at his best. Extensions of the elective system increase the disabilities of the voters, are hurtful and not helpful.

THE STARRY EYED STATE DEPARTMENT.

Hugh Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium, acting as a special agent to Italy, has endeavored to convert Mussolini to a receptive mood in the French-Italian naval negotiations which from time to time are virtually abandoned as futile. Mr. Gibson is authorized to bring France and Italy together if he can and make it possible for them to sign the naval treaty. Mussolini for Italy requires an acknowledgment of Italy's right to a sea force the equal of that of France. Premier Tardieu for France has refused to concede the principle and negotiations have been unable to work a way out. The part undertaken by the American government in this affair of two other countries is explained by the possible effect their disagreement might have on the treaty signed by the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

These international relations are apparent preoccupations of the state department and the administration. It has been the period of the South American revolutions, each presenting delicate and intimate questions of consequence to American relations with these countries. In the case of Brazil the state department made a decision committing itself to the administration of Washington Luis. Military supplies were made available to that government and an embargo was put on supplies to the revolutionists. This was tantamount to intervention in favor of the government and against the revolution. Within a few days Dr. Luis was out of office and the revolutionists were organizing a new government.

Astonishment was expressed in Washington. The state department had chosen the inopportune time to back the wrong horse. While it was preparing to act as mediator between France and Italy and bring them to terms in an affair of their own it was letting American interests take a ride in a high wind without knowing that it was blowing. This may be starry eyed statesmanship, but it is tough for matters of national concern.

THE LAST NATIONALIST PRESIDENT.

Panama has celebrated its twenty-seventh anniversary as a republic and can count the profits of association with the United States in the canal enterprise. For the United States the recollection is one of another era, ending with Roosevelt, the close of the nationalist line of Presidents and the beginning of the internationalists. The party which protested against the administrative acts giving the canal to the Panama Zone has won only two national elections since that time, but has nevertheless left its doctrines in Washington. The ideas of Wilson and Bryan have greater influence than the ideas of Roosevelt.

If these doctrines proved their popular attractiveness that would be reflected in popular votes, which is not the case. It is not Republican support which diverts Republican administrations from nationalistic policies. It is radical, Democratic and sentimental criticism. The American government does not get its advice where it gets its votes.

Roosevelt had no moral doubts as to the correctness of his position in getting the Panama canal in the manner in which he did, by the support of a revolution in the territory involved. The protection given by the government insured the success of the withdrawal from the jurisdiction of Colombia and it made possible the agreement with which the canal could be built. As the people of Panama saw their dilemma it was either revolt or ruin. The canal was their hope and it would go elsewhere.

It may be that the international urge will lose some of its force in another turn of the wheel, but since Roosevelt the international bias has prevailed. Post-war emotionalism can explain some of it, the ambition for international distinction more of it, but there can be at least a hope that Roosevelttian nationalism will not remain out of the aspirations of Americans. As a mere matter of fame his remains more valid and lasting than that of the others.

MILLES' DIANA.

Tomorrow afernoon Carl Milles' beautiful sculptural work, the Diana, will be formally disclosed and dedicated in the court of the Michigan Square building. We think it an event of special significance. Works of art have in the past taken their place in churches, in public buildings, and private residences of the wealthy. Owners of business blocks, though they have been increasingly giving attention to architectural and decorative beauty, have a new and striking standard set for them by the selection of one of the world's great sculptors to give a business building a work of enduring beauty for its embellishment.

A good deal of nonsense is to be heard in Europe concerning America's excessive materialism. American materialism has given a higher standard of common life than exists anywhere else in the world, past or present, and need not apologize for its achievement. But our evolving American culture, while it insists upon a solid groundwork of material well being for all the American people, has its ideal aspirations and is realizing them in substantial forms as it develops and unfolds.

A BUREAU APPROVES ITSELF.

We have received an illustrated pamphlet from the federal department of agriculture written by the regional forester of the California district. We have also a "News Bulletin" sent out from its headquarters at San Francisco. Both are arguments in support of national administration of forests on the ground that it is contributing to state and county taxes $345,000 more than would be received if the potentially taxable government land in the federal forests were in private ownership. This, we are told, is the result of a two year study of the effect of national forests on state and county revenues.

We are not challenging the data or conclusions of this study, but we suggest that any bureau could make an equally imposing case for its own existence and usefulness. What is worth noting is that the taxpayers are paying for an investigation by officials to ascertain whether their office is a profitable enterprise, and are also paying for the circulation of the official conclusions. A bureau's investigation of its own merits is not unlikely to produce a favorable verdict, and we think a more disinterested agency is desirable. There is nothing more familiar in the character of bureaucracies than their determination to perpetuate themselves and if possible to expand their scope and powers. It is one of the reasons why bureaucracy should be kept within minimum limits. Left to its own sweet will it would soon take over all the activities of the community.

Editorial of the Day

RUSSIAN NEWS.

[The London Times.]

Complaints are sometimes made that so many British newspapers, including the Times, do not maintain accredited correspondents in Moscow. But in Russia today there is no place for a responsible correspondent of an independent newspaper. When the Times sends a correspondent to Russia it will be to supply its readers with honest and unbiased information, and such information can clearly be neither gathered nor telegraphed by a correspondent working under an arbitrary censorship and an all-pervading system of espionage. There is no discrimination in this matter, as is sometimes supposed, between Russia and the rest of the world. If similar conditions were ever to prevail in Italy, for instance, or in Turkey, the correspondent of the Times would instantly be withdrawn, as correspondents have sometimes been withdrawn from foreign countries in the past. It is not the least significant indictment of the present régime in Russia that its leaders are afraid to let the world know the truth.

CUTTING TOBACCO EVIL.

TWO Chicago scientists, Drs. Pacini and McGuigan, have learned how to lessen, or even destroy, the physiologic effects of tobacco. Whether the product as they denature it will have any kick or will appeal to the palate remains to be seen. This is what they did and how they did it. A watery solution of nicotine was made. This solution was exposed to light from a mercury vapor lamp. If any printer wants to try a miniature experiment, let him lay his cigar, his smoking tobacco, or his plug of navy in the light under which he works and leave it there for a few hours. Or, perhaps printers who sometimes smoke as they work have already noticed that their tobacco tastes differently or has lost some of its kick.

Drs. Pacini and McGuigan found that the clear solution of nicotine, exposed to mercury vapor light, turned to yellow. Testing it with reagents they found it had become definitely acid. Both the yellow color and the acidity are indices of change in the drug.

Tobacco people will see some suggestions of methods which they use in curing tobacco. Fermentation or acid formation is one of the essential steps in curing tobacco. It is possible that the process of present day curing is only a rule of thumb method of partial detoxication.

The yellow acid solution was then given to animals in various ways. These experiments proved that the light had caused the nicotine solution to become definitely less toxic.

The question then came up as to whether the heat of the light evaporated any considerable part of the nicotine. The answer was in the negative. The light from a mercury vapor lamp is cold as lights go.

POISON IVY.

Mrs. R. H. D. writes:

1. How long does it take to get rid of poison ivy or poison oak? I had a good attack of this early this summer. It has completely healed twice and now I have had a third recurrence without having come in contact with the plant since the first attack.

2. If the poison is in the blood stream is there any way of getting it out of the system so that it will not come back?

3. Can one person give it to another when it is in the "runny" stage if some of the poison should come in contact with a person?

4. Do the recurrences follow because one is near poison oak, or because of weather, or from swimming in water near the poison oak, or can it appear for no reason at all?

5. Can it be spread by a towel or wash cloth?

6. Should the infected parts be washed frequently with soap, or left dry?

7. Does inoculation help?

I have tried every known treatment but would be glad to have suggestions for additional cures, if any.

REPLY.

1. Some cases last only a few days. A few cases last two to four weeks. My guess is that some of the poison is in your shoes, gloves, or clothing, and you become reinfected from that source.
2. It never gets into the blood stream.
3. The water from the blisters does not carry the poison.
4. Recurrences are due to renewal of the poisoning. After one attack a person is sensitized and, therefore, easily poisoned.
5. Yes.
6. Washing with soap soon after exposure is an excellent procedure. Later washing with soap and water is not good practice.
7. No.

TAKE CAR FOR DEBT.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A young man was boarding with us when he lost his job. We let him stay until he had run up quite a large board bill, believing him when he said he would pay us when he got back to work. Now he has moved, but is still out of work. Somehow he has acquired a car, and we would like to know if there is some way we can force him to give us the car in payment of the board bill. J. R. K.

You could sue him, get judgment and levy on and sell the car for your debt.

CITIZENSHIP INFORMATION.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—[Friend of the People.]—1. If an American born girl marries a noncitizen, does that deprive her of her citizenship? 2. How long must one be in this country before he can be a citizen? 3. Does one have to wait two years after you get your first papers to apply for your second? 4. Where does one apply for his second papers? 5. How long does one have to wait for the notice that comes after the second paper application? M. D. M.

1. Since Sept. 22, 1922, an American woman does not lose her citizenship by reason of marriage to an alien, but before that date she took the citizenship status of her husband.
2. Five years.
3. Yes.
4. Applications may be had at room 776 postoffice building.
5. It usually requires about six weeks to obtain a certificate of arrival and send notice to an applicant for naturalization.

ALIMONY VS. JAIL.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If a man fails to pay alimony on account of unemployment can he be given a jail sentence if brought to court? T. M. J.

It is physically possible, but on proper showing of a good excuse the court should reduce the alimony. The husband's position will be stronger if he moves to reduce the alimony without waiting for his wife to make the first motion.

NO SMOKING!

Chicago, Oct. 31.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Will you kindly inform me whether or not a school in the state of Illinois has a legal right to prohibit its students from smoking on public property within a certain distance from the school? J. R.

We would consider it a reasonable requirement. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

A RULE IS A RULE.

We Americans are a conventional lot. When we once lay down a rule, goodness how we do stick to it, no matter whether the rule turns out to be bad or good. A friend of ours raved about the perfection of his favorite speakeasy. Only the very best people went there, an old-fashioned bar behind which four old time barkeeps with spotless white jackets, waxed mustachios, diamonds as big as hazel nuts in their shirt fronts, and everything. And to complete the picture, there were lovely debutantes sitting on the bar drinking cocktails. Our friend insisted we drop into this delectable place. His chief argument was that we were away behind the times if we didn't; we were mid-Victorian. Nobody can call us mid-Victorian and get away with it. But we pointed out that our little hound, Tommy Atkins, went everywhere with us, and maybe they wouldn't let him into the speakeasy. "Pooh," said our friend, "that'll be perfectly all right. Bring him along."

We took the Sealyham along and got into the hallway of the speakeasy. The manager appeared. He welcomed us joyfully, but while he was desolated to say so, nevertheless the pup could not come into the speakeasy. Now and then the doors were opened and closed behind the manager and we caught glimpses of a charming place crowded with our very best people. Also we saw the beautiful barkeeps behind the bar shaking up cocktails. And lovely flappers were roosting on the bar. We wished very much to enter this gorgeous Elysium.

"What," demanded we of the manager, "do you think our little dog is—a dry snooper?"

"Oh, no," said the manager, "but it's against the rules. We must obey our rules."

"If we brought a pet pig with us," said we, "instead of this nice little dog you would be perfectly right in enforcing your silly rules. A pig would squeal, but a little dog——"

"We must maintain our rules," interrupted the manager.

"An old Spanish custom," said we.

"Anyhow," went on the manager, "a rule is a rule."

"Absolutely," agreed we, "but isn't there some sort of rule in the United States that whisky and cocktails and such should not be sold? It's some sort of rule known as the 18th amendment, isn't it?"

"Quite likely," said the manager.

"And isn't there another rule called the Volstead act?"

"I've heard so."

"And a rule called the Jones 5 & 10 act?"

"I wouldn't be surprised," said the manager.

"But if you break the rules we've mentioned," said we, "why not bust the one that keeps this poor little dog out in the cold, cruel world?"

"A rule is a rule," repeated the manager, firmly bowing and opening the outside door. "Of course, you would not expect us to break our rules. Good-night."

We had a very good reply to that, but finding ourselves outside the door, the door closed and the manager gone, naturally there was nothing to do but to go away. And, anyhow, a speakeasy is no fit place for a growing dog.

LATE AUTUMN.

The sky is heavy, hanging low;
It sags with all its weight of snow.

The last defiant leaves protest
With little flutters of unrest,

And naked branches beat the air
With wild gestures of despair. . . ,

As we, alarmed when thin lines crease
Our faces, will not yet release

Our frantic hold on youth, but try
To pitch our foolish laughter high.

FERRY ADAMS.

"THE HEAVY WOMAN vote always comes out in the late afternoon."—Yesterday's Chieveamerican. Maybe that's because the heavy woman walks slower than a thin woman and it takes her more time to reach the polls.

IT OUGHT TO BE COUNTED.

Wonder what the judges will do with that ballot anyhow? What ballot? asks you. We'll tell you. A ballot that a woman voted yesterday in which she departed from the usual custom of making a cross. She told us her story and we said that she seemed to have made it clear how she stood on the proposition on which she had voted and that if we were the judges of election in that precinct we would certainly count her vote. But judges are funny; they might have thrown her ballot out. She said she had restrained herself when she came to the part of the ballot which asked if the 18th amendment should be repealed and had merely given three rousing cheers and put a cross in the square where it said "yes." Then she got the next proposition regarding the modification of the national prohibition act. She cheered some more and wrote yes there. Then she came to the question, "Shall the Illinois prohibition act be repealed?" That's where her foot slipped. She said that when she read that question she just couldn't restrain herself and she wrote on the ballot in reply, "You're damn tootin'!"

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 5, 1914.

LONDON. — Battleships detached from the British grand fleet are searching the North sea for a German squadron of four battleships and four cruisers which slipped from Wilhelmshaven for a raid on the English coast. From this it appears that the attempt to bottle up the German warships in the Kiel canal has not been altogether a success. From Ottawa, Ont., comes a report that a great battle has been fought in the North sea between the British and German fleets and that 17 warships were sunk, but there is no confirmation. The German cruiser Yorke struck a mine in Jade bay on the German coast and sank with a loss of 175 of its complement of 557 men.

LONDON. — The German army, which for a week has been trying to drive its way along the seacoast of Calais and Dunkirk, has retired, but a great force is hammering at the allied lines near Ypres and is reported to be advancing. Berlin reports that the offensive of the French south of the great fortress of Verdun and in the Vosges mountains has been checked. Turkey has definitely broken off diplomatic relations with Great Britain, France, Russia and Servia. Its diplomatic representatives in these countries on orders of the Porte demanded and received their passports.

CHICAGO.—Lawrence Y. Sherman has been reëlected to the United States senate over Roger C. Sullivan, Democrat, by an unofficial plurality of 15,000. In Cook county the Republicans saved two members of the board of assessors, two sanitary district trustees, five Municipal court judges and five country town members of the county board. The Republican assessors elected are Adam Wolf and William H. Weber, and the sanitary trustees are George W. Paullin and Wallace G. Clark. Thomas F. Scully, Democrat, won for county judge over John E. Northup by a plurality of only 9,461.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 5, 1900.

NEW YORK.—The Republican national committee in a statement today said: "All the sources of the committee's information, including many who are unwilling witnesses, concur in indicating the conclusion that Tuesday's election will prove a veritable landslide for McKinley and seal the doom of Bryan and Bryanism forever. The prime cause of this irresistible and overwhelming popular revolt against the Bryan Populist ticket is perfectly obvious. It consists in the desire of the people to maintain the prosperity which they have enjoyed and now enjoy under the policies of the McKinley administration and in their well grounded fear of public calamity in case Bryan should be elected." The statement was signed by Cornelius N. Bliss, Joseph H. Manly, Nathan R. Scott, Frederick S. Gibbs and Franklin Murphy.

CHICAGO. — Lloyd J. Smith was found not guilty on his second trial of shipping grain without canceling the warehouse receipts. On the first trial the jury disagreed after 59 hours standing stubbornly at 11 to 1 for conviction. State's Attorney Deneen declared that the verdict was contrary to the law and the evidence.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 5, 1880.

NEW YORK.—The Times tomorrow will publish a revised list of majorities in this state. Garfield's majority is 23,000. All the papers of the city, both Democrat and Republican, concede the state to Garfield by majorities ranging from 15,000 to 25,000.

CLEVELAND.—The Republican jollification tonight in honor of Garfield's victory surpassed the expectations of the most jubilant. The grand parade of all the Garfield and Arthur torchlight companies in the city and vicinity took place. President Hayes, who returned from a visit to Gen. Garfield at Mentor, viewed the line from the United States building.

CHICAGO.—Cyrus W. Field of Atlantic cable fame arrived in the city and registered at the Pacific. He is starting a trip around the world. He denied that the trip had any connection with plans for a cable across the Pacific, but said that such a cable would materially increase our commerce with China, Japan and India.

THE PREVENTION OF TUBERCULOSIS.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—The proffering of a weekly broadcasting period to improve the general knowledge concerning the prevention and control of tuberculosis comes at a most opportune moment.

At this time every public tuberculosis institution is taxed to its fullest capacity. There are approximately 18,000 patients with pulmonary tuberculosis among the over 52,000 patients under supervision today by the Chicago Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium.

Our past experience and present economic survey portend difficulties in maintaining our present low tuberculosis death rate.

The transmission of scientific information to your large radio audience through this first systematic course of tuberculosis instruction should do much to prevent the spread of this disease. W-G-N in assuming this leadership can make no greater contribution to humanity.

BENJAMIN GOLDBERG,
Medical Director Municipal Tuberculosis Sanitarium.

TO RAISE RELIEF FUND.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—If a ten or even twenty per cent amusement tax during the winter months were placed on all theater and movie tickets, much money could be collected from those of us who can afford such pleasures; this money to be used to help the jobless and poverty stricken.

If the daughters of the rich would resign from instead of occupying positions which those in real need could fill they would be doing a great good.

DOGS AND HUMANS.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—We read the appeal in THE TRIBUNE for help which is needed and will be needed by thousands of unfortunate families. We are touched.

Somewhere else we read of $50,000 being spent on a home for dogs.

Surely there is a much cheaper way of getting rid of homeless dogs and turning this sum of money over to the care of homeless human beings.

SMELL ABATEMENT.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—Action has been taken to suppress the smoke and noise evils, but here's one that seems to have been overlooked—that stockyards aroma. Can't something be done about this?

Civilians' motorcycles seem to be among the chief noise makers. I wonder why they must be so much more noisy than those of motorcycle officers.

THE 12 HOUR DAY AT JOLIET.

Joliet, Ill., Oct. 29.—Employés of our penal institutions are working twelve or more hours per day. This condition tends to lessen efficiency and does not release jobs for the unemployed. Could not the governor's committee on unemployment at least recommend placing our state institutions on an eight hour basis? The federal government runs penal institutions successfully on an eight hour basis, so why not [illegible]

POSITION OF THE GAS COMPANY.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—Trying to read the false import of those "Reader" and "One Who Knows" letters, also today's TRIBUNE is somewhat like trying to pick up a pin with mittens on; there is not enough fact-substance to get hold of.

The implication that employés of the company must contribute to unemployment relief or be laid off is too much for words. The only possible answer to the other implications and insinuations is this: if the letter writers have any employé to whom cooperation in helping of the needy is a hardship, and that employé are afraid to tell us about it.

On the internal evidence of the letters, as printed, one may deduce that the writers are connected with the company. If they are, they very well have the ample facilities and opportunities existing here for getting considerate attention to any matter of concern to the employé, whether it be in the form of request, suggestion, criticism, complaint or unemployment relief.

There is no limitation upon this opportunity and no possibility that any of it will react to the disadvantage of the user. All gas company users know this. Hence, further readers surmising that somewhere, lurking, these recurring insinuative letters writers is a motive akin to that of the "poison pen" and other anonymous letter writers.

Vice President, the Peoples Gas Light & Coke Company.

NICKEL PHONES.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Three times in the last month I have been importuned by the telephone company clerk to change my service, eliminating the nickel pay station, in order "to get rid of the telephone collectors." Now why? I have been and am satisfied with my present service. Then why should I change just to get rid of one out of work? FAIR PLAY.

ENCOURAGING CRIME.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—In this morning's paper I note the successful escape of three bandits who relieved their victim of valuables to the tune of about $600. If you must publish the news of the tragedies of life, it might well be the time to minimize the amount which the culprits appropriated and discourage, rather than encourage, this manner of making a living. JESSE J. ADAMS.

AN INCREASED FEE.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Why was the fee for inspecting buildings raised from $3 to $5 on Oct. 31, 1929? With the large number of vacancies and rentals conditions as poor as they are, it results in a lot of gall. OSCAR C. MUNN.

For governor, 1,582 precincts: Miller [D], 124,671.
Locke [J.], 75,714.

Comfortable leads were given the Democratic ticket in a number of counties that two years ago went into the Republican column.

Heflin at his Birmingham headquarters charged fraud. He issued this statement:

"We do not concede the election," he said. "They were not elected. It was one of the most fraudulent and corrupt elections ever held in Alabama.

Insists He Is Elected.

"A great deal of money was corruptly spent in the closing days of the campaign and thousands of absentee ballots were illegal. I intend to have a senatorial investigation made and go to the bottom of this thing to the end that we will have clean and fair elections and be done with this sort of thing in Alabama."

Heflin said the victory was rightfully his by "between 50,000 and 100,000 votes.

MICHIGAN G. O. P. SWEEPS STATE; COUZENS WINS

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Victory by a substantial margin for the entire Republican ticket seemed a certainty as reports from Detroit precincts shortly before midnight became available to add to widespread returns from over the state.

United States Senator James Couzens and the rest of the ticket, apparently, however, were going to finish considerably ahead of Attorney General Wilbur M. Brucker, the party nominee for governor.

But this had been anticipated, as Brucker had been the particular target of the Democratic offensive led by William A. Comstock, twice previously beaten for the governorship.

In 1,021 precincts, Couzens' lead over Thomas E. A. Weadock, Democrat, was 92,881 votes. Figures from 1,021 precints gave Couzens 184,379, Weadock 40,498. Reports from 1,021 precints gave Brucker 154,833, Comstock 91,116.

If the thirteen Republican congressmen are elected, as now seems probable, it will give Michigan four wet votes in congress—Clancy, Person, McLeod and Wolcott. A majority of the remaining nine are classified as liberals on the liquor question.

NEW HAMPSHIRE DEMOCRAT IS BEATEN TWICE

Concord, N. H., Nov. 4.—(AP)—New Hampshire went Republican in today's election by a margin which seemed likely to be somewhat smaller than in the balloting of 1928, the last "off" year. The vote was light.

U. S. Senator Henry W. Keyes, Republican candidate for a third term, was leading Albert W. Noone, Democrat, by slightly more than 15,000 votes on returns from more than two-thirds of the state. Noone conceded Keyes' election. The same places showed Noone, who was also his party's nominee for governor, running 17,000 votes behind former Gov. John G. Winant, Republican.

G. O. P. CARRIES EVERY OFFICE IN LAKE COUNTY

Although running into a hard battle in the Democratic landslide, the Republicans in Lake county carried their ticket into every office, virtually complete unofficial returns showed last night.

The winners are:

Circuit judge—Ralph J. Dady; county judge, Perry L. Persons; probate judge, Martin C. Decker; probate clerk, John Bullock; county clerk, Lew A. Hendee; county treasurer, Jay Morris; sheriff, Lester Tiffany; superintendent of schools, W. C. Petty.

INDIANA SWINGS TO DEMOCRATS IN EARLY RETURNS

Likely to Capture 6 Seats in Congress.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Indiana Democrats roused a record off year election vote in all parts of the state today and captured many offices.

Incomplete returns representative of most urban areas indicated that the Democratic state ticket is victorious. Also, the Democrats won in numerous townships and counties, showing the greatest strength since 1912.

Indianapolis Leads Way.

Indianapolis led the way. Democrats carrying every precinct. Congressman Louis Ludlow, former Washington, D. C., newspaper man, was reelected by a majority of more than 2 to 1. All other Democratic nominees won, breaking the grip of the so-called Coffin machine that has dominated Indianapolis and therefore Indiana since the rise of the klan.

The First district, centering about Evansville, a former klan stronghold, also shows a preference for Democratic candidates. Democrats also are leading in Fort Wayne, South Bend, and other urban centers. They not only will retain their present seats in congress but also expect to win at least the First (Evansville), Twelfth (Fort Wayne), and Thirteenth (South Bend) congressional districts.

Important Upstate Gains.

Incomplete returns indicated not only reelection of Congressman Ludlow but also the other two incumbent Democratic congressmen, Arthur H. Greenwood in the Second district and Harry C. Canfield in the Fourth. Republicans also are trailing in at least three other congressional districts. Samuel B. Pettengill, Democrat, is leading Congressman Andrew D. Hickey in the Thirteenth district, and Thomas P. Riddle is leading Congressman David Hogg in the Twelfth. These are important upstate gains for the Democrats, centering about South Bend and Fort Wayne. The downstate urban area surrounding Evansville, the First district, a former klan stronghold, showed Congressman Harry E. Rowbottom, Republican, trailing John W. Boehne Jr., Democrat.

Lake County Democratic.

Gary, Ind., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—On the basis of early unofficial returns the Democratic state and county ticket was nosing out a victory tonight in Lake county, Indiana, a Republican stronghold.

Returns from 28 precincts out of 175 in the county gave Robert Estill, the Democratic nominee for state's attorney, 4,815 to 4,782 for Floyd Draper, Republican. Holley, Democratic nominee for sheriff, had 4,507 to 4,399 for Joseph Kyle, Republican nominee for reelection.

Seventeen precincts in the congressional race gave C. J. Murphy, Democrat, 2,953 to 2,823 for Will R. Wood, Republican representative, who heads the house appropriations committee.

Otto Fifield, Republican nominee for reelection as secretary of state, was leading with a vote of 8,040 to 7,785 for Frank Mayr, Democrat.

DEMOCRAT BEATS HIS G. O. P. SENATE FOE IN COLORADO

Costigan Defeats Shaw by a Wide Margin.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Edward P. Costigan, Democratic candidate for the United States senate, had apparently defeated his Republican rival, George H. Shaw, by a 30,000 plurality.

The Denver Post, which supported Shaw, conceded his defeat by at least 25,000.

Shaw, Denver attorney and advocate of a high protective tariff, was trailing Costigan, a former member of the federal tariff commission, by approximately 8,000 votes on tabulations from 351 out of 1,582 precincts.

Costigan Takes Big Lead.

Shaw's total vote thus far is 35,461; Costigan's, 43,683. In Denver Shaw had 10,461 votes and Costigan 13,363, on returns from 101 precincts out of 314.

Gov. William H. Adams, Democrat, is assured of the gubernatorial designation, as he is leading his Republican opponent, Robert F. Rockwell, by three to two on the complete returns. One hundred fourteen precincts give Adams 9,696; Rockwell, 7,934.

Rum an Active Issue.

Prohibition was an active issue only in Denver, where wet sentiment predominates. Lawrence Lewis, wet Democrat, and William R. Eaton, dry Republican incumbent, are vying virtually on even terms for the congressional designation from district No. 1.

In 110 precincts out of 314 in Denver Eaton led Lewis by 500 votes. His total was 12,048, compared to 11,530 for Lewis.

Only a decided change in sentiment can deprive the remaining three incumbent congressional representatives of their places. They virtually are assured of renomination. They are Guy U. Hardy, Republican; Charles B. Timberlake, Republican, and Edward T. Taylor, Democrat.

SENATOR STECK TRAILS IN IOWA; TURNER WINS

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 5.—[2 a. m.]—(AP)—The Iowa senatorial race continued in intensity early today as more than half the precincts gave Representative L. J. Dickinson, Republican, a 39,000 lead over Senator Daniel F. Steck, Democrat.

This was far below the two-to-one majority which Dan W. Turner, Republican candidate for governor, and the remainder of the state ticket was amassing.

Dickinson polled 169,506 votes to 127,866 for Steck in 1,320 of the 2,434 precincts. Turner, however, received 186,135 to 98,452 for Fred P. Haggemann, Democrat, in 1,326 precincts.

Ben Jacobsen, Democrat, clung to a slight lead over Representative F. D. Letts, Republican, for second district congressman. Lloyd Thurston and Cyrenus Cole, Republican incumbent in the Eighth and Fifth districts, respectively, had only thin margins over their Democratic opponents.

NORRIS GIVEN NEBRASKA FIGHT BY HITCHCOCK

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 5, 2 a. m.—[Special.]—Democrats cut into Nebraska's usually safe Republican stronghold, but probably not decisively enough to defeat George W. Norris for the senate. Norris, at one time lagging behind Hitchcock, toward midnight drew ahead, with the prospect that he would increase his lead as the country precincts count came in. Gov. Weaver lagged behind Charles W. Bryan, and definite results on both senator and governor are unlikely to be known before late today.

May Gain Two Congressmen.

Democrats stand to gain two and perhaps three representatives in congress—Morehead in the First, Howard in the Third, with Norton, Democrat, leading Sloan in the Fourth, and the Second and Fifth in doubt, but with the trend Democratic, and the Sixth Republican.

In 751 precincts out of 2,040 Norris had 84,848, Hitchcock 58,482, Craig [Ind.] 3,847.

In 752 precincts Bryan had 76,158 and Weaver 72,614.

Moseley, Republican, has a scant lead in Lincoln over Morehead, present congressman, seeking reelection as a Democrat from the First district. Returns from other counties in the district are counted upon definitely to overcome the Moseley lead.

In the Second district, Burke, Democrat, is ahead of Baldridge, Republican. His lead is slight in the first eighteen precincts. Both candidates are wet.

Hitchcock Concedes Defeat.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Omaha World Herald, in its midnight edition, says that Nebraska returns indicate the reelection of Senator George W. Norris, Republican, by a majority of approximately 56,000. The World Herald is owned by Gilbert M. Hitchcock, Democratic senatorial candidate.

New York, Nov. 4.—(AP)—John R. Voorhis, 101 years old, grand sachem of Tammany hall and president of the New York board of elections, was a tardy voter today. He arrived at his neighborhood polling place at 9:30 a. m. For years election inspectors have known that when he entered the ballot booth it was just 8:45 a. m. Voorhis said his daughter, Anna, would not let him arise as early as he wanted to.

Dawes Is Registered as Absentee, but Fails to Vote

Charles G. Dawes, United States ambassador to Great Britain, failed to participate in the election yesterday, it was revealed last night by M. R. McNeill, judge of election in the Fourth precinct of the First ward in Evanston. McNeill said Ambassador Dawes failed to take advantage of his absentee registration privilege last month which would have enabled him to vote by mail from England.

CLARA BOW explains what makes a Girl ALLURING . .

"THERE'S ONE THING that stands out above all others in making a girl really alluring," says Clara Bow, whose vivid beauty and personality have won her world-fame in motion pictures. It's lovely skin.

"You may have marvelously appealing eyes—and a lot of charm—and a beautiful figure.

"But just notice the way people cluster around a girl who has lovely skin! And any girl can have lovely skin if she takes good care of it!

"I got my first chance in the movies, partly, at least, because of what my father calls my 'baby-smooth' skin.

"You see, motion picture directors found out long ago that unless a girl has marvelous skin she can never make millions of hearts beat faster when she appears in a close-up. The incandescent lights reveal the tiniest flaw in the skin!

"That's why we motion picture actresses have to keep our skin at its very best every minute.

"Several years ago some of us began using Lux Toilet Soap, and were enthusiastic about it.

JEAN ARTHUR

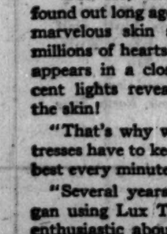
"So other screen stars began to use it—until it wasn't long before almost every important actress in Hollywood was using it. Janet Gaynor—Joan Crawford—Mary Brian—Bebe Daniels—Dorothy Mackaill.



NANCY CARROLL

"Take Nancy Carroll, for instance, one of Paramount's most fascinating girls. She keeps her fair skin delectable as an apple blossom with Lux Toilet Soap.

"And Mary Brian, too. Her skin is clear and smooth as a little girl's. Jean Arthur, too, keeps her skin lovely with Lux Toilet Soap.

"In fact," Clara B goes on to say, "nearly every girl I know in Hollywood uses this soap. And aren't we glad that we have kept our skin in good condition—the talkies have even more close-ups than the silent pictures have!

"When I get letters from girls all over the country—so many of them saying nice things about my skin—I long to answer every one of them and tell these girls that they can keep their skin just as beautifully smooth as we screen stars do—by using Lux Toilet Soap."

FOUR KILLED IN GUN BATTLES AT KENTUCKY POLLS

Candidate Is Wounded in West Virginia.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Election day disorders in Kentucky resulted in the deaths of four men and the wounding of two others.

Boyd Bingham, Democratic magistrate, shot and killed Hampton Smith, and was slain, in turn, officers said, by Smith's son, William, who was wounded in the foot, but escaped. The shooting occurred on Stinking creek, near Barbourville, the home of Senator John M. Robsion and Gov. Flem D. Sampson. The gun fight resulted, officers said, after Bingham challenged the elder Smith's right to vote.

Old Foes Shoot It Out.

Ward Hatfield was slain at Phelps in Pike county. Elias Dotson was arrested on a charge of murder in connection with the shooting. Officers said an old enmity flared anew in the heat of election day campaigning.

Booger Wright was being sought for the shooting and wounding of Adam Cotter, a former deputy sheriff, at Elkhorn, also in Pike county, after an election quarrel.

Ed Doneghy, Negro, was shot and killed at Danville by Josen Hayden, Democratic election officer who said he fired in self-defense when the Negro, a Republican, appeared at the polling place and announced he had come "to settle some trouble."

G. O. P. Candidate Shot.

Logan, W. Va., Nov. 4.—(AP)—A Republican candidate for local office was wounded today by shots fired by a Democratic adherent in an outbreak of partisanship.

The wounded man, Emmet Scraggs, candidate for president of the Logan district school board. Claude Gore was charged with shooting with intent to kill as the result of shots fired into Scraggs' automobile. Scraggs' injuries are slight.

FOUND DEAD IN GRAGE.

Hyman Goldberg, 50 year old, 551 Roscoe street, owner of millinery stores at 1222 South Halsted street and 320 West Roosevelt road, was found dead of carbon monoxide gas in the garage at the rear of his home late yesterday. His death was believed to have been accidental.

DOUBLE DEFEAT HANDED G. O. P. IN MINNESOTA

Trails Democrat and Farmer-Laborite.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Two tides, Democratic for the United States senatorship, and Farmer-Labor for governor, threatened late tonight to sweep aside the long standing supremacy of the Republican party in Minnesota.

Einar Hoidale, Minneapolis Democrat, who supported Gov. Smith in 1928 for president, held a substantial lead on the basis on small but representative returns over the Republican incumbent, Thomas D. Schall, blind senator. Hoidale swept Minneapolis, the largest vote center in the state, by a five to three majority.

At midnight the Minneapolis Tribune, the only major newspaper in the state supporting Schall, conceded his defeat and characterized the election as the "biggest setback in the history of the Republican party in Minnesota."

The Latest Returns.

Returns from 557 precincts out of 2,705 gave: Hoidale, 55,594; Schall, 33,185; Ernest Lundeen, Farmer-Labor candidate, 18,898. Charles Lunde, independent dry candidate, 2,219.

At the same time Floyd B. Olson kept a continuous margin in returns from every section of the state in his race for governor, furnishing the possibility of the first Farmer-Labor governor in the history of the state. He won Minneapolis, where he was born, and piled up about the same ratio of votes in rural returns over his Republican opponent, Ray P. Chase, state auditor.

An Unusual Situation.

In event of Hoidale's election being assured, it will be the first time that Minnesota has been without Republican representation in the senate, except for a brief time when Magnus Johnson was senator.

Henrik Shipstead, Minnesota's senior senator, is the lone adherent of the Farmer-Labor party in that body.

North Carolina Elects Bailey to U. S. Senate

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 5.—(AP)—The election of Josiah W. Bailey, Democrat, to the United States senate, succeeding Senator F. M. Simmons, was conceded early today by his Republican opponent, Representative George M. Pritchard, Asheville.

PEACE AND QUIET REIGN AS CITY GOES TO POLLS

Unprecedented quiet reigned over Chicago's polls yesterday as the citizenry cast its ballots in an election heralded as unusually free from the customary crimes of fraud, ballot stuffing, kidnapings, intimidations of officials and voters, shootings, brawls and the like.

County Judge Jarecki said the election was one of the most orderly in many years. He declared that the trouble spots, such as the 27th, 29th and 42d wards, were carefully watched and patrolled by policemen and official and volunteer watchers, preventing disturbances.

In addition, Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson, held a large force of detectives in readiness, sending them promptly when complaints of disorder were received.

G. O. P. Governor, Minor Officials Win in Vermont

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Vermont elected a Republican governor, congressmen, and minor state office holders today.

Gov. John E. Weeks [Rep.] defeated Joseph A. McNamara [Dem.] by only 25,165 votes to 18,145 for congressman. Lieut. Gov. Stanley C. Wilson [Rep.] won the governorship race from Park H. Pollard of Cavendish. In the Second congressional district Congressman Ernest W. Gibson was returned to office over his Democratic opponent, James Cosgrove.

Neely Wins West Virginia Senate Race by Landslide

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 5.—[3 a. m.]—(AP)—A virtual landslide for the Democratic nominee for United States senator, Ex-Senator M. M. Neely, was shown in returns from three-fourths of the state early today. With the vote counted from 1,826 of the 2,454 precincts Neely had a lead of more than 100,000 over James Ellwood Jones, Republican. The totals showed Neely, 285,619; Jones, 177,190.

YOUTH BEGS JOB TO SUPPORT HIS FAMILY OF 14

Sally Joy Brown Reports More Work for Men.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

The cares of a family of fourteen weigh heavily upon the shoulders of Arthur, 21 years old, the eldest of the five brothers and sisters old enough to be wage earners. It is hard for him to see his younger brother try to carry the load on a salary so meager that it cannot pay for the bare necessities for the home.

"I have been out of work for six months," Arthur wrote to Sally Joy Brown of THE TRIBUNE. "I have been looking every day, and I have heard so many 'nos' that they ring in my ears. There are five of us that can work and the rest go to school. My father is sick and cannot work.

"I would be so thankful to you, Miss Brown, if you could find a job for me. I can drive a car or truck. I run a punch press or drill press. I have two sisters who can work if they only had something to do."

Boy Is Bread Winner.

And still another letter from a boy facing the responsibilities of caring for his brothers and sisters:

"I have been out of work for the last eight months. There are seven of us in the family, and my younger brother is the only one working. We are broke, and I really mean broke. I have had experience in driving a car and worked three years as a private chauffeur. I can furnish excellent references."

Similar appeals were made in person yesterday to the Illinois Free Employment service, 116 North Dearborn street, by men seeking work. They came by the hundreds, some to register for the first time, and others returning to find no job offer for them. As soon as Sally Joy Brown's list of job offers was received in connection with THE TRIBUNE'S service to aid the unemployed, they were dispatched to the Illinois service, and distributed as far as they would go.

More Jobs for Men.

"We had a few more job offers for men today," said Sally, when asked if TRIBUNE readers weren't sending in more job offers. "Many of those calls were for men to work by the day, and the pay was good, fifty cents an hour or $3 and $4 a day.

"One Wilmette woman offered to pay seventy-five cents an hour to have her screens removed. Others wanted janitor work done. We had a call for an office boy for the M. C. company, which offered to pay $12.50 a week and $10 a month for schooling."

Among other job offers Sally received yesterday was one for janitor for an apartment building at $60 a month. The C. company wanted an operator for a zigzag machine at a good salary.

If you have a job you need done, temporary or permanent, tell your story to Sally Joy Brown at Superior 0100.

HOLIDAY SPIRIT PERVADES WORK OF GOOD FELLOWS

More Pledges Are Received.

Three weeks from tomorrow is Thanksgiving day. With the approach of the holidays, the city's generosity is warming, the public mind is losing some of its pessimism and donations and pledges, large and small, are pouring into the Good Fellow headquarters in THE TRIBUNE'S offices at Madison and Dearborn streets.

Also, with the approach of the mid-winter holidays, the needs of destitute families become more urgent, and the mail indicates that there are thousands of women, children and unemployed men who will require a helping hand from some Good Fellow to carry them through the temporary business lull.

Form Groups to Aid Families.

Still more associates in offices, factories, shops, churches and societies are lumping their contributions to be applied against the monthly budget for one or more of the city's 75,000 destitute families.

"The office of the Hydrox corporation and Consolidated Products company," reads a typical letter, "has voluntarily joined in contributing a portion of the monthly pay roll to the support of a worthy family during the next six months. The inclosed check for $72.13 represents the first donation, made from October salaries, and at the end of each month a check of equal amount will be forthcoming."

Employés in the infants' wear department of Mandel Brothers mailed a check for $8. Miss Anna Gollay is chairman of a committee there.

Commends Plan, Sends Check.

"I wish to commend the fine and unselfish work you have undertaken," wrote Thomas S. Brown Jr. in a letter accompanying the first of his monthly $100 checks.

THE TRIBUNE is paying all costs of administration, so that every penny donated by a Good Fellow will reach some destitute family whose needs and worthiness have been ascertained by an experienced social service worker.

TRIO OF BRITISH AIR FORCE FLYERS DIE IN 2 CRASHES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Three members of the royal air force were killed today—two were fatally burned in a giant bomber, and the third met instant death when his plane fell tail first.

The bomber was taking off from the airdrome at Manston when it developed engine trouble. In attempting to return, the plane crashed and burst into flames. Pilot Officer Frederick R. W. Goad, aged 19, and Flight Sergeant George Roberts were the victims. Air Craftsman Alan Edwards leaped from the plane and escaped with severe injuries.

The other air victim was Flying Officer Max Barnet, whose plane went into a tailspin at the airdrome at Ingatestone, Royal air force deaths for this year total 60.

Does Your Automobile Insurance Policy Say What You Think it Does?

Most motorists believe that if their car should be burned or stolen, their insurance company will pay them the amount stated in the policy. The fact is, however, that the amount named in the policy is a valuation used to determine the cost of the insurance, the rate for fire and theft insurance being a certain price per hundred dollars of valuation.

The policy says that in the event of a total loss you will receive an amount not to exceed the actual loss sustained, the settlement to be agreed upon by you and the adjuster for the insurance company. If you fail to agree, the claim will be arbitrated. This is the usual policy, which is known in the insurance world as the "non valued" form.

Then there is the "valued form" policy. Under the terms of this policy you are paid the face value of the policy, the amount on which you have paid premium, should you suffer a total loss.

The Inter-Insurance Exchange of the Chicago Motor Club issues a VALUED FORM POLICY.

Other benefits of membership are: bail bond, mechanical first aid, touring, home district and accident prevention services.

Doctor W., Cal., says: "Pluto Water gently flushes the system without irritation or disagreeable results."

Doctor C., Cal., says: "I have prescribed Pluto Water for the past 20 years with marked success."

Doctor R., Cal., says: "Pluto Water is pleasant to take and is prompt and efficient in its action."

Doctor H., Ohio, says: "Pluto is the safest and most efficient Mineral Spring Water I have prescribed during the past 20 years."

Doctor F., Mich., says: "I have used and prescribed Pluto Water for years."

Doctor H., Pa., says: "I consider Pluto Water a satisfactory saline eliminant and have used and recommended it for many years."

Doctor H., Cal., says: "For 20 years I have prescribed Pluto Water and used it in my family."

Doctor E., Ill., says: "I frequently prescribe Pluto Water to effect complete elimination and find its action certain and quick."

THESE DOCTORS ENDORSE PLUTO WATER

IF twenty-one doctors all prescribed one remedy for you, wouldn't you prize their unanimous advice and follow it?

Well—here are twenty-one doctors who give you a single verdict. And these doctors are but a handful of the thousands all over America who prescribe Pluto Water!

The originals of these endorsements and photographs are in our files at French Lick Springs. However, out of respect to long-standing custom in the medical profession—and because medical societies prefer that doctor-members refrain from lending their names to printed advertisements—we have, in fairness to these doctors, omitted their names and made their photographs unrecognizable.

For fifty years, doctors have continuously prescribed Pluto. What other laxative can show such a remarkable record? There is a reason, and a most excellent one, why Pluto stands in such high favor.

Doctors know the unequalled benefits of a saline laxative. And Pluto is the perfect saline. It brings you all the health-giving properties of the world-famous saline mineral springs at French Lick, Indiana.

Pluto—America's saline mineral water—acts by flushing the system. It cleanses in nature's way—water-washes the intestinal tract. That's why it brings such speedy, certain and complete relief—within 30 minutes to two hours. That, too, is why it is so gentle and harmless, and never gripes.

Two sizes—20c and 45c, at drug stores and fountains everywhere.

AMERICA'S LAXATIVE MINERAL WATER

Doctor C., Pa., says: "Pluto Water is gentle and pleasant in action—certain and quick in results."

Doctor J., Ill., says: "I have used Pluto Water in my practice and always found it to be a very good laxative."

Doctor C., Mo., says: "Pluto Water is quick in results."

Doctor C., Pa., says: "Pluto Water is natural and definite in action—positive in results."

Doctor W., Mo., says: "I prescribe Pluto Water wherever such an agent is indicated and my patients hold this remedy in high esteem."

Doctor W., Ohio, says: "I prescribe Pluto Water to remove accumulated wastes in the bowels and restore them to normal activity."

Doctor B., Va., says: "Pluto Water dissolves wastes accumulated in the bowels and flushes them out of the system."

Doctor I., N. Y., says: "Pluto Water is gentle and quick."

Doctor M., Cal., says: "Americans are a constipated nation and Pluto well deserves the sobriquet, 'America's Physic'."

Doctor Z., Pa., says: "Pluto Water acts quickly yet gently and certainly in flushing waste from the system."

Doctor J., Mich., says: "The worth of Pluto Water as an effective laxative has been proven to be in the 35 years I prescribed it."

Doctor J., Md., says: "I prescribe Pluto Water for cases where non-irritating action of a saline mineral water laxative is indicated."

OFFICIAL FOILS PLAN FOR BREAK AT COUNTY JAIL

Discovers Door Is Cut; Find Five Saws.

An attempted jail break was prevented yesterday by John Dohmann, assistant superintendent of the county jail. During the afternoon, while making his rounds he noticed John J. Carroll, 50 years old, who has a long criminal record, hiding in his cell room when he should have been in what is called the dayroom. Investigating he found a steel panel in the cell door had been sawed through for about one inch and he found five steel saw blades, a knife, and a piece of a mirror in Carroll's bunk.

Warden David Moneypenny immediately put Carroll in solitary and endeavored to find out how many prisoners were in the escape plot. Carroll refused to talk, he said.

The jail records show Carroll was committed on March 31 on three charges, embezzlement, conspiracy, and receiving stolen property, that he had been an inmate of several jails and prisons, and was wanted at the Minnesota prison. The records didn't show a disposition of the cases, but jail guards said Carroll had been sentenced to the penitentiary and was awaiting action on a motion for a stay or an appeal.

Relieve Crowded Conditions.

Warden Moneypenny said conditions at the jail now are normal after a period of overcrowding in which the basement had to be turned into a dormitory. The new jail was built to house a maximum of 1,300 prisoners, but on Sept. 1 the number of inmates was 1,552—the greatest number in the county's history. The present number is 1,226, of which 1,171 are men and 55 women.

"We were in a bad way," Warden Moneypenny explained, "because we had a more desperate lot of prisoners than are ordinarily in custody at one time. Right now we have William (Three Fingered Jack) White and Claude Maddox, public enemies, Frank Nitti of the Capone gang, William Lanhart, who a few weeks ago obtained a revolver and planned to shoot his way out of the jail and who is now awaiting the death penalty, and Willie Moody, who is also awaiting execution."

Speed Up Criminal Cases.

The overcrowded condition was relieved through the coöperation of Chief Justice McGoorty, the other Criminal Court judges, and Public Defender Benjamin S. Bachrach, the warden explained. Justice McGoorty directed that cases of prisoners in jail be given precedence over defendants out on bail. In the speeding up process since Sept. 1, 196 prisoners have been sent to the penitentiary, 85 to the reformatory at Pontiac, 75 to the House of Correction, and one to the Elgin Insane asylum.

Public Defender Bachrach, since his appointment on Oct. 1, has represented defendants in 342 indictments. His report shows disposition as follows: 177 indictments disposed of during October, of which 10 were cases tried before juries and in which there were 5 acquittals and one verdict of insanity. In 87 cases tried with juries waived he obtained 32 not guilty verdicts and the rest were convictions. In his cases 38 prisoners went to the penitentiary, 27 to Pontiac, 27 to the House of Correction, 3 to the county jail, 1 to the state farm, and 1 to the insane asylum.

While the activities of Mr. Bachrach and the judges have helped to depopulate the jail, the warden said, the policy of Assistant State's Attorney A. C. De Witt, in charge of the bond department, has restricted the release of prisoners. De Witt will not accept mortgaged property as bail in cases of crimes of violence and the result is that fewer of that class of prisoners can furnish bail.

Confess Kidnaping Yocum, Wealthy Galva, Ill., Banker

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Confessing participation in the recent kidnaping of Earl Yocum of Galva, Ill., wealthy banker, Lloyd Winslow, 42 year old farmer of Stark county, Ill., signed extradition waivers at police headquarters this evening and will be returned to the scene of the abduction Wednesday. They at first demanded $200,000 ransom. Later they cut their demands to $50,000. But Yocum was freed without paying a cent.

The arrival of Sheriff Charles Nash of Henry county, Ill., cleared Clarence B. Raidle, whose body was found early Tuesday in an automobile near Charlotte, Mich., of any part in the abduction. Authorities at Charlotte were investigating the youth's death on the belief that he has been a member of the kidnapers and, having turned informer, was slain by Winslow, an acquaintance.

Waivers for the return to Illinois were also signed by Elmer Schimmell, and his father, Roland, of Detroit, who are accused of aiding and abetting the kidnapers.

Nash disclosed, after the waivers were signed, that three men, who had financed the actual kidnapers, were in custody. They are Earl Leggett, Eugene Sterns, a former policeman, and Charles Black, all of Bradford, Ill. These men, Nash said, provided the money to carry out the abduction of Yocum. The two Whiskers, Al Green and Winslow did the work, Winslow said.

Winslow was arrested on the street here when detectives recognized him from description.

Under further questioning Winslow is said to have admitted his part in kidnaping of Yocum, and named the men now in custody as his accomplices. When Nash arrived here he was informed of the confession and taken to Winslow's cell. Following a few minutes discussion Winslow signed papers waiving extradition. Both Schimmell's signed waivers on presentation.

Nash denied that Clarence Raidle found dead in Charlotte today had any connection with Yocum's detention and said, as closely as could be ascertained, Winslow had come to Detroit from Illinois with the Schimmells. Winslow and the alleged kidnapers are to be arraigned at Cambridge, Ill., the county seat, Thursday, Nash said.

ITALY PROPOSES NAVY HOLIDAY TO END FRENCH ROW

Suggests 6 Year 'Truce' in Ship Race.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Nov. 4.—Hugh S. Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium, left Rome today for Geneva, where he will present an important Italian proposal to the French delegates. The proposal is aimed to ease the present tension between the two countries and create an atmosphere favorable to the settlement of the naval deadlock.

Italy, according to reliable information, suggests a naval holiday for all classes of ships—capital ships, of course, are already covered by the extension of the Washington treaty, signed in London—pending the outcome of the negotiations. So that the disarmament conversations, which are expected to be resumed at Geneva next week, will take place under no cloud of a possible naval race in the event of their breakdown, the Italians are willing, it is understood, to offer to extend the naval holiday up to 1936. This is said to be the offer Mr. Gibson is bearing northward tonight.

Offer Comes Suddenly.

This offer was evolved suddenly out of the darkest pessimism over the entire situation. What actuated it is not yet entirely clear. Mr. Gibson, 48 hours ago made no effort to conceal the feeling that his mission was fruitless, and that what certain sources interpreted as genuine intervention by the United States was at the moment unavailing.

This afternoon, however, when he took the train, he seemed pleased, and those near him said he declared that things were looking up. It was stated that there had been no new developments during the last 36 hours.

Certain it is that Mr. Gibson was unexpectedly asked to see Foreign Minister Grandi last night. After the visit, the American envoy was convinced that the Fascist hierarchy is eager to get down to serious conversations under the best possible atmosphere.

Gives Italy Assurance.

Mr. Gibson is believed to have given the Italians something very close to assurance that the French would accept the offer and resume conversations at once.

The Italian offer goes further even than the proposal Sig. Grandi made to the senate last June, when he urged Italy to suspend naval building until after the conclusion of the conversations, which the two powers agreed to press after they had failed to get results at London. The upshot, it is recalled, was the agreement between Paris and Rome to suspend building until Dec. 1. As a result 27 keels which Premier Mussolini had announced would be laid this year, were not put down. It was considered they would have been next year, some perhaps next month.

Now Sig. Grandi revives his offer and is willing to extend the holiday until 1936.

Gibson's Visit Dramatic.

Mr. Gibson's visit here has been in a sense dramatic. In his early conversations he undoubtedly ran up against complete intransigeance. He is understood to have indicated to Rome, as he had indicated to Paris, that Washington, as well as London and Tokio, considers it necessary this state of affairs be ended because it endangered the tripartite London pact.

The Italians have been aware that in this deadlock, in which the other powers have been vitally interested, the first to make make a gesture would put herself in a more favorable position in the eyes of the world. It has been believed here that what the French were intending to do was to offer to enter the London pact.

NATION-WIDE PACIFIST FIGHT TO BLOCK NEW WARSHIPS IS OPENED

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—A nation-wide pacifist campaign to block the authorization of new warships permitted the United States under the London naval treaty was initiated today by officials of the national council for prevention of war.

In letters sent out to its membership and affiliated organizations which Frederick J. Libby, its executive secretary, today appealed for increased contributions for use on the Washington battle front during the short session of congress beginning in December.

According to the communications, the national council officials after consultation for three days with delegates from affiliated or other peace groups has decided to oppose any "further authorization of naval vessels this winter." The letter points out that it takes money to influence a country as large as the United States and for that reason it asks its former contributors to increase their last year's contributions.

The council expended $170,000 during the last twelve months on various projects.

As a result of the decision of the pacifist groups to fight all new warship legislation, a battle royal is certain to follow introduction of a naval bill in the house this fall. Naval officials have virtually completed their new authorization program and present indications are a bill carrying authorizations for such new cruisers, destroyers, submarines, and aircraft carriers as can be laid down during the next two or three years without materially increasing the present naval budget, will be recommended to congress by the navy department with White House approval.

Officials of the general board of the navy have completed a ten year program, which, if carried out on schedule, would give the United States a fleet up to the London treaty tonnage limits by 1942 at the latest.

The move to halt all new authorizations of warships was begun by the national council immediately after the ratifications putting the pact into effect were deposited at the British foreign office in London a few days ago.

HOOVER CALLS ON U. S. TO OBSERVE ARMISTICE DAY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—The annual proclamation for the national observance of Armistice day was issued by President Hoover today.

"Whereas, The eleventh day of November, 1918, is forever memorable as the day upon which ended the world war, with its attendant suffering and wastage of human life," the proclamation reads.

"And whereas, It is fitting that the anniversary of this day should be commemorated by exercises which shall do honor to all those who served our country and especially to the memory of those who died in its service, believing that their sacrifice was in the cause of peace, which we thereby are solemnly bound to do all in our power to advance and secure; and

"Whereas, By concurrent resolution of the senate and the house of representatives, in 1926, the President was requested to issue a proclamation for the observance of Armistice day;

"Now, therefore, I, Herbert Hoover, President of the United States of America, in pursuance of the said concurrent resolution, do hereby order that the flag of the United States be displayed on all government buildings on Nov. 11, 1930, and do invite the people of the United States to observe the day in schools and churches and other suitable places with appropriate ceremonies giving expression to our gratitude that this year past has seen the agencies of peace sensibly strengthened and that our relations with other peoples are firmly grounded in amity and concord."

SYNOPSIS.

Sheila Fay married King George despite the opposition of her uncle and guardian, John Donohue, and her former suitor, Jim Molloy, and disapproving friends.

King, known as "the wild boy of Harvard," must wait several years before receiving the principal of the fortune left by his father, Joshua George, of chewing gum fame.

After the wedding they elope to avoid the reception. Instead of going to Monterey, where their baggage had been shipped, they slip off to Lake Tahoe. King is strangely restless and irritable, and a phone call which Sheila overhears King make reveals to her the cause—he is a drug addict and because of their changed honeymoon plans is without a supply. Sheila determines to fight for King's regeneration and consults a federal narcotic agent, who suggests a program which, if rigidly adhered to, would effect a cure.

King had entered his favorite horse, Wind, in the Tia Juana races, with the intention of riding him himself, so they go to San Diego. The day before the race Sheila overhears her husband and his trainer planning to dope Wind to insure his winning. The day of the race King asks Sheila to place his bets for him on Wind. Instead, she places them on his opponent, who wins. After the race Sheila tells King what she had done and why.

King had promised Sheila to go with her to Alaska after the races. Jim Molloy is in Nome and he meets them there, at Sheila's request. He helps her to carry out her plan to take King to a remote spot, there to help him fight off his baneful habit. Sheila and Jim had booked passage on the boat returning to California. Jim invites them for an early farewell breakfast at his cabin. King's coffee is drugged and Sheila and Jim depart with the unconscious King for a cabin not far from Nome, although seemingly in the heart of the wilderness. Two servants, an Eskimo couple, hired by Jim, are already at the cabin.

INSTALLMENT XV.

THE FROZEN WILDERNESS.

"No coffee, Sheila. Thanks for the eats. Empty that bottle into yourself. 'Twill buck you up; keep you warm."

"There's enough for both. Well, I'll drink first. Such good coffee——" Just what she'd said in the cottage about the doped stuff! Silently, they ate the meager lunch. Was Jim thinking, too, of other picnic meals they had had together in her crimson roadster, and on trails and happy beaches?

It was not long before he called her attention to the river; to the boat and a figure on the far bank. "We're here none too soon. The slush ice is beginning to run. Sheila, did I think to tell you your flunkeys' names? His is Happy Jack, or Hi-Jack for short. Hers—the Eskimos think we have a partiality for the name of Casino. They borrow it, frequently, for their women. Hi-Jack and Casino, suggestive, isn't it. Our Americanization! Will you remember to give Casino a note for me once a month? I won't attempt to see you, but I'll mush in regularly and will expect an honest report."

"Yes, major."

When they left the flatcar she wanted to help Jim carry his awkward burdan, but he insisted he could manage better alone; she could take the light pieces: the basket, the handbags, the robes. There were several trips between car and boat. Sheila noted the snow was no longer melting as it fell.

Pushing away from the bank, Jim gave her a questioning look. "Okeh, Sheila?"

"Okeh, Jim."

"Want a cigaret?"

"I smoked my last one yesterday."

"Wouldn't it be wiser to break off gradually?"

"No, major."

After a pause: "I mustn't forget to tell you about walks. Every day in the open, no matter how raw the weather is. Natives, the intelligent ones, say sickness—they mean scurvy—is caused by lack of exercise and by confined air, as well as by improper food. But never go far from the cabin. And don't put any trust in a clear sky. A storm can rise and conceal your bearings before you are aware. An hour's distance from food and fire can mean death to a Chechako."

"All right, major."

From her fur covered seat in the stern of the skiff she was questioning a certain snow tipped hill. Was it in the cañon to the left where the cabin was hidden? Jim had said it was "in a box cañon, opening on the tundra." She prayed this first flurry of snow presaged then a swift possession of the land by winter storms. For if King had been the least observant of his surroundings during their drives, he would recognize this group of hills when untransformed by snow; he would find his way to the crossing; he would know he was not hopelessly remote from Nome. . . .

The sky was now assuming a slate colored hue. Briskly the snow was falling. King's face had to be kept covered, but every few minutes she would widen the chink between fur rug and pillow to assure herself his eyes were still closed. Fiercely she yearned to kiss the motionless lids and to pat the sleek dark hair. Just that way Mary George must have brooded over him; just that passionately protective yearning must she have felt for him, that mother whose spirit seemed always to hover among the cypresses. Praying for her boy . . . ? Did she know some one else was carrying on for her? If spirit is immortal, does it also triumph over time? "Does she know we're going to win out?" murmured the wife, her hand on King's head giving her the sense of partnership in the struggle facing her. Only the wind and the soft lapping of the oar induced waves against the sides of the boat answered her.

Jim's voice startled her. She had a way of forgetting Jim; of taking him for granted. "Prepare for a bump, Sheila."

The way he always said it, giving it the sound and rhythm of "darling." She flicked a shameful tear from her lashes, and then in case Jim, the watchful, had observed brushed an imaginary flake of snow from her cheek. . . . Tears of sadness, of self-pity! She was just like other women after all. No such thing as a superwoman; nature levels 'em all. . . .

Molloy was tossing a rope to the figure on the bank; the fur wrapped Eskimo caught it on the first throw; he was pulling the boat to land; now Jim was leaping over the boatside and dragging on the rope.

"Come, Sheila." To the Eskimo he said, "Your big boss, Mrs. George, Hi-Jack."

"We'll pack as many of the gadgets as we can carry on the stretcher." Molloy was working as he spoke; piling luggage on the bank and preparing to move the silent figure so Sheila could be released. "Can you manage that one bag and, perhaps, a rug? The lightest one. You won't need the lunch basket any more. We'll ditch it in the boat. It'll come in handy on the ride back."

Jim had eaten mere tidbits that day. Of course, it would come in "handy." She must remember to make him eat at the cabin—at the Ekimo's cabin in case King should regain consciousness before the departure for Nome.

The job of extricating and placing King on the stretcher was one to which she could give little assistance. When it was accomplished, Jim returned to the boat where she sat.

"Take my hand. Grab it; it won't bite. Very slippery here. Put on your parka at once. And it'll be easier to carry. Pull the hook over your hat, so. I'll have to make a second trip to the cabins, I think; Hi-Jack can't manage all of this." To the Eskimo: "Here, you. Take the other end."

At a trot they started off bearing the heavily burdened stretcher. Jim threw a word over his shoulder to the girl who was struggling with the fastenings of her mukluks. "Take the walk easy. Don't try to keep up with our pace. But keep us in sight, though."

As in a dream, she followed them. None of this was real. She would waken to find herself again at Hillsborough; Sheila Fay. This other woman who was running away with her husband to jail him was a stranger, a person in melodrama. Those men moving briskly ahead of her, and that sinister burden being borne over the whitening ground had no relation to the one following them; they also were a part of the confused dream, of the lurid drama. . . .

Every now and then, the taller of the two men would turn to wave an encouraging hand. Once, he would have halted, did pause, but she waved for him to go on. Twice she had to stop and adjust her light burdens. And then trudged doggedly on.

She saw when they made an abrupt turn, disappearing in the cut between the hills. It was several minutes before she reached the point where two openings confused her. Where was the cabin? For neither of the huts could be seen. And then she recalled what Jim had told her about chimney smoke causing a mist to settle about a dwelling; that it would settle and obscure a low hut. That mist yonder resting on the ground was one of the cabins—what a Chechako she was! There were the footprints leading the way!

At last the ascent to the refuge was reached. Jim was standing at the door. . . .

One look at her face, and he had pulled a chair close to the entrance; he was placing her within its comfortable arms; he was taking her burden from her. . . . She had a swift, poignant view of the room: King's body lying prostrate on the couch in one curtained corner; the airtight stove giving out reddened heat in the center of the room; the hearth where logs were dimly burning; caribou skins on the floor. . . .

She waved the solicitous Jim away from her. "Don't—mind—me. I'll get—my—breath—soon."

He bent over her to whisper: "Take off your wraps, but not all at once. I'm going to remove his shoes and his collar.

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

Once upon a time Frank Stockton wrote a story called "The Lady and the Tiger," which left you to figure out your own ending. "The Big Fight" is also the story of a lady and a "Tiger," and IT keeps you guessing plenty until the end, when everything's cleared up for you. The "Tiger" in this instance is an honest prizefighter, whose swiftness and ferocity in combat have won him the title.

This agile gentleman is engaged to a girl with a weak and erring brother, whose life is at the mercy of a tough gangster who doesn't know what mercy means. But he does know how to bargain. Thus the gangster to the fiancée:

"We'll set your brother free all right if YOU'LL make 'Tiger' lose this fight!"

[Fight for the championship, you know.]

The fiancée gives her promise true to the gangster.

Does she keep it? Nobody's telling you in this column.

"The Big Fight" is interesting ring and gangster stuff. Its good players are excellently cast and the director has made the most of his story material. The piece is well staged and photographed and the sound does well by the dialogue, which gets over nicely, especially as regards Stepin Fetchit's meandering monologues.

You should, on the whole, be satisfactorily entertained by this program melodrama.

"THE LOTUS LADY."

Presented at the Castle theater.
Featuring Fern Andra, Ralph Emerson, Betty Francisco, Lucien Privat and Frank Leigh.

"Dear Mr. Pot
How very hot
You must have got
And all for—what?"

"The Lotus Lady" features a trashy story, poorly produced and directed. Several of the players are capable ones. They do not include the leading woman, who acts amateurishly and sings so badly that she is pathetic. All are handicapped by disheartening rôles. Most of the action takes place in Indo-China. The "lotus lady" is a noble dance hall entertainer who talks Pidgin French and is greatly desired by all men—for what reasons you will please tell me if you guess. In the face of much villiainy she weds an equally noble young American, residing thereabouts for reasons of self-sacrifice. Events prior to and succeeding the marriage carry you back to the days when Laura Jean Libbey reigned and wrote serene in a world that was all her own.

See you soon.

Britain's King, Prince Reopen Castle Chapel of Knights of Garter

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

WINDSOR, Nov. 4.—[Special.]—The colorful pageant of Britain's history was recalled at today's reopening service at St. George's chapel in Windsor castle, shrine of English chivalry, attended by the king and queen and other members of the royal family.

The restoration of the chapel, home of the Knights of the Garter since Edward III., has taken ten years, costing $1,000,000.

The king, prince of Wales, and the duke of York, and other members of the order were in prosaic morning dress, but the clergy of the order were in gorgeous medieval robes of scarlet adorned with the garter and the famous motto: "Honi soit qui mal y pense." The Knights of Windsor wore splendid uniforms of scarlet and gold.

A brilliant morning sun was streaming through the refurbished windows. Ex-King Manoel of Portugal was in the knight's stalls, while ambassadors and ministers represented foreign royalties unable to attend. Ramsay MacDonald occupied a stall near one the ex-kaiser used in pre-war days.

Incidentally, while the kaiser's banner was taken down, it was observed today that the kaiser's plaque still remains. Sir Austen Chamberlain, the only Knight of the Garter not also a peer, sat with the knights.

The service was one of simple dignity of only a half hour and without a sermon. A prayer for the sovereign and companions of the garter by the dean and the chancellor's prayer for the college was concluded with a te deum and the national anthem.

Russian Finds Vodka Fights Its Way Back

Repressive Efforts Add Some New Evils.

BY M. M. NOWINSKI.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Nov. 4.—"We wanted to smash vodka, but vodka smashed us."

This was the statement of M. Milotoff, one of the chief organizers of the soviet five year plan during a meeting of representatives of all communist organizations from all parts of the country, summoned to Moscow to discuss means of curbing an alarming increase in drunkenness.

Official soviet statistics make no secret of the fact that under attempts to repress the consumption of vodka the country has become a river of alcohol. Government factories of vodka are furnishing less than one-tenth of the total amount consumed in the country. The rest is bootlegged and, like the American article, is the cheapest imaginable.

According to government figures the consumption of alcohol has increased within the last five years by at least ten times. In the year 1924-'25 the total production of liquor was 510,000 liters, while in 1928-'29 it rose to 5,237,000. The average consumption of alcohol has increased from 5.4 liters to 9.1 liters per capita. A liter is somewhat more than a quart.

More vodka is consumed in Moscow than anywhere else. For the year 1928-'29 in this one city alone the consumption of liquor amounted to 31,000,000 liters and 62,000,000 liters of beer. These figures are obtained by multiplying the amount legally manufactured by ten, the admitted percentage of bootlegged booze in Russia.

The consumers are members of the communist party, officials, workmen of factories, members of the communist youth movement, and, worst of all, children.

The map prepared for the conference stated that every factory, school, or government office is surrounded by saloons, wine stores, and beer gardens. In addition to these open places for the sale of liquor a tremendous number of speakeasies are in operation under protection of the red police and cheka agents.

Nellie Melba, Opera Singer, Seriously Ill, on Australian Cruise

TREMANTLE, West Australia, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Mme. Nellie Melba, operatic soprano arriving here aboard the liner Cathay today, was so ill her physician forbade her landing.

The prima donna, whose home is in Coldstream, Victoria, has been indisposed for the last four days, it was said. She is 64 years old.

Mme. Nellie Melba [Helen Porter Mitchell] was born in Richmond, near Melbourne, Australia, in 1866, and took the pseudonym of Melba after her debut as Gilda in "Rigoletto" in Brussels in 1887.

Her success was instantaneous. She first appeared in New York in 1893 and thereafter sang in the United States frequently. Her greatest success probably was in 1903. She then returned to Australia and sang before heads of the colonial governments and immense audiences.

Her repertoire included leading French and Italian rôles. She has been the recipient of numerous gifts and decorations from sovereigns and others. She was created a dame of the British Empire in 1918 for her war work.

Well Known in Chicago.

Mme. Melba was well known to Chicago opera goes at the Auditorium, where she appeared several seasons.

Americans to Hear Art Talks Delivered by Old Master Faker

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 4.—America's legendary appetite for lecturers soon is to be treated to a novelty. According to reports, Jean Charles Millet, now in prison for having forged the name of his illustrious grandfather to worthless canvases, will leave for America as soon as the authorities release him. He will lecture on French art, it's said.

It is also believed that Millet plans an exhibition of some of his faked pastoral paintings in the United States.

While he was living comfortably in a Paris jail, young Millet, who also is an able artist, devoted most of his time to preparing a series of lectures. As the grandson of Jean Francois Millet, he may have some interesting observations to make on past and modern schools.

Paul Cazot, former house-painter whose talent for copying paintings of Millet and other French masters almost approached genius, may accompany young Millet on his trip to America. His ability to reproduce the particular style of each painter was such as to dupe experts and heads of various art museums and it is believed that many of his canvases are in the United States.

It is reported that a lecture bureau has solicited Millet's visit.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

THE Chicago version of "Lysistrata" had its première at the Majestic theater last night, and those who came with austere literary ideals remained to roar indecorously at a lusty and lecherous old Greek burlesque, full of ideas that may be called naughty as well as ideals that are noble. From now on, I think, Greek will be a popular subject in the colleges and culture clubs.

This striking production by the Philadelphia Theater Association reveals Aristophanes to the American playgoer as a comic dramatist who is alive and up to date in spite of the fact that he flourished some 2,400 years ago. He was a poet and satirist, highly respected by the learned professors, of course; but his sense of humor was inherited by W. S. Gilbert of the well known operettas, and his sense of modesty has been adopted by the fellows who write "black-out" sketches for the Broadway revues.

In other words, old man Aristophanes was a roguish, rollicking, bawdy-minded author whose stuff fits perfectly into this wise-cracking and brazen era. His "Lysistrata" may be a classic, but as staged in this manner [which is an approximation of the old Athenian comic technique], it is also a gorgeous show, blessed with pagan and eternal humor.

Normal Bel Geddes, high ranking modernist in stage design, has arranged this production in a way upon which Gordon Craig, the high priest of stylized and geometric settings, may beam with complete approval. There is no archeology here, but a simple suggestion of hillside and temple walls, bathed magically in changing lights. The groupings and movements of the characters are according to the latest word from the art theaters. The background and the costumes are rich color. Success, therefore, for Mr. Geddes. One feels that Reinhardt himself couldn't have improved upon this method of giving a Greek comedy its pristine vitality and grace.

But Aristophanes himself, and his troupe of comedians, are the important matters. They start out in the grave and measured beat of the Greek tragedies, but not many minutes elapse before you see that this is a parody and that a low jinks, with high satire behind it, is the intention of everybody. You discover that the war with Sparta has annoyed the women of Athens and that they, in their own fiendish, feminine way, have decided to do something about it. They declare a sex strike against their husbands and lovers until the war is over; and they are decidedly frank in their discussion of the topic.

The frolic gets bolder and more flagrant as the evening laughs itself away. The returned warriors neigh for their mates and the pretty ladies of Athens nicker in return; but Lysistrata, zealous crusader and president of the Athenian Woman's club, holds the amorous damsels to their oath of abstinence. Finally, there is a passage between Kinesias, a midget lancer in the national guard, and Myrrhina, his yearning young wife, description of which defies newspaper publication. But you will laugh at it with no sense of shame.

This Chicago company is, one feels, an earnest endeavor to reach the level of the New York company in every rôle, and it gives an admirable account of itself. Mrs. Coburn is an impressive Lysistrata; Charles Coburn is as comic as De Wolf Hopper would be as the president of the senate; Nydia Westman is exceedingly droll as Kalonika; Juliette Day is a charming Myrrhina, and the incidental girls are pretty enough to belong in a Ziegfeld revue.

Yehudi Menuhin Hailed by Critics for Vienna Work

VIENNA, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Vienna music critics today hailed Yehudi Menuhin, 13 year old American violin virtuoso. He played before a large audience here last night for the first time.

Applause was at first friendly, later warm, and finally a veritable storm. "It was not for Vienna to discover Menuhin, but it can subscribe to the world judgment which hails the gallant lad not merely as a discreetly advertised wonder but perceives in him a rising star," one critic said.

Baby's Brains Brighter than Keenest Apes'

European Tests Apply Newest Psychology.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 4.—What all mothers know, and only a few sour bachelors doubt has now been definitely established by the youngest branch of psychology, infant study. An eleven months baby has more brains and knows better how to use them than the brainiest of full grown chimpanzees or other varieties of high grade apes. Scientific tests carried out with thousands of babies in central Europe show clearly the superiority of the babe in arms, infant pschologists declared at a conference just held in Berlin.

Heretofore you had to take the word of fond parents, if you wanted to know about Baby John's or Baby Jane's mental development. Now prominent men and women of science have worked out a whole series of tests, which will enable anybody interested in children to find out exactly how even the baby rates. Psychologists under the guidance of Sigmund Freud and Alfred Adler have spent years trying to trace events in the childhood of their patients to establish the cause of psychosis that developed symptoms resembling many organic ailments.

Infant psychologists are trying to make use of this knowledge and to establish exactly how youngsters can be protected and given the best possible foundation for future happiness.

At a conference in Berlin Frau Dr. Irma Hift Schnierer summarized the findings of the new science. She paid special tribute to Frau Dr. Hildegard Hetzer, head of the "Child Psychology Research institute in Vienna." The latter has tested more than 700 children since 1926, when a start was made with 69 babies.

After carrying out thousands of tests infant psychologists now feel ready to settle some long standing topics of argument.

In the first place, environment does matter, even well before the first birthday—and a home, be it ever so humble, is a better environment for the development of the baby than a clinic. On the basis of the performance tests devised and applied by the research workers, barely 50 per cent of the infants in the care of Vienna clinics were able to make the grade, while 85 per cent of those from good homes "passed," and between 60 and 70 per cent of those even from homes where poor housing and living condition prevailed.

Here is what one may expect of a 2 months old child; Ability to hold its head up, even when laid face down; moving away from the source of a disagreeable sound; defending itself or resisting when its nose is cleaned; staring at a silver bell; making interrupted or stammering sounds, and at least a start in using its fingers as a means of play and amusement, rather than haphazardly, as a newborn does.

At 10 months the parent may look for something like this: Ability to take off its face a clean cloth laid there, as in the game of "peek-a-boo"; finding a ball tucked away out of sight; watching its nurse playing with a whistle; ability to imitate another person striking a bell, and a "memory picture" duration of at least 30 seconds.

This last is tested for amusingly enough: A rubber toy, made in the shape of a hen and a ball, is given to the infant. It is taken away—the psychological testers being great "Indian givers"—and when it is returned the hen shaped part is missing. If no more than half a minute has elapsed the 10 months old child should look for the missing part.

Other children may be expected to have more durable "memory pictures." A 21 months child should be able to remember for some 19 minutes.

The progressive development from one level of ability to another depends very largely on environment. If a child who rated normally in the nursery home is taken away to surroundings that are very unfavorable it will not be long till a marked falling off in expected ability will be shown by the tests. But, on the other hand, in a home with any normal amount of tenderness, sympathy, and intelligent care, the child's progress will speed up so that it will go ahead of the point it would have reached in the public home, according to experimenters of the new school of applied psychology.

They believe they will be able to help parents guide their babies safely through the first two years of their lives, in which, according to Herren Freud and Adler, the foundation for the whole future existance of a child is laid.

LET THE CRITICS TELL YOU ABOUT
"The BIG TRAIL"

By Mae Tinee.
Good Morning!
What a long, long trail that WAS, a-winding to the land of the pioneers' dreams! And how admirably Raoul Walsh, in "The Big Trail," has caught the spirit that inspired the treks of our ancestors and impelled their covered wagons over the prairies and mountains of early days! Here is a picture to reckon with! A picture to thrill the soul, delight the eye, and give a fillip to the patriotism of even the most carping observer!

"No matter what kind of a picture you like best, you'll like this one better. You must see it and soon, too."

BY ROB REEL.
"The Big Trail," filmed in the great outdoors, is like a breath of fresh and fragrant country air. It shows you panoramas of the west that will make you "oh" and "ah." If there have ever been finer scenic shots in a movie, this columnist has never encountered them. And they are more beautiful by projection at McVickers on an enlarged screen.

By DORIS ARDEN
"THE BIG TRAIL" ought to send little shivers of pride up and down the spine of any country-loving American. It is one of the most vivid and beautiful records of pioneer history we have yet seen. It winds its way across the screen at McVickers in spectacular style, setting forth the courage and hardships of those forefathers who made the trek across a lonely and picturesque country to settle and civilize the west. It's a picture that represents a tremendous undertaking—it cost a fortune, so they say. This time it's worth all the excitement.

Mrs. Carpenter to Talk Today on Decoration

BY THALIA

Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, who has been in and out of town several times this fall, arrived again late yesterday afternoon. The particular mission timing her arrival this time is the talk she is to give at the Casino this morning on "Modern Interior Decoration."

She and her daughter, Miss Genevieve Carpenter, who was expected to come to Chicago several weeks ago, have been at their summer place at Charlotte, Vt., until a few days ago. Miss Carpenter is remaining in New York City a little longer, and will probably come west in about another week.

Mrs. Carpenter is expected to explain "What is this art of decoration?" illustrating her discussion by pointing out the various decorative aspects of the Casino which she has conceived. The talk, which is given under the auspices of the League of Women Voters, will be followed by numerous luncheon parties at the Casino. Hostesses for these include Mrs. Clair E. More and Mrs. Gerhardt Meyne, who with Mrs. Grant Laing compose the committee in charge. Mrs. George Packard, Mrs. Murry Nelson, Mrs. John E. Senn, Mrs. William S. Ennis, Mrs. A. A. Carpenter, Mrs. Ralph Winston, and Mrs. Charles Wacker.

The Vocational Society for Shut-ins announces a sale at the residence of Mrs. William France Anderson in Hinsdale today from 10 to 5 o'clock. The assisting committee includes Mrs. E. C. Baker, Mrs. Dean Barnard, Mrs. Philip Clarke, Mrs. Norman Freer, Mrs. Robert W. Hamill, Mrs. Carlyle MacHarg, Mrs. Ralph Kimball, Mrs. John D. Matz, Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody, Mrs. Dana Slade, and Mrs. Kay Wood.

Miss Eleanor Dennehy is to give a debut dinner-dance for her sister, Miss Josephine Dennehy, at the Casino this evening. The party is to be in lieu of a formal debut reception. The debutante's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Dennehy, who have taken the Clive Runnels apartment at 2450 Lake View avenue, are to give a ball for her in December.

The International theater will open its season tomorrow evening with the performance of "Mon Cure Chez les Riches" at the Goodman theater. Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. Walter Brewster, Mrs. Moise Dreyfus, and Mrs. Waller Borden are among the season ticket holders.

The Junior Friends of Art held a friendship meeting yesterday afternoon. The year's program was outlined to create various branches of activities to establish a closer coöperation among the members.

Miss Alice Gerstenberg, whose new book of plays, "Comedies All," has just been published, has joined the executive staff of the Goodman theater. Miss Gerstenberg's activities in connection with theatrical projects has included the publishing of several books, the dramatization of "Alice in Wonderland," and of Charles Kingsley's "Water Babies," produced by the Henry Jewett Repertory company in Boston last winter.

With Miss Annette Washburne she founded the Chicago Junior League theater for children. She started the Playwrights' theater, of which she now is president. She was one of the original active members of Maurice Browne's Little Theater of Chicago.

The Playwrights' theater opens its winter season tomorrow evening with two plays, "No Sabe," by Elisha Cook, and "Legally Dead," by Oren E. Taft, to be given at the Illinois Woman's Athletic club. The cast for the first play includes Miss Margaret Carr, Gerald A. Frank, John H. Stambaugh, Clifford Manthorne, and Arthur Gauchat. Appearing in "Legally Dead" there will be Jessica Calhoun Swartz, Anita Baker, Evelyn Volkhardt, Alice Francis, Edward H. Passmore, Shelley B. Neltnor, Howard Cox, and Arthur Franz.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Odell have moved in from Lake Forest and are to be at the Lake Shore Drive hotel until after the holidays.

Gen. and Mrs. Edward Louis Spears [Mary Borden] landed in New York City on Monday on the S. S. Brittanic for a visit in America. Gen. Spears is to arrive in Chicago this afternoon and Mrs. Spears is to come on from New York City in a few days. While in this country the Spearses will visit Mrs. Spears' mother, Mrs. William Borden in New York, and her brother and sister-in-law, the John Bordens of the Ambassador East.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin P. Smith and their sons have come into town from Lake Forest to be at the Drake hotel until after the holidays. They plan to go south for their annual winter stay in Florida in early January.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Pick announce the birth of a son, Thomas Frederick Pick, at the Presbyterian hospital last Sunday morning. Mrs. Pick is the former Frances Weis and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Weis of the Lake Shore Drive hotel.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS UNDER ATTACK AT PASTEUR INSTITUTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 4.—Infantile paralysis, which annually kills or cripples hundreds of children though the world is under constant attack at the Pasteur institute here.

For twelve years Dr. Auguste Pettit of that institute has been working on a serum. Now that serum exists. Every year sees its improvement.

Dr. Pettit's serum is not an unfailing cure. It is so effective, however, that a serious epidemic of infantile paralysis a few months ago in Paris and throughout eastern France, necessitating the postponing of French army maneuvers, was checked.

A curious feature of the serum is that it has been worked out without the actual microbe of the disease ever having been isolated. In order to inoculate animals with the disease—the first step in obtaining a serum—a culture has to be made from marrow containing the deadly virus. Another curious thing about the serum is that it won for its discoverer a prize from the French Academy of Medicine before he himself became a member.

The serum is derived from horses and the large monkeys. For the slightest operation they are given an anaesthetic.

Though it is far more difficult to obtain monkeys than horses, the serum from the monkey is considerably more efficacious.

This serum does not retain its efficacy for a long time, therefore the institute prefers to supply it directly, thus insuring its freshness. Dr. Pettit already has sent it to the United States.

Iraq Children Now Attending Public Schools

BY ERNEST MAIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASRAH, Nov. 4.—The educational system of Iraq is showing remarkable expansion and improvement.

Under the Turks, practically no provision was made, an exception being the American mission established in the gulf towns by the Dutch Reformed church. Only the sons of well to do persons went to school, and not all of these went to the usual finishing schools in Constantinople or Paris.

Now that Iraq has achieved independence, government schools have been established all over the country. The American mission continues, but the basis of education has been widened, and in some cases clever boys, even from the coolie classes, are receiving education in the state schools and are doing well.

For the first time in centuries, Moslem girls are now receiving in this country education almost equal to that of the boys. It was with some difficulty that male inspectors and officials were permitted by public opinion to enter girls' classrooms, but now no one pays any attention to this, although the older girls veil themselves on such occasions.

There still is little higher education in Iraq. One difficulty is the lack of teachers; another factor is that there has scarcely been time to develop the school population to advanced school age, since it has only been ten years since the new régime started.

The educational system is progressing at such a rate, however, that a University of Iraq soon may be expected at Bagdad. Then Iraq's capital will begin to return to its medieval position as a center of learning.

The Shiah holy cities of Nejef and Kerbala are centers of education of another sort. It is entirely religious and is based on a close and literal study of the Koran. The students are mostly destined for religious work.

Only Car Sickness Restricts Fish Varieties at Shedd Aquarium

Walter H. Chute, director of the Shedd aquarium in Grant park, Monday returned from New York City. There he had visited an aquarium. He declared the New York display in no way overshadowed that of Chicago's new institution. He pointed out that when the two galleries, not yet open to the public, have received their full quota of rare marine specimens this aquarium will be the largest in the world.

"Of course, we are more or less handicapped because we are more than 1,000 miles from our source of supply," Mr. Chute said. "Many delicate fish cannot endure the three day journey. More than 85 per cent of our specimens are of the salt water varieties."

At present the aquarium tanks are holding 130 different species, of which a total of 3,500 specimens swim in circles under brilliant lights for the inspection of visitors. "When the galleries are all opened the fish population here will be 7,000 or more," Mr. Chute said.

Two 100 pound jewfish now head the list for size and weight. They come from Florida waters, where a crew of six fishermen constantly search for rare varieties. Several small sharks also belong to the troupe. Asked if these fish would ever outgrow their present quarters, Mr. Chute explained that conditions of captivity seem to limit the growth of the specimens. Each jewfish is fed five carp three times a week.

Water Color Show at Walden Gallery Proves Interesting

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Palmolive gallery of the Walden Book shop has an exhibit of various water colors, wood cuts, drawings, and oils which, while possibly slight in themselves, make when brought together an intriguing ensemble. J. Murry Wickard gallantly helps along the air of fantasy which pervades the exhibition. He mingles in an attractive way the sensitive beauty of Marie Laurencin's painting with the indirect suggestiveness which Picasso indorsed.

His "Winter" and "Summer" are a characteristic pair. Decorative and a little theatrical, they claim our attention and hold it. So do the impertinent tangle of "Cats" and the playful antics of a brother kitten who has captured a ball. Mr. Wickard's "Still Life," an abstraction, is charming in color and blend of design.

Woodcuts by Frank Long are on another wall, and these are the more interesting the less they approach imitation of Rockwell Kent. The flower pictures are particularly worth while. Helen West Heller is responsible for two amusing and decorative oil paintings, "Ducks at Night" and "Horses at Night." These are both really fine. Adolf Dehn, who has drunk his fill of Japanese prints and is not entirely recovered, shows a group of American landscapes which are a little unconvincing. They leave a great deal to the imagination. Two beautiful originals of Survage complete the exhibit.

The National Academy of Art is showing water colors and oils by Clara MacGowan. Miss MacGowan is a modernist with a good sense of color that never fails her and a knowledge of her craft which invariably comes to her assistance. "Near Rome" is an excellent illustration of her vivid brush at its best.

SOLDIER SEEKS OASIS ON BASIS OF STORY TOLD BY HERODOTUS

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 4.—In search of a legendary oasis believed to lie between Egypt and Libya, Maj. Ralph Bagnold of the Indian Royal Signal corps has just taken an expedition across the Libyan desert by a route which had not been traversed for 100 years.

Maj. Bagnold started westward from the Nile in three Ford touring cars with special truck bodies. The object of his perilous journey was the lost oasis of Zerzura, which was supposed to lie in the area beyond the great belt of sand dunes which run south from Siwa to Pottery Hill. The growth of these dunes blocked the old caravan route between Egypt and Libya.

Herodotus, in his history of Egypt, mentioned seven oases west of the Nile valley, of which five have been long well known and the sixth was discovered seven years ago. The Zerzura oasis has defied all searching, and despite the efforts of several expeditions it is still hidden, if it exists at all.

Its existence is based upon Arabs' assertions and traces of jackals and foxes found in a desert which is so bare of life that not a blade of vegetation grows on it. One expedition found pintail ducks in the desert, where no ducks should be alive, while the Rohlfs expedition in 1874 found a live, well fed snake at the foot of a hill containing neolithic and paleolithic flints.

Fifty or sixty years ago wild cattle came through to the Dakhla oasis, appearing from the southwest, and the inhabitants of Dakhla have a tale that a man lost in the desert saved his life by stumbling upon Zerzura.

The people of Dakhla believe Zerzura to be a lake with a hidden town on its edge.

In mixing cake batter you add the ingredients a little at a time to insure a smooth, light consistency. Hills Bros. roast their coffee a few pounds at a time to insure an even roast and perfect flavor.

WHEN COFFEE is roasted in bulk, an even roast cannot be guaranteed. Flavor variation is therefore inevitable. That is why Hills Bros. originated their patented, continuous process—Controlled Roasting. By this method every berry of the famous Hills Bros.' blend is roasted evenly.

As fast as Hills Bros. Coffee comes from the roasters it is packed in vacuum tins. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is completely taken out of the can and kept out by this vacuum pack. No matter when or where you buy a can of Hills Bros. Coffee it is roaster-fresh.

Threat of Divorce Too Often Bandied About, Says Doris

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"If you don't like it—get a divorce!"

That's what Mrs. B.'s husband tells her if she opens her mouth in criticism. Mr. B. came home rip-snorting drunk the other eve. At the next morning breakfast scene his spouse was invited to go to see a judge.

One cold day recently Mr. B. was asked to start the furnace. He told the lady who asked him to do it herself. She protested it was a man's job. He said he wasn't the man and if she didn't like the way things were run around here to get a divorce.

On another recent occasion Mr. B. let flow a torrent of blasphemy in the presence of his young son. He was chastised and againhe advised divorce.

Now a gentleman of such caliber might be served no better than by being treated to a divorce, with heavy alimony attachments. Nothing would so readily destroy his sweet illusions that divorce is the easy way out of one's troubles. As some of his brothers would testify, "It's only the beginning of them." He ought to meet some of the alimony lifers!

While the male in the case outlined probably is an unusual specimen, still that phrase, "Get a divorce if you don't like it," is becoming a too prevalent one. Quarrels, which are difficult to prevent entirely in such close relationship as marriage, are punctuated with phrases about divorce getting. Bad psychology, you must call it. Bad because it suggests a finality of affection, which in many quarreling cases is far from the truth. A divorce is not wanted. So, the flip phrase with the divorce sting in it were better left unsaid, for safety's sake.

In women's lives we hear, "I'll get a divorce and show you" has taken the place of "I'm going back home to mother's."

Now you may not believe in the power of suggestion, but you had better believe in it enough to avoid mentioning divorce. Time enough to talk about it when it is proven to be the only solution. Besides, divorce is not the liberator it is assumed to be in moments of reckless speech. It does not insure freedom from responsibility. It does not write finis to one's troubles.

FARM AND GARDEN
BY PAUL POTTER

For five years experiments have been conducted on the possibility of making artificial manure at low cost. The effectiveness of the product as a fertilizer is being shown now through results obtained by members of the soils section of the Iowa State college experiment station.

It is not recommended as a general practice, the workers announce, but it is said to be a successful venture for farmers willing to do the required work and expend what is called a relatively small amount for necessary chemicals.

The process consists of composting straw or cornstalks with certain chemicals and a sufficient water supply to stimulate rapid decomposition. Two of the manures were made by using a commercial preparation and another reagent consisting of finely ground rock phosphate and cyanamid in equal proportions. According to F. B. Smith, assistant chief in soils at the station, the effect of these artificial manures on crops was found to be practically as beneficial, and in some cases more so, than farm manure. The ability of the soil to produce available nitrates was increased in practically all cases.

Oats were grown in sand in one test, and the application of the special product resulted in larger yields than with farm manure. The largest increase in production was obtained on sand treated with sweet clover manure. Field experiments so far conducted are said to substantiate the increases in yields obtained in the laboratory and greenhouse.

This Dress Suit Takes Parisienne's Fancy

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—After the popular coat dresses come the new "dress-suits." I am really at a loss whether to call them suits or dresses, so I copy Humpty-Dumpty and apply to them the portmanteau word that has been selfishly monopolized to designate formal, gentlemanly, evening apparel.

Anyway, these new costumes are the last word in Paris daytime fashions. They have a skirt and a slip-on tunic that might be either a jacket or a blouse, but warm enough to step out in without an extra coat—up to date, that is—and the smartest ones, for afternoon, have short sleeves like the Germaine Lecomte dress-suit, sketched above.

She makes it of off-black red and trims it with dead black astrakhan, a subtle color harmony that makes the dark-skinned brunette into a raving, tearing beauty. The skirt is flared by godets set in at either side of the front. The slip-on tunic is cleverly cut and draped to fit the figure tightly by means of a wide band, straight in back and mounting in a point in front set into the bodice. Short kimono sleeves run down into diagonal points in front, to which are attached scarf ends that tie at the nape of the neck.

The short, rounded peplum is flat in back, but flares toward the front. It is edged by a shaped band of the black astrakan which also makes the flaring cuffs on the short sleeves. Long antelope gloves in the off-black red are worn, and there is a little barrel muff of the black astrakhan. Antelope shoes and felt bonnet match the frock and gloves in color.

This Diet Brings Clear Complexion and Bright Eyes

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

We are stepping right along, esthetically speaking. Our women are taking to the idea of going on a diet for their complexions. She assumes, of course, that the figure is well under control and there is a new world left to conquer.

I lunched the other day with two charming women, one of whom had been put on a diet by her physician. Inquiry revealed that it was not for a health ailment nor for a new silhouette, for she was perfectly proportioned.

"I just wanted to get my complexion clear," she explained, although there was no obvious blemish, usual with those who go on diets for complexion's sake.

Sensible, too, I call it. A change of food is what complexions often need to make them clearer and to make the eyes shine. Women who have gone on diets for their figures learned the benefit to complexion and eyes of more fruit and vegetable items in the course of a day. And those who have gone on fruit juice sprees for the figure's sake were delighted with the effect on the skin.

Now, if there are any of you who would like to put your face on a diet and at the same time wouldn't mind losing a few pounds, I suggest the following, which you can adopt for from four to six days in succession, according to your needs and your moral stamina.

Take two glasses of water a half hour before breakfast. Have your cup of coffee and a slice of thin, crisp toast. Then take the juice of one orange every two hours during the day. And drink as much water as you can comfortably consume in between orange juice drinks. Four days will relieve you of five pounds, more or less. The cleaning process of the water and the juice will clear your skin beautifully.

If you get terribly hungry during the day you can add a big plate of salad at noontime and you can have a little French dressing with the salad. The salad must be a fruit and vegetable—not a chicken or lobster salad, understand.

Few Helpful Hints That Will Add Joy to Outdoor Walks

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A booklet on sex education will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Before leaving the general subject of walking for children, a few specific suggestions ought to be made for those who are embarking their family on a walking career.

We must be sure to bear in mind that walking endurance has to be built up. It's one thing to use the walking muscles in spurts, with stops and rests as both we and the children do as we walk about our ordinary concerns. It's another thing to "hike"—to use a rather ugly but descriptive word. Endurance in walking must be gained gradually. Start the children with what you feel they can manage with only healthy tiredness, and increase the distance by degrees.

Dress warmly enough but lightly, as heavy clothing is exhausting. Carry an extra sweater or windbreaker or coat for change of weather or to slip on when resting.

Little children are often a special problem. They regard walking in an entirely different light from that of grownups. To them it often consists of just putting one foot before the other. The age at which they begin to enjoy the rhythm that comes with real walking varies. You'll have to gauge that yourself. Some children of five will plod along for miles, while others will lag and lose interest—which spoils the fun for both them and you. It depends partly on temperament and partly on physique.

Remember that having an objective usually adds to the interest and swing of the walk where children are concerned, though of course it's not necessary.

Last a fire to rest by, or better, to cook a simple meal over, is a perfect decoration for a walk and an autumn day. I suppose every one knows by now the versions of the Armenian dish, Shish Sebab, that is so just right for a picnic. Run an inch cube of steak, then a strip of bacon, then a piece of onion on the end of a long pointed stick. Repeat in order and repeat again. Push close together and broil over an open fire, turning frequently.

Food Talk.

Are you a fortunate soul with some country kin who makes delicious old fashioned apple butter? I have some in whose homes the making of apple butter is a yearly rite. The confection appears on their tables as regularly as that of meat and potatoes. Strange as it may seem they never tire of it. And I can see why. It is a delightful sweet and one that never cloys.

Northern Spys, Jonathans, Rhode Island Greenings and Fall Pippins are favorites for the making of apple butter. Some cooks pare their apples and slice them from the core. Others wash the fruit and slice it from the core without paring. In both instances the apples are cooked to a sauce, then the mass is rubbed through a colander. The sauce made from apples cooked with the skins has a higher color than that made from peeled fruit. Rubbing the sauce through a colander produces a finer textured butter than that made from sauce not rubbed through.

Cider gives apple butter an unusually rich flavor and adds considerable sweetness. Little sugar is required when cider is used.

Of course, we who live in the city cannot make it in quantities. Apples are more expensive and we haven't the equipment for quantity production. But one can cook a gallon or so in the oven some day when confined to the kitchen for other work such as ironing which dovetails in nicely with the job of making apple butter.

Here is a recipe long used in our family. Only the other day we tried it again and the product was as delightful as ever!

APPLE BUTTER.
[Delicious.]

20 pounds apples.
6 1-3 cups water.
1 quart sugar.
1 tablespoon ground cinnamon or
3 large sticks cinnamon.

Choose a fine flavored apple, preferably a Jonathan, Northern Spy, Fall Pippin, Baldwin, or Rhode Island Greening. Pare thinly and slice. There should be about 22 quarts of sliced apples. Add water and cook to a sauce. If a fine textured butter is desired, rub through a colander. Turn sauce into a large, flat pan. An ordinary roasting pan will suffice. Don't use a cover on the pan. Place in a medium oven [375° F] and, stirring occasionally, cook about one hour until sauce is reduced about one-half in volume. Add sugar and cook about 1¼ hours longer until a rich, red color and thick consistency is obtained. If ground cinnamon is used, add at the last. If stick cinnamon is used, add 15 minutes before taking from fire. After sugar is added, stir frequently to prevent sticking. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

Yield: Three quarts. One serving, 2 tablespoons. Total, 112 calories; protein, 2 calories; fat, 4 calories; carbohydrates, 106 calories.

ORANGE TAPIOCA.

4 tablespoons granulated tapioca.
½ cup orange juice.
4 tablespoons lemon juice.
⅔ cup sugar [10 tablespoons].
¼ teaspoon salt.
1 1-3 cups boiling water.
2 oranges.

Stir the tapioca into the orange and lemon juice. Add sugar and salt. Let stand for 3 minutes while boiling the water. Add water and place directly over the fire. Stir constantly and cook until thick. Peel the oranges and break apart in sections. Line a glass serving dish and pour tapioca over the sections. Serve cold with whipped cream.

Yield: Four servings. One serving: Total, 229 calories; protein, 3 calories; fat, 0 calories; carbohydrates, 226 calories.

THIS NEW BEIGE POWDER ACTUALLY BECOMES PART OF THE SKIN

The eagerly sought natural finish can not be achieved with powder chosen haphazardly or simply because of habit. Certain powders cause streaks; others, spottiness—but Primrose Beige is so perfect a shade and so fine in texture that it actually becomes part of the skin. It clings, and remains on the face for hours—a precious boon to women who don't like to be forever reaching for the powder puff. To learn the advantages of this luxurious $3 powder, you need only buy a dollar's worth, for it is now available in boxes at $1.

At all better class drug and department stores, in boxes, $1 and $3. Primrose House, 595 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

"Danderine" dissolves the Crust of Dandruff

So Easy to Use! It Soothes, Tones Scalp Gives New Life to Hair!

Dandruff is unsightly! And what is worse, it steals life itself from the hair; makes it dull, brittle, scraggy; starts it to falling out; makes you gray before your time.

Why tolerate this? There's no use when you can get "Danderine" from any drug store for just a few cents.

Danderine is no experiment. It has proven its merit by years of use and popularity. It dissolves the crust of dandruff in a hurry. The scalp is cleansed, soothed and toned by the first application. Excess oil is removed from the hair; its own natural color is brought out marvelously; it is soon sparkling with new life and lustre. Used constantly, Danderine keeps the scalp in the pink of condition; encourages the hair to grow long, thick, youthful looking.

Five million bottles used annually shows Danderine's popularity! You won't wonder at this when you learn its easy use and see how speedily it gives health to the scalp and vigor and youthful appearance to the hair.

Every drug store and toilet counter sells Danderine; 35c bottle.

Elected Congress Called "Out of Date."

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 4.—Dr. Getulio Vargas today began his activities as the new head of the Brazilian government. The ministers named yesterday have all accepted their posts and today the first meeting of the new cabinet was held under Dr. Vargas' presidency at Cattete palace. The program of reorganizing the country's administration as outlined in the new president's speech yesterday was examined.

Gen Juarez Tavora, new minister of communications, and Oswaldo Aranha, minister of the interior and justice, were officially installed in office today. José Maria Whitaker arrived this morning from Sao Paulo and accepted the finance ministry. By a special decree today Dr. Vargas named Dr. Mario Brant the new president director of the Bank of Brazil.

Country Approves Program.

The Vargas program as announced yesterday met with the general approval of the country today. It is considered as coinciding on the main lines with the program enunciated by Gen. Tavora last week, although it was general and vague on some points about which Gen. Tavora's policy last week was specific. Indicating that there is complete harmony with his views, however, is the fact that Gen. Tavora has accepted a cabinet post.

The emphasis with which Dr. Vargas placed on the reorganization of social legislation and the creation of a special ministry of public instruction to augment educational activities also made a favorable impression. Dr. Vargas also favors a reorganization of the navy and the army along the lines of national defense needs.

Many Copy Mussolini.

There is a general impression also that the Pampas leader intends for the government to consist of more technical bodies, specialists and experts. He considers an elected congress, especially for a country like Brazil, as outgrown and hindering administrative operations. Indications are that there will be some copying of the system being worked out by Premier Mussolini in Italy.

Dr. Vargas indicated that stress will be laid on measures for liquidating Brazil's external floating debt as a means of stabilizing and valorizing the exchange. Popular subscriptions have already begun for aiding in wiping out this debt.

Awaited with interest also is the outcome of his announcement that a committee will be named to determine the responsibility of the members of the deposed government for squandering public funds.

DEPUTIES OF FRANCE 'FIRE' AT PREMIER FROM ALL ANGLES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 4.—With "Briandism" the principal issue, the French chamber of deputies opened its session today. The veteran foreign minister, who has been confined to bed for several weeks with severe bronchitis, was on hand to keep a vigilant eye on the discussion over the government's foreign policy.

It was decided to open the debate on the numerous interpellations regarding the foreign policy at once. The extreme right wing, which ordinarily supports Premier Tardieu for fear of aiding the left, attacked the government for consenting to M. Briand's policies. The left wing attacked the government for not giving a more whole hearted support to the foreign minister and for allowing administration newspaper to attack him.

Though caught between two fires, Premier Tardieu sat back and smiled when both sides admitted they were unprepared to open the debate. Amid great confusion, today's sitting was postponed until Thursday, when the showdown is scheduled to occur.

FAILURE OF BANK CRIPPLES FRENCH FISH INDUSTRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOULOGNE, Paris, Nov. 4. — The failure of the Bank of Adam, one of the oldest and strongest banks of France, threatens to cripple the fishing industry of northern France. Over 100 fishing boats, scheduled to depart for the main season's catch, are held up in port because of the lack of funds as a result of the closing of the local branch of the bank.

The situation is considered serious here. At a meeting of the Boulogne city council today it was voted to send a delegation to Premier Tardieu to ask for emergency financial assistance for fishermen and peasants.

The bank's collapse is considered one of the most serious financial catastrophes to occur this year. The bank has branches in practically all provincial cities. Since it had a clientele consisting chiefly of farmers, fishermen and small manufacturers, a serious unemployment problem may follow.

MAYOR ESCAPES PERITONITIS, HIS DOCTORS REPORT

All fear has passed that generalized peritonitis might develop from the appendicitis, for which Mayor Thompson underwent an emergency operation at Passavant hospital last Friday. This was announced in a bulletin issued yesterday by the four attending physicians, who added that he was showing decided improvement.

Election day passed quietly in Thompson's suite at the hospital. Unable to vote, he listened to the returns last night on the races for senator, sheriff, and county treasurer.

AUSTRIA RAIDS SOCIALISTS ON ELECTION EVE

Nabs Thousands of Guns; Charge Fascist Plot.

VIENNA, Austria, Nov. 4.—(AP)—With the general elections only a few days off, great excitement prevailed in the ranks of Socialists as the government today began a series of raids of Socialist headquarters, confiscating arms and ammunition.

The Socialists protested against being disarmed, claiming that 120,000 Fascists were permitted to retain their rifles, machine guns, field pieces, and great quantities of ammunition.

At dawn today police, reinforced by soldiers and gendarmes from the provinces, raided the athletic club of the Socialist party secretariat and other Socialist meeting places throughout Austria.

Seize 40 Machine Guns.

Tonight the government announced that forty machine guns, 500,000 cartridges, and 4,000 rifles, revolvers, grenades, and bandoleers had been seized thus far.

Among the places visited by the raiding troops were Graz, Klagenfurt, Wienerneustadt, Bruck, Linz, Eisenstadt, and eight districts in Vienna itself. In addition, the search of private Socialist dwellings also was started, despite the protest of the Socialists, who claimed the government was acting without legal search warrants.

The general elections of Sunday have stirred intense interest, since for the first time the Socialists are threatening to become the strongest party in the national assembly by reason of a split in ranks of the other parties.

Would Entrench Party.

If this should happen it would be virtually impossible for the conservative parties to wrest control of the city government of Vienna out of the Socialists' hands, an object long fought for.

Last year a supreme effort was made by the Fascist heimwehr to compel the Christian social coalition government to achieve a constitutional revision by the proclamation of a dictatorship, but Dr. Johan Schober, the chancellor, refused. Dr. Schober, meantime, resigned with his cabinet in September because of a crisis arising over the appointment of a Fascist railways director. Fascists then entered the new national ministry.

The Socialists now claim that the prince of Starhemberg, chief commander of the Fascist heimwehr and minister of the interior, aided by Dr. Hueber, heimwehr leader and minister of justice, have set themselves to the task of sapping the strength of the Socialists.

HARVEY MAN KILLED IN FALL.

Arthu E. Morre, 34 years old, of Harvey, was killed yesterday when he fell from the second story of the farmhouse of Charles Buck in Momence. It is believed he lost his balance while leaning from a window.

Does your child catch Cold easily?

Children who catch cold easily, who have sore throat or tonsilitis, are usually in a weakened, run-down condition.

Because they do not secure from their food the vitamins necessary for growth, they become weak, thin and pale, they cannot hold their own at school or play, they tire easily and do not have the strength to resist disease.

If your child is facing the winter in a half-sick, run-down condition, start with Father John's Medicine at once. Countless mothers have proved its merit. 184 hospitals and institutions use it regularly.

Father John's Medicine is a combination of cod liver oil with other valuable ingredients that brings to your child the vitamins so necessary for growth and strength. Because of its scientific preparation it is easily assimilated by even the most delicate stomach. Children thrive on it amazingly.

You will be surprised how your child will pick right up. Pale cheeks glow with health and strength. Hollows fill out. Weight is added. Bones become strong, muscles hard. The child becomes vigorous and healthy.

Father John's Medicine is a simple food medicine that contains neither drugs nor alcohol. It could not harm even an infant. Just ask your druggist.

Don't Guess!

PERFECT SAFETY! Enlarged photograph shows no scratching or injury of enamel

Do you want to know what actually happened to your teeth, when you brushed them this morning? Here's what university laboratory tests disclose about ten dentifrices:

Seven out of ten fail to clean, and two of these injure enamel.

Two out of ten of them clean fairly well but both injure enamel.

Only one of them cleans—without injuring enamel. That one is DR. WEST'S Tooth Paste.

These tests were impartial, of course, and very thorough. Normal teeth were first stained to show both invisible and visible dirt. The stain discolored only dirt—not teeth or gums.

After brushing, teeth were again stained—exactly as at first—to show whether or not they'd been cleaned!

It ends guess-work about dentifrices and care of your teeth. And guess-work is bad business where teeth are concerned! It's dangerous.

Come in today and get some DR. WEST'S Tooth Paste—the dentifrice you are sure of! It gives every good result any dentifrice can safely give. It is delightfully refreshing to use. It is economical!

★ Maxwell House Coffee has been reduced 11¢ a pound to the wholesale trade since July 1, 1929. This reduction parallels the reduction of green coffee, and you may now enjoy Maxwell House Coffee at the lowest prices in years

THE first coffee to achieve a genuine national popularity in America was Maxwell House.

From the place of its origin in the Old South it grew and grew in favor until it embraced every neighborhood in the nation.

It is only natural that such success should attract imitators.

All too frequently, however, the chief hope of such imitators is the dubious magic of the outworn claim "just as good."

To achieve a coffee good as Maxwell House would be no simple matter.

For despite the modern science that surrounds its production this coffee fundamentally is still that matchless beverage of the golden age of American dining.

In essence it is the very same coffee created by a Tennessee gentleman for his own private use with no thought of commercial destiny.

Into his experiments went the most precious coffee beans obtainable and out of them came the most fragrant mellow-smooth quintessence of delight that has ever reposed in a cup.

This taste-quality of Maxwell House is not arguable—it is something which must be experienced.

It is at once the denial and the despair of any other coffee claimed to be "just as good."

That is why, year after year, Maxwell House has gone steadily forward winning new friends and holding old ones.

That is why the friendly blue tin now waiting at your grocer's is today the best coffee-bargain that money can buy. ★

N. U. GRID TEAM FIGHTS TO WHIP INDIANA JINX

ARMY ELEVEN PREPARES FOR ILLINOIS GAME

Seeks Revenge for 1929 Defeat.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 4.—On a comparison of the records of the two teams, the football game between the Military academy and the University of Illinois in New York next Saturday, shapes up about the same as a fight between a few dozen exasperated Reds, demanding their rights, if any, and the entire strength of the New York police department.

The University of Illinois has lost three football games thus far and the worst the Army has done was the tie with Yale. Yet, the officers of the Army coaching staff went into a serious huddle in the office of Maj. Ralph [Tanks] Sasse, the head coach, this afternoon, and spent an hour trying to convince themselves that they were about to face a dangerous menace.

Like a Public Enemy.

Referring again to the comparative records, this attempt at grim anticipation suggested Chief of Police Mulrooney and his staff of deputies down to deputies of the twentieth degree, conferring on a plan to thwart some dangerous public enemy who has threatened to park his car within twelve feet of a water plug, contrary to the peace and dignity of the community and the ordinances made and provided.

Precautions of so elaborate a nature as the University of Illinois will consider downright flattering were being made to prevent the violation of the Army's goal, including pin wheels, spinners, half reverses and several figures adapted from the hoe down.

No doubt the coaches had in mind the occurrences of last fall at Champaign, Ill., when the Army suffered a couple of embarrassing moments due to accidents in their own offense or genius in the Illinois defense, according to the point of view. To the indiscriminating gaze of the common customer it looked as though these incidents were breaks or unforeseen mishaps but that night after the game Mr. Robert Zuppke, who coaches Illinois, insisted that he had anticipated just such minute turns of the game and had told his athletes precisely when to expect them and what to do when they happened.

To their credit, Mr. Zuppke generously conceded that they had executed his instructions to perfection, but Capt. Biff Jones, who was then head coach of the Army team, in his subsequent reflections on the game, only said, "Of all the damn tough luck——"

Here's What Happened.

What happened were these:

Chris Cagle tossed a lateral pass to Johnny Murrell as the Army labored slowly ahead in Illinois' territory, and a young man of Mr. Zuppke's team happened along just then looking for some one to do something to. This young man, whose name I do not recall, because after all only the names of the wizard mentors are important in football, took the ball in its flight, squashed it to his bosom, and kept on going, pursued by Mr. Murrell. Unable to run him down, Mr. Murrell tried to wheedle him.

"Take it easy," he cook, deceitfully, "there's nobody near you."

"But who are you?" the Illinois athlete inquired over his shoulder.

"I'm your pal," said Mr. Murrell. "Don't run so fast."

"You wouldn't wheedle me, would you?" said the other young man. "After all, I'm only a country boy."

So he ran about 75 yards to a touchdown and never was there such a look of disillusionment in a young athlete's face as when that boy touched the ball to the ground and looked back to discover that an Army cadet, preparing to be an officer and a gentleman, had stooped to falsehood in a sporting contest.

Later in the game the same Murrell attempted a punt close to his goal, but he had always been a .227 punter and he fouled this one off his kneecap for a carry of about five yards. The ball lit with a lively back spin and jumped back like one of Bobby Jones' mashie niblick shots about ten yards before another Illinois man took it on the bounce and stepped off about two strides to another touchdown.

Three Cadets Ailing.

The Army will have to play without Cy Letzelter, the old Carnegie Tech back field man; Carl Carimark, one of the regular ends, and Jack Malloy, the best of the alternate ends, who are ailing. Letzelter has an infection in his throat and the other two were pulled somewhat apart in the tugging and hauling of the Yale and North Dakota games.

However, the Stecker boy who bunted Kliday in the trousers and nudged him over the goal with the Army's touchdown against Yale, will be Letzelter's ghost, and as sometimes happens in football as well as in literature and comic strip art, the spook may be quite as good as his principal.

It seems unlikely that the scouts of the two teams have overlooked any peculiarities or tricks on either side, so the only possibility of a surprise lies in the department of clairvoyance. Some one may know even now when some one else is due to fool off a punt and the game may turn on just such a play, but of course, on a comparison of experience and success to date, the Army is a leading football team in a game with a luckless tag along.

TITLES IN FOOTBALL.

THERE is no question that the importance attached to winning a football championship is detrimental to all teams except those at the top or with a chance for the honor. In the Big Ten, often called the "toughest league in the country" because of the equality of competition, an eleven may meet defeat in an early game. Thereafter it is figured out of the running, with interest and attendance correspondingly lowered.

Now we press writers talk about titles. Thus we earn a batch of Irish confetti. But do we do so just because that's our way or in response to public demand? The Wake inclines to the latter theory. Americans proverbially like a winner. A title is a bauble to which great honor is attached. After all is said and written, we press men really respond to that which we think our readers would like.

We see no remedy for this condition. More desirable, however, would be establishment of natural rivalries in which victory over a traditional opponent would be as cherished as a title. The Wake never has scoffed at the so-called "Big Three," no longer a Big Three in fact but still reflecting the opinion of Yale, Harvard, and Princeton that victory over one another is equal to the whole season.

In these days of recruiting and proselyting it is foolish to say such practices do not exist—it is possible there may be a return to natural rivalries on the part of colleges which do not countenance such actions either by athletic departments or alumni and which in addition maintain an honest scholarship standard. We are not hitting at anybody and we do not say this will occur. It is possible rather than probable.

Under present conditions we must confess we regard football's future with some misgiving.

Election's Over; Let's Settle Down to Six Day Bike Race

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Now that the election is over, the good folks of Chicago can settle down to some serious thought on bicycle riding, a matter that has been neglected, we fear, in the heat of the campaign.

Very few people have seemed to realise that the big six day bike race opens at the Chicago stadium next Sunday night and that on next Saturday night there will be a curtain raising program of international sprint races, motor paced races, and an Australian pursuit race, to say nothing of an amateur race.

Mr. Mendel Not Idle.

Director Harry Mendel of the department of public relations of the six day bike riding industry, though fretting considerably because of the eclipsing effect of the campaign, has not been sitting idly by during the red fire and calliope period. He has been buried in research and as a consequence we are able this morning to announce many of his important findings.

Some of Mr. Mendel's discoveries, you, as a bicycle student, may have known even before Mr. Mendel, though we doubt it, but whether you have or not we are going to list his discoveries in the hope that each and every item will impress upon you the nearness of the big race at the Chicago stadium.

Here are the Mendel findings:

1. Henry Ford once rode a bicycle in competition and so did Gov. Fuller of Massachusetts.

2. Charley Miller, who won the first six day team race in this country, at Madison Square Garden, New York, in 1897, drives a taxi in Chicago.

3. Jackie Sheehan, a New York Irishman, who will ride in the race, was brought up in an Italian neighborhood and as a consequence can speak Italian better than Italians can.

4. John Chapman, race impresario is worried about two feuds which exist among riders in the race and fears serious consequences such as one rider riding another off the track, etc., etc. The riders in the feuds are:

a. Letourner and Brocardo, who used to ride together as the French Red Devil team, are mad at each other because Brocardo, Italian born but a naturalized Frenchman, has refused to ride further as a Frenchman.

b. Georgetti and Linari, who quit the race on Thursday night a year ago, each alleging that the other was dogging it, hate each other viciously and each has promised dire things to the other in the coming conflict.

Expect Rock There.

5. Eight nationalities will be represented in the race, a new record in Chicago.

6. Ten of the thirty riders who will start the race at 9 o'clock Sunday night have never ridden in Chicago before and five of them never have ridden in America before.

7. Next week is examination week at Notre Dame and football practice will be curtailed, which will enable Coach Knute Rockne, an inveterate six day bike bug, to attend the race and regale the athletes with anecdotes during the rest periods.

In addition to the foregoing, Mr. Mendel has recalled some of his old favorites, such as the one about how Tony Beckman spends his money buying serum to prevent the hogs on his hog farm from having cholera, but it hardly seems worth while to go into those matters just now.

You should know, however, that one of the features of the Saturday night doings will be a motor paced race, five mile heats, best two out of three, between Alfred Letourner and Gerard De Baets. Another feature will be the Australian pursuit race between the veteran Reggie McNamara and Alfredo Benda, the world road champion.

JUDGE TO GIVE DECISION TODAY IN TUNNEY SUIT

New York, Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Supreme Court Justice Peter A. Hatting has promised to rule tomorrow on the motion of Gene Tunney's counsel to dismiss the $300,000 breach of contract suit brought against the former champion by Timothy J. Mara.

The case against Billy Gibson, Tunney's former manager and named as a co-defendant in the action, was dismissed yesterday when it was brought out that Gibson was incompetent.

Emory R. Buckner, counsel to Tunney, immediately made a motion to dismiss the case against his client.

MAJOR LEAGUES SPURN CHICAGO FOR MEETINGS

Hold First N. Y. Session December 9.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Chicago is not going to have the pleasure, if it can be termed such, of playing host to the big league magnates when they stage their annual joint meeting next month. However, so far as is known, there are no important items coming up for disposal, so perhaps the absence is no great loss.

It has been the custom in recent years to hold the meeting alternately in New York and here. This should have been Chicago's turn. The National league preferred its annual business sessions there and the American league always favored going through its winter exercises in Chicago. Thus the joint sessions were moved back and forth so that one league couldn't say the other was being favored.

No call has been issued for the joint affair, but some of the owners have been informed unofficially that it is Commissioner K. M. Landis' intention to request that the sixteen magnates be in New York for business purposes on Thursday, Dec. 11.

Barnard at Hot Springs.

The National league, in keeping with its constitution, must meet to discuss its own affairs on Dec. 9 in New York. Because they cannot hold their formal assembly at any other place is one reason why Chicago isn't going to have the joint meeting. To come out here causes the National magnates too much inconvenience.

Ernest S. Barnard, America league chief, before going to Hot Springs, Ark., to draw up his annual report and at the same time indulge in a little golf, neglected to reveal his plans for the meeting of his league's eight bosses. However, as a matter of convenience he is expected to select New York as the site. The date will be Dec. 9.

The one thing of interest that might come up at the American league's gathering is a proposal to cut down home runs by screening the short fences. Eleven of the owners are reported in favor of such a move, but are reluctant to adopt it unless Col. Jake Ruppert of the Yankees is willing. Col. Ruppert owns the shortest foul lines in the league and his associates do not want to do anything that he might construe as a direct slap at his premises, not to mention at Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig.

To Discuss Sacrifice Fly.

The annual arguments between members of the rules committee will be heard in New York the day following the joint session. This is when the proposal to banish the sacrifice fly in all forms will be brought up. The American league is already on record as favoring its elimination.

The National league may put up a fight against cutting out that portion of the sacrifice rule which pertains to the scoring of runners from third.

It's a Good Time to Buy Good Bonds

If you are thinking of buying yourself an elegant set of gold teeth, now is as good a time as any to buy. Gold is selling for $20.67 an ounce. It's the same price as it was last year, and there won't be any bargain sales on gold next year. That's because the government maintains the gold standard. Uncle Sam stands ready to exchange gold for cash or cash for gold on the basis of $20.67 an ounce.

There isn't another commodity besides gold which escapes fluctuation. Good bonds come closest to the ideal. The average price of forty leading bonds listed on the New York stock exchange has varied in a year between 85 and 90. Copper has meanwhile gone to 9 cents a pound from 18. Wheat has moved between $1.20 and 75 cents a bushel. Good stocks have varied between 307 and 162.

Good bonds are outstanding for stability of price and income. Of course, the lower the price at which they are bought, the greater the yield in income. And that's just the point. There are good bonds now of well managed companies with established earning records that are available at prices that afford the best yields in years. It's a good time to talk over your investments with a good bond house or bank.

Brookins Ousted as Iowa Objects to 2 Marriages

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Charles Brookins, assistant track coach at the University of Iowa and former national 220 yard low hurdle champion, was dismissed tonight by E. H. Lauer, athletic director.

Brookins is the holder of the world's record in the 220 yard low hurdles and was a member of the United States Olympic team in 1924.

In announcing the dismissal, Lauer said he told Brookins that "two wives in sixty days is too fast a pace for the athletic department, whatever speed might be wanted on the track."

Brookins was married last Friday at Valparaiso, Ind., to Miss Dorothy Coby of Oskaloosa, Ia., a stenographer in the university athletic department.

Today it was learned that he previously was married on Sept. 4 at Aledo, Ill., to Mrs. Ethel Held, a former stenographer of the athletic office and the mother of two girls, the elder about 17.

Lauer said Brookins admitted his marriage to Mrs. Held, but asserted he was divorced from her a week later at Midland, S. D.

Brookins' matrimonial difficulties date from Nov. 29, 1927, when his first wife obtained a divorce on grounds of infidelity after five years of married life. Her maiden name, Zula Melchler, was restored.

Rockne Shifts Second String Back Field

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Disregarding reports that Capt. Dick Gentle, Warren Gette, and Bill Grauper, three of Pennsylvania's backfield stars, are on the injured list, Coach Rockne drove one of the Notre Dame shock troop teams through an intensive scrimmage this afternoon.

Whether he will attempt to start his second string against the Pennsylvania eleven Saturday at Philadelphia is something known only to Rockne himself. He used the first team through the entire Carnegie Tech game and through the first half of the Pittsburgh game. The second team let Pitt score three times in the second half and was held scoreless in the first part of the Indiana game last Saturday. Since Rockne believes Penn to be stronger than Pitt, he may start his regulars Saturday.

Leahy Replaces Koken.

In tonight's scrimmage there were three important changes in the shock troops' backfield. Bernie Leahy, formerly of St. Mel's High school, Chicago, was moved to left half in place of Mike Koken, and Carl Cronin replaced Chuck Jaskwhich, sophomore quarter back from Kenosha, Wis. Clarence Kaplan was put in Paul O'Connor's place at right half back.

Larry Mullins and Joe Savoldi alternated at full back. On defense the shock troops showed up poorly, in spite of the experience against the Warner wing back system, which they gained in the Pitt game and the week preceding it in practice. Pennsylvania's lateral pass plays were especially effective.

Varsity Scrimmage Today.

How effectively the varsity will be able to deal with Penn's formations when they encounter them at Philadelphia on Saturday, will be shown tomorrow, when the varsity players have their only live scrimmage of the week. They got their first idea of what to expect when they went through a light shadow skirmish against the Penn plays today.

Spinach Runs to Easy Victory in $25,000 Handicap

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—The fall racing season opened at the old Pimlico track here this afternoon and in the traditional Riggs handicap, a mile and a half grind worth $25,000, for 3 year olds, Spinach, from William Zeigler's stable, turned up as the winner.

It was an easy triumph for the son of Sir Martin, for he galloped in front most of the way and at the finish was leading the Maryland owned filly, Her Grace, by three lengths. The Wheatley stable's Erin grabbed third money, but was three lengths back of Her Grace. Woodcraft, from the Audley Farm stable, finished fourth.

Spinach was ridden by Jockey G. Ellis and carried top weight of 123 pounds. He ran the mile and a half over the muddy track in 2:34 3-5. The victory increased Spinach's total earnings to $111,900. In the mutuel betting he paid $8.20 to win, $4.70 to place, and 3.80 to show. Her Grace was at $5.20 to place and $3.90 to show. Erin paid $6.60 to show.

MIQUE MALLOY IS REINSTATED BY MISSOURI BOARD

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 4.—(AP)—The difficulties between Mique Malloy, Chicago boxing promoter, and Seneca Taylor, Missouri boxing commissioner, which resulted in Malloy's suspension in Missouri and consequently in all other states under jurisdiction of the National Boxing association, have been ironed out, Taylor said today.

Upon Malloy's representation that he wanted to act as a matchmaker in Missouri and not as a promoter, Commissioner Taylor reinstated Malloy as a promoter and Malloy immediately asked that his Missouri promoter's license be canceled, which was done.

The Chicago promoter, who recently was instrumental in bringing Mickey Walker and Tiger Cline together in an American Legion bout here, was suspended on grounds that he violated the state boxing rules and failed to pay a number of bills, which Taylor said were legitimate.

Malloy said he would probably apply later for a Missouri promoter's license. Commissioner Taylor's action today allows the Chicago promoter to operate in other states, and opens the way for further parley with the Missouri commissioner when the promoter desires to stage fights here.

Bruins to Use Stadium for All Chicago Games

George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bruins professional basketball team, yesterday signed a new lease with the Chicago Stadium corporation, obtaining the stadium as the home of the team for another year. Twenty-four games will be played in the stadium, starting Nov. 26. All games will be played on Wednesday and Saturday.

BEATING PURPLE AN OLD CUSTOM WITH HOOSIERS

Hanley Recalls 3 Years of Woe.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Indiana university has lost four games this fall, won one and tied one. But don't quote this record to Dick Hanley as he prepares Northwestern for the battle Saturday at Bloomington with the Hoosiers.

Hanley will tell you, just as he is preaching nightly to the Wildcats, that Indiana is Northwestern's jinx. During the three year regime under Hanley Northwestern has been able to win a majority of its Western conference games, but Indiana always has beaten Northwestern. Hanley even thinks the Hoosiers have acquired the habit.

Always Whip One Favorite.

Another habit Indiana always has boasted is the ability to win at least one game each season which has been awarded unanimously, before the kickoff, to the opponents. Northwestern, perhaps, has suffered more than any other team, but there have been others. Syracuse, Minnesota and Michigan remember days when Indiana was red hot.

Last year Indiana defeated the Wildcats, 19 to 14, with Ross breaking away for the winning touchdown in the fourth period. In 1928 Chuck Bennett scored the only touchdown in the game at Bloomington, which was played on a muddy field. In 1927 Indiana walloped Northwestern in proper fashion, 18 to 7, and for the first time introduced Hanley to the jinx business.

Glenn Thistlethwaite, who preceded Hanley, won three times from Indiana, but in 1923 Northwestern lost, 7 to 6. This was the first game of the series resumed in this decade.

Wildcats Resume Practice.

All of which was Hanley's text last night when his first team began practice following Monday's vacation, in honor of the triumph over Minnesota.

Indiana, 14; Miami, 0.
Indiana, 0; Ohio State, 23.
Indiana, 7; Oklahoma Aggies, 7.
Indiana, 0; Minnesota, 6.
Indiana, 0; Southern Methodist, 27.
Indiana, 0; Notre Dame, 27.

Of course, there is no reason to believe Indiana can win from Northwestern Saturday. No reason, but if you are superstitious and believe that annually Indiana plays supenative football at least once, then there's reason enough.

Rentner Won't Play.

Hanley has another worry. Ernest Rentner, his sophomore full back, one of the best in the Big Ten, and the man responsible for those forward passes which Frank Baker has been grabbing for touchdowns, will not play Saturday. He injured his pitching arm tackling at Minnesota and last night continued a hospital patient. He will not make the trip to Bloomington.

With Rentner out of the lineup, Reb Russell probably can take care of the line plunging. Lee Hanley will be asked to toss the passes, but Lee isn't as accurate as Rentner. Hanley passed for Northwestern last year and the proof of his inferiority is that Rentner succeeded to the job this fall.

Line Should Beat Hoosiers.

Even if Northwestern's passing attack doesn't function as perfectly as it has in winning three Big Ten games, the Wildcat line should open up a path for a successful running attack. If those Purple veterans fail, they will have recourse to this jinx alibi, but most fans will conclude their ability has been overrated.

If Northwestern did not have a superiority in the line, Rentner's loss would be more important, but power will win, as Coach Stagg proved so often with his full backs before the reformation hit the Midway.

Northwestern will leave Friday night for Bloomington, preferring a night's ride to a daylight trip and enforced dalliance in Bloomington.

Keeps Tricks for Badgers.

Yesterday's drill was fundamental, consisting of defensive tactics and review of the Purple offensive. Whatever additional tricks Hanley plans from the double wing back style of attack he uses he prefers to keep for Wisconsin if possible. The Badgers conclude Northwestern's Big Ten schedule a week from Saturday.

INDIANA WORKS ON DEFENSE

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 4. — [Special.]—Following a game between the freshmen and sophomores, Coach Page directed a light practice of the Indiana varsity eleven here today. Work consisted of preparing a defense against Northwestern's plays in the hope of scoring a victory in the homecoming contest here Saturday. Running back punts, line bucking and defense against a possible aerial attack made up today's menu. All of the crippled back field players were on the field.

Texas Polo Ists Lose Second Series in Mexico Invasion

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Rainbow team of San Angelo, Tex., suffered its fourth straight defeat on its polo invasion of Mexico today and lost its second straight series. A mixed military-civilian team, composed of three Mexican players and Col. Gordon Johnstone, United States military attaché, defeated the Rainbows, 9 to 5, today to win the tournament for the Mexico City Country club cup.

COCKRILL FINDS THERE'S NO REST FOR OLD PLATER

Won Ten Races to Lead at Chicago Tracks.

BY FRENCH LANE.

There is no rest for an old selling plater race horse, even though he is the champion of his kind.

For old Cockrill, old in a race horse way because he is seven, steamed away from Hawthorne yesterday with others in the Ben Jones stable for New Orleans, to finish out his year's work. The next task he will face will be at Jefferson Park, starting around Thanksgiving day.

Cockrill isn't so well known as Gallant Fox, Sun Beau, Jamestown, and other stars of this year because he is an old selling plater. But most Chicagoans who go to the races feel they are on speaking terms with him and they hold an admiration for him because he won more races in Chicago this season than any other race horse. He rolled up ten victories, and in most of them he was backed by nearly everybody at the track.

Was Picked as Future Champ.

Cockrill is an Englishman and there was a time soon after he was imported to this country that high hopes were held out that he was going to develop into a champion.

He came over from England in the same consignment which brought the great Carlaris to the Saratoga yearling sales. This was in 1923, and at the sales W. T. Anderson purchased both of them.

Late in their 2 year old season and just before they rounded three on Jan. 1, 1925, Carlaris was showing fine form as he prepared for the Tia Juana Derby and the Coffroth handicap which he eventually won. Cockrill was also demonstrating great speed at the time. Shortly before the Tia Juana Derby that year a western horseman told Anderson that in his opinion Carlaris looked like a certain winner of the Tia Juana Derby.

Owner Favored Cockrill.

"If you think he's a good horse just take a look at the colt, Cockrill, in my barn," was Anderson's reply. And Anderson added "Cockrill can do everything a little better than Carlaris," and Anderson's friends of those days say that he meant every word that he said.

Then Cockrill failed to train on and Carlaris galloped into the hall of fame when he scored a double that spring in the Tia Juana Derby and Coffroth handicap.

Anderson didn't lose faith in Cockrill until two years later. The last time the son of Sand Mole-Karine ran in the Anderson silks was when he failed in the New Year's handicap at Tia Juana in 1928. The horse was then five years old. Just a short time later, to be exact, on Jan. 19 of that year, Cockrill bobbed up in a claiming race at New Orleans and won it by six lengths.

It was the first time he had drifted down among the platers. He has been there ever since, although at times he has run so well and won so easily it seemed that he should be associating with the handicap and stake stars.

JOHNNY RISKO IS FIRST A CITIZEN, THEN A FIGHTER

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Johnny Risko, the Cleveland baker boy, is proving that he is a good citizen as well as a good heavyweight fighter.

Risko is meeting Mickey Walker, middleweight champion of the world, in Walker's first important heavyweight bout here Friday night. It was announced last week that Risko would arrive in Detroit Saturday and that he would have his first gymnasium workout here Sunday afternoon. But Risko failed to appear and it was learned that he could not leave Cleveland until after the polls opened this morning. He is a registered voter in Cleveland and says he has never missed casting a ballot in the last five years. So he stayed in Cleveland to vote.

NEWS FROM THE RACE TRACKS

Blackhawks to Cut Roster Next Tuesday

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Sixteen players will be carried by the Chicago Blackhawks, including 10 forwards, 4 defense men, and 2 net guardians, during the coming hockey season, according to an announcement made today by Manager Bill Tobin following the Hawk workout at the London arena. The Hawks have 21 players in camp now, which means that five will be disposed of when the Chicago team plays its last exhibition game with Windsor next Tuesday.

The forward line of Lola Couture, Vic Ripley, and Gottselig looks exceptionally good, while the line of Earl Miller, Tom Cook, and Stewart Adams will be effective as it develops back checking. This likely will follow, as Coach Dick Irwin and Manager Bill Tobin have spent considerable time on the subject.

Duke Dutkowski will be shifted back to the defense, but so far he has been used on the front division.

Today's practice was held behind closed doors and was devoted to individual instruction.

INVADING BOXERS MADE CHOICES IN FIGHTS THURSDAY

Renault, Slattery, and Mack Favored.

Our home town fistic fans appear very anxious to visit the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night and see three of the local boys get their noses tinted by lads from Canada, New York, and New Jersey.

Just study the situation and you're bound to come to that conclusion. For old Jack Renault of Canada is so well fancied he is a topheavy favorite to whip Otto Von Porat, Jimmy Slattery of New York is the choice over King Levinsky, and, if you believe what everybody is saying, Petey Mack of New Jersey is something like a 1 to 2 shot to trim Barney Ross of Chicago.

At least that's what the betting odds indicated last night when the speculators had finished collecting their election wagers.

Mr. Strotz Foils Scalpers.

Then came an announcement by Sidney Strotz from the Stadium corporation that he has become so frightened that the speculators will reap a golden harvest on the show and the customers will be forced to pay and pay that a large block of the lower priced tickets have been withheld and will go on sale at the box office early tomorrow night.

"If we had let these tickets get away from us, the scalpers would be selling them at twice the regular price," Mr. Strotz declared as he registered great glee at thwarting the scalpers. No reports were available from the G. H. Q. of the scalpers, but none of them had been reported walking in the general direction of the lake. An attendance of 16,000 was predicted at the Stadium box office.

Otto Shows Old Form.

As the local boys tuned up yesterday Von Porat showed a flash of his old time skill and his backers were encouraged; more encouraged, in fact, than at any time since the night he forgot to duck the punch with which Young Stribling put him to sleep. Von Porat believes he will knock over and that it will be the start in a campaign that will put him back among the heavyweight notchers.

Despite Von Porat's good work, King Levinsky is the favorite home towners believe will through the ranks of the heavies roll up a victory. Levinsky's backers were certain last night that he will make just as short work of Mack as he did of all his recent foes. Until somebody whips Levinsky Levinsky backers are going to stick him as a champion.

One MOMENT when EDDIE CANTOR kept COOL!

Here's a tip from the star of "Whoopee," the uproarious new screen hit presented by Florenz Ziegfeld and Samuel Goldwyn

"WHEN, as, and if you see 'Whoopee' you'll sympathize with me: I'm so, so nervous. When I was making the scene where I am being questioned by the sheriff, honest—I had no more circulation than a herring. And when I get that way my eyes misbehave. My legs blink. I get scared. And—I have to sing... I guess I'm just doomed to be continually hot and bothered.

"In fact, the only COOL moment I had in the production was when nine gorgeous girls made me up. Some girls make overtures to me; but they gave me an intermission!"

Every MOMENT ---

INHALE or not ---, WINGS are clean and COOL!

When, as, and if you INHALE, you'll like WINGS in particular. They're clean—crystal-clean—and COOL every moment.

All dust, all dirt, every hint of irritation is "air-washed" out of the fine Turkish, Virginia and Burley tobaccos in WINGS.

All you get is pure, fragrant, honest tobacco—a keen, fresh, clean smoke. No stings—no flares—no "hot-spots" remain.

Swing to WINGS today. "Air-washing" makes 'em silky smooth. Cool as a breeze. Air-cooled.

they're AIR-COOLED

MICHIGAN ELEVEN TESTS DEFENSE AGAINSTHARVARD

Lateral Pass Plays Make Trouble for Varsity.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Defensive drill occupied the Michigan football squad most of this afternoon. The freshman squad was pressed into service to demonstrate the formations which Harvard will use next Saturday and showed a lot of intricate running plays, mixed well with laterals, and a few forward passes.

The regulars had the most difficulty with the lateral pass plays. More than once freshmen backs, given proper blocking, worked beyond the ends, then cut through the secondary defense.

Eastman on Sideline.

Coach Kipke concentrated on a lineup which showed Hozer and Williamson at ends, Samuels and Draveling tackles, Lajeunesse and Cornwell guards, Morrison center, Newman quarter, Wheeler and Simrall at the halves, and Hudson at full. Capt. Simrall played his position throughout the drill, it being the first time that he has done any intensive work since the Illinois game.

Eastman was out of uniform with an injured shoulder, but Miller and Marcovsky returned to work. Auer was in uniform, but his head was covered with bandages.

Hewitt Out for Year.

Coach Kipke said today he believed that Bill Hewitt would not be back this season, whose ankle was injured in the Michigan State game, discarded crutches 10 days ago. Since the return of Cox and Daniels, and with Hozer and Williamson developing nicely, Coach Kipke feels that Hewitt may best be given until next year to show his worth.

The squad will leave here Thursday afternoon, 36 strong, and will hold its final workout at Cambridge Friday afternoon.

HARVARD TESTS OFFENSE.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 4. — [Special.] — Harvard's first and second varsity teams were worked vigorously in an offensive dummy scrimmage following hard work on fundamentals again today.

It was the lightest sort of a day for Kales, who was shifted from right to left tackle; for Myerson, who was used at Talbot's place at right guard; for Bob Ogden, who is slowly getting back in shape to play right end, and for Eddie Mays, who is favoring a lame leg. It has been decided by the doctors that George Kuehn, as well as Fred Richards, will not be available for use against Michigan. Vic Harding did no work at all today, and it is said to be doubtful whether he can play against the Wolverines.

BADGERS LIMBER UP.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Wisconsin varsity football players resumed training today after having enjoyed a day of rest Monday, but Coach Thistlethwaite let them off with what amounted to little more than a limbering up. They rehearsed plays, chased down a few forward passes, ran through a sharp signal drill and called it a day.

Nell Hayes, veteran back, who suffered a broken leg in September, has been released by the medical department for light practice, which is taken to mean that he will be available for the Minnesota and possibly the Northwestern games.

HAWKEYES TAKE IT EASY.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Another light workout was on the program for University of Iowa football candidates today, Coach Ingwersen keeping his battered varsity outfit out of the scrimmage in which scrubs and freshmen participated. The Hawkeyes may get a taste of action tomorrow, but will receive no heavy work this week because of the numerous injuries on the squad, Coach Ingwersen indicated today. The Iowa aggregation will leave Thursday night for the Marquette game at Milwaukee. Defense formations against the Hilltopper line attack were stressed in today's practice session.

ILLINI SHOW SPIRIT.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—For the first time this season Illinois football players showed signs of substituting spirit for what they lack in experience, and the reason for this is that they face the Army in New York on Saturday.

Hunter Russell, who injured his knee last week and was out of the Purdue game, returned to practice today and hobbled through signal drill with the first team. Capt. Robinson has regained playing conditions for the first time since the Michigan game. Gilbert Berry was at practice but in civilian clothes. He injured his leg against Purdue and will not be ready until Thursday.

Chuck Hall was in Berry's position, with Russell at the other half, Robinson at full back, and Munch at quarter back. There was one change in the line, Huddlestun, reserve tackle, replacing Schumacher at center. Schumacher's knee is not in playing condition.

The following men were used on the line: Swanson, Wilson, ends; Hills and Stan Bodman, tackles; Jensen and Ovelmen, guards, and Huddleston, center.

GOPHERS LOSE DILLNER.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Minnesota's football team received a hard jolt today when Mervin Dillner, one of its regular ends, dislocated a shoulder in a scrimmage with the scrubs. Dillner was kept out of the Northwestern game because of a bruised knee, and it is questionable whether Dillner will be able to resume play before the Wisconsin game.

Taking advantage of the election day holiday, the Minnesota coaching staff drove the Gophers through a three hour scrimmage this afternoon in the daylight. The regulars were on

New Style Shell Produces a Thick Buckshot Pattern

BY BOB BECKER.

A few days ago when a hot sun and a cloudless sky produced such lovely picnic weather that the ducks stayed at one of their own picnics nearly all day, we conducted a little clinic on shotgun shells to compare 16 and 12 gauge cartridges with respect to the number of lead pellets in each. The main idea behind this stunt was to find out how many more No. 7 shot were loaded into a certain make of shell which claims long range and short shot string in comparison to a standard 16 gauge.

The findings were quite interesting. Carefully cutting open one of the 16 gauge long range shells and counting the copper coated pellets we arrived at the figure of 359. In other words, this represented a load of 1⅛ ounces of No. 7 shot, an amount that usually is associated with the shot charge of a 12 gauge cartridge.

Then we opened up a standard widely known 16 gauge shell recommended for various kinds of feathered game, but with no specifications on the box as regards pwder r shot charge. We counted 306 No. 7 shot in this shell. This was 53 less than in the long range type. The next cartridge which was operated on with a jack knife was a 12 gauge duck load with No. 6 shot. The count here was 295.

In other words a duck hunter shooting water fowl over decoys when the birds are decoying in good style so that few barrel-stretching long shots are required can get a pretty heavy pattern with the 16 gauge gun shooting 306 number seven shot. And 7's will take care of the birds all right. One has only to shoot a day with this load to find that out.

Now use the heavier loaded shells and your pattern of a number seven shot is denser by 53 pellets. That doesn't seem like a large number. But figure what just six or seven lead shot do to a duck and it's quite an item.

The whole point of this shell diagnosis is this: if one likes a double barrel bed, easily handled shotgun in the smaller gauges he can secure some pretty thick patterns with these modern shells, as these 16 gauge loads prove.

Lake Forest Harriers to Race Loyola Saturday

Lake Forest college country team will meet Loyola university in a team race of two miles Saturday at Lake Forest. This meet will be the last appearance of Capt. Peterson, Hall, and Hayes as Lake Forest harriers.

the offensive most of the session, as they tried out new plays that will be used for Michigan on Nov. 1.

There were no important changes in the first team lineup today. Riebeth and MacDougal alternated at left half throughout the scrimmage. Brockmeyer was given an extra day's rest after the strenuous session he had against Northwestern.

McCarthy Seeks Good Hurler, Ditto Catcher, for Yankees

New York, Nov. 4.—[Special.]—One brand new catcher and one dependable pitcher, right handed, left handed, or ambidextrous, is all that the Yankees need to gain in the trading market this winter to assure themselves of sufficient strength to wage a stout fight for the American league pennant in 1931.

This was the opinion expressed today by Joe McCarthy, recently appointed Yankee manager, who made a one day trip from Buffalo to confer with Col. Jacob Ruppert and Secretary Ed Barrow upon a plan of action for the 1931 campaign.

Start Training March 1.

The first important decision reached was to set March 1 as the opening of the training season at St. Petersburg next spring. This is a week later than the Yankees customarily have started their training. Still another departure from custom was found in the announcement that, unlike other years, the Yankee players will not report in two squads, the rookies and pitchers first and the veteran fielders a week later. Instead the entire roster will report to McCarthy at St. Petersburg on March 1 and on March 2 the entire squad will be set to work.

According to McCarthy, the Yankees can, for the moment at least, consider themselves as standing pat on their 1930 team, provided they can strengthen themselves with a catcher and a pitcher, though no objection would be raised to any means by which they could make it two or three pitchers.

Will Keep 1930 Infield.

McCarthy made it clear that he plans to start the same infield with which the Yankees finished the 1930 season, this consisting of Gehrig on first, Chapman at second, Lary at short, and Lazzeri on third. This was taken to mean that the Yankees hope to use their excess outfielders as trading material. At present the Yankees have something like seven or eight outfielders, including Ruth, Combs, Cooke, Rice, Fred Walker, and Meryl Hoag.

"But next spring is still a long way off," declared McCarthy, "and there is no telling what will happen between now and the time for the training grind to start. At all events, we'll be ready to take advantage of any proposal that may come up."

VERNE LEWELLEN TO MATCH PUNTS WITH LINTZENICH

Political lines fail to cut any figure in the Green Bay Packers' football team, which meets the Bears at Wrigley field Sunday afternoon.

Verne Lewellen, an all-American in the pro ranks last year, recently was elected to his second term as district attorney of Brown county, while Lavvie Dilweg has been sent to the state assembly from the Green Bay district. Lewellen is a Republican and his playing mate is a Democrat.

Lewellen will be in action Sunday at half back and Dilweg at end. Verne, who rates as one of the best kickers of the league, is eager to match his prowess with Joe Lintzenich, the new Bear, whose kicking has been one of the features of the play of the north siders.

They met early in the season, the game being won by the Packers, 7 to 0, the lowest score to which they have been held this season.

Knox Seeks to Wrest Lead from Cornell

Galesburg, Ill., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Knox college's football team will attempt to make it three straight victories in a row over Cornell when they meet the Iowa eleven at Mt. Vernon on Saturday. The Iowans are leading the Midwest conference title race with two victories, a tie with Coe and no defeats, while Knox is also undefeated, having won its only conference game.

CHARITY GRID CONTEST TICKET SALE IMPROVES

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Ticket sales for the football game with the University of Chicago, Nov. 22, have picked up since the Michigan board in control of athletics voted to give its share of the net receipts to charity.

It is anticipated that demand for Chicago game tickets will pick up after Saturday's contest with Harvard and that the number of tickets sold will be considerably beyond normal expectancy. Whether the stadium will be filled is a matter of speculation.

No remittances beyond the regular price of tickets have been received so far to permit Business Manager Harry Tillotson to open the special charity account.

Norton Braces Loyola Defense to Meet St. Louis

Bracing the Loyola football team's defense is the task which Coach Eddie Norton is undertaking this week as he prepares for the annual battle with St. Louis university Friday night.

In the majority of Loyola's encounters this season, a few bad minutes during some interval of the contest has been sufficient to lose the game. Last Sunday a poor start in the first quarter enabled De Paul to score, after which the Blue Demons were held in check.

Coach Norton yesterday devoted almost the entire practice period to a drill on fundamentals, with emphasis on tackling.

Another item which is being stressed daily is handling the ball. The frequent fumbles last Sunday cost Loyola several opportunities to score.

LEADING SCORERS WILL COMPETE IN GIANT-CARD GAME

The two high point scorers of the National Professional Football league, Ernie Nevers of the Chicago Cardinals and Swede Wiberg of the New York Giants, will meet Sunday at Comiskey park. Nevers has scored 39 points and his eastern rival the same number.

Although Wiberg plays a half back position, he is considered an exceptional line plunger. He scored one of the Giant touchdowns against the Bears here a few weeks ago by plunging through guard.

Nevers has been directly responsible for six more touchdowns scored by the Cards, having been on the throwing end of passes which counted for scores. Two of these, the winning score against Frankford, and one against Portsmouth here, were for more than 50 yards.

Sedbrock, former Texan, also playing half for the Giants, is third in the high point column, with 30 markers. Both he and Wiberg benefit by being on the receiving end of Benny Friedman's passes.

Dr. Jones is hopeful for a victory over the Giants. In New York in their first game, although beaten 25 to 12, the Cards ran up a total of seventeen first downs against seven for the Giants.

Central A. A. U. Hockey League Meets Tomorrow

The Central A. A. U. Amateur Hockey league will meet tomorrow night at 211 South State street. At the first meeting held last week the following organizations were represented and all signified their intention of placing teams in the league: Raven Hockey club, Youngberg Hockey club, Midwest Rainbos, Kaspar Floral company, Robins Athletic club, Graham Cardinals, Chicago Town and Tennis club, Rogers Park Skating club, River Road Recreation center.

Shamrocks to Open on Home Rink Nov. 27

The Shamrocks, Chicago's entry in the American Hockey league, will open the season at Duluth on Nov. 17 and make their first appearance at the Chicago Stadium on Nov. 27 against the New York Stars, William F. Grant, president of the league, announced yesterday.

Another first class player was added to the Shamrocks' roster yesterday with the signing of Gordon Brydson of Toronto, a right wing. Brydson played with Hamilton, Ont., in 1927 and 1928, with Buffalo in 1928 and 1929, and with Toronto and London, Ont., last season.

Other American league opening dates also were announced yesterday, as follows: Buffalo at Minneapolis, Nov. 17; New York at Buffalo, Nov. 28; Chicago at St. Louis, Dec. 4; New York at Kansas City, Nov. 23; Duluth at New York, Dec. 14; New York at Tulsa, Nov. 21.

SEEK STRONG DEFENSE.

Minneapolis, Min., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Building a defense second to none in the American Hockey league is the aim of the Chicago Shamrocks as they go through their daily training grind here. Thirteen players are in camp, while an even dozen others are still enroute from points in Canada, where they have been delayed by immigration authorities.

Tom Shaughnessy, president of the Chicago club, inspected the athletes last weekend.

"When we bought Ralph Taylor I concluded that we could count on the best defense line in the league. I didn't see anything to discourage my expectations," he said.

Have Veteran Defense Men.

The Shamrock veteran defense line consists of Taylor, Andy Mulligan, Curly Headley, Fred Gordon, and Sam Timmins. The first three are already here. Gordon and Timmins are still missing, along with Charles O'Neill, Walter [Red] Jackson, Sing Johnstone, and Bert Clayton.

Dennenay Helps Coach.

The Shamrocks are up every morning in time for an hour of physical training under Trainer Tom Dyer. From 12 to 1 o'clock they are on the ice. Actively assisting Manager Johnny Farquhar is Capt. Corbett Dennenay, veteran center and a scoring ace of the American league last year. An hour of skating before the evening meal is also included in the routine. When the rest of the Shamrocks arrive the practice time probably will be increased to two hours.

Injury May Put Butcher, De Paul Back, on Bench

De Paul university officials yesterday were worrying over the possible loss of Ernie Butcher for De Paul's homecoming game Saturday with Louisville university.

Butcher aggravated an already severely wrenched shoulder in the Loyola game Sunday. Coach Eddie Anderson fears Ernie will be out for a week or more. Red Harrington, who revealed streaks of brilliance in the second half of Sunday's struggle, appeared in Butcher's place in yesterday's drill.

Much of yesterday's workout was devoted to building a defense against Louisville plays. Frank Hartman, who gave a sparkling exhibition in his first game at quarter back, was again at the pilot's post.

Mat Steffen, running mate of Butcher, was the other half back, and Stafford full back.

"STAGG FEARS PURDUE" NOW A SOLEMN TRUTH

Some years ago the phrase "Stagg fears Purdue" was concocted by a columnist in a sarcastic moment, for Chicago regularly administered a decisive trimming to the Boilermakers. But the pendulum swung back and that phrase now describes an existing condition on the Midway.

This week it may be employed in larger capitals than ever. So far Chicago has been unable to score in a major contest, whereas Purdue has been running up good sized scores with its accurate passing and powerful off tackle drives.

Realizing just how much of a battering the tackles will be subjected to Saturday, Coach Stagg began grooming another reserve lineman for a tackle position. Bert Cassels was given a chance in a long defensive drill against the freshmen's conception of Purdue plays, while Bud Trude, regular tackle, rested. Evidently satisfied with the tackling of his backs, Stagg let them off early while he intensified on the defensive work of the forward wall.

In the backs of their heads the Maroons have the idea that a week from Saturday they will trim the green Illini and a good showing against Purdue will undoubtedly get that concept out into circulation among Chicago fans.

PURDUE LOOKS FOR PASSES.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—It was evident this afternoon that Purdue expects Chicago to uncork a wide open forward and lateral passing game with frequent flanker formations when the Maroons attempts to stop the Boilermakers Saturday at Stagg field. Coach Kizer devoted practically the entire drill session to the perfection of a defense against this style of play.

An added day of rest was granted to the eleven men who started the Illinois game Saturday. Kizer indicated that he would start the same combination, with a choice of two backfields, that has been used since the Michigan game.

HIGHWAY AND AIR EXPERTS OF EIGHT STATES MEETING

Gather Here to Work for Unified Traffic Systems.

Highway and aviation experts from eight central states will gather at the Palmer House today for a regional conference on automobile and airplane transportation. The conference is one of several being held throughout the country under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States for the purpose of aiding in the development of a unified traffic system.

Participating in the conference will be the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America, the Chicago Association of Commerce, and th. national committee on street and highway safety. The delegates will discuss the further development of air navigation facilities, the framing of intrastate intrastate regulation for gliders, and intrastate regulatio nfor gliders, and the adoption of standard state laws and regulations affecting airports.

Col. Randolph to Speak.

The opening address at this morning's session will be delivered by W. Rufus Abbott, vice president of the north central division of the National Chamber of Commerce. Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, also will speak at the morning meeting.

The air traffic section of the conference will be addressed by Col. Harry H. Blee, director of the aeronautical development branch of the federal department of commerce, and John R. Catley, vice president and governor of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce. Two Chicagoans, W. R. Dawes and Elmer Stevens of the Chicago plan commission, will talk before the highway traffic section.

The states represented through the chairmen of local traffic committees are Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Michigan, Missouri, Ohio, and Wisconsin.

See Help for Aviation.

Aviation will have many friends from Cook county in the next congress regardless of yesterday's winners, according to the Air Corps Officers' association, which announced yesterday the result of a questionnaire survey. Sixteen out of twenty-six candidate answered affirmatively the following questions:

"Do you favor the air corps' five year development program as planned and already started?"

"If elected will you lend your support to measures brought before congress in furtherance of that program?"

"If elected will you present to congress or support legislation to provide the Chicago area with adequate equipment and facilities for the training of reserve officers in the air corps?"

GHOULS PRY LID OF U. S. WOMAN'S COFFIN FOR GEMS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTE CARLO, Monaco, Nov. 4.—An attempt to rob the grave of the Marquise de Maleissye, who was a prominent member of the American colony in France, of several hundred thousand dollars' worth of jewels was made in a Monaco cemetery last night. The gems had been placed in the coffin at the wish of the dead woman.

The grave robbers were starting to pry the lid off the coffin when a watchman frightened them away. The Marquise de Maleissye, who died a few weeks ago, was formerly Edith Lyman Collins. She was related to the Vanderbilt family and was prominent socially.

The marquise had a passion for wearing jewelry. She was particularly attached to a brilliant diamond diadem, which she wore on all occasions.

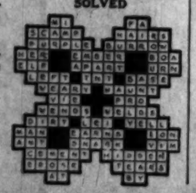
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: No Figuring

BEATS HIS WIFE AND KILLS SELF IN LOOP HOTEL

Find Another Couple Dead in Apartment.

After beating his wife into insensibility with a table lamp in a room of the Palmer house, James Hester, 50 years old, chef in a Toledo O., night club, killed himself yesterday morning by slashing his throat with a safety razor blade.

Hotel employés, hearing the woman's screams, entered the room and found her collapsed in a chair beside the body of her husband lying on the bed. The wife, Mrs. Betty Hester, 32 years old, was taken to St. Luke's hospital where her cuts and bruises were treated.

Husband Ill, Wife Says.

Mrs. Hester said her husband had been despondent over ill health. She said they had quarreled frequently since their marriage a year ago and that they had been separated for several months until last July.

"We went to the theater last night and everything was all right," she said. He must have struck me and knocked me unconscious while I slept. I awoke to find myself injured and he was lying on the bed dead."

The Hesters registered at the hotel on Sunday. Mrs. Hester said her husband was employed as a chef in a night club operated by "Dutch" Heller, said to be a Toledo racketeer.

Couple Found Suffocated.

The Hudson avenue police yesterday broke into a second floor apartment at 2029 Sheffield avenue and found the bodies of Walter Ihde, 21 years old, a wood carver, and his wife, Mrs. Sophie Ihde, 19 years old, a dressmaker. According to Capt. Thomas Condon, the couple died of suffocation and had been dead for ten days.

An open hot water heater, fired by gas, was burning in the kitchen and the doors and windows were closed. Capt. Condon expressed the belief that the heater had consumed the oxygen in the bedroom as the Ihdes were about to retire for the night.

The young couple had migrated to this country a year ago. John Gach, 3406 West North avenue, after calling three times at the Ihde home in the last ten days without getting a response, became alarmed and called the police.

WOMAN LEADER OF CUBA'S FIGHT FOR LIBERTY DIES

HAVANA, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Mme. Rosalia Abreu, 65, known throughout Cuba for her philanthropic work during the Cuban wars of independence and after the establishment of the republic here, died at her estate, Villa Palatino, on the outskirts of Havana, during the night.

Mme. Abreu and her late sister, Martha, devoted much of their immense wealth to the aid of the cause in Cuba's fight for freedom. She also was interested in biological life and achieved international fame for the zoo which she developed. Her great collection of anthropoidic specimen, particularly rare apes, were said by many to be the finest in the world.

ELKHART POLICE GRILL SUSPECT IN GIRL'S DEATH

Elkhart, Ind., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Ray E. Nelson, 32, who has told police he accompanied Dorothy Winters, 15, to a beer garden near here the evening before her death, was released by police today after they arrested Charles Christian Richmond, 24, Elkhart.

Richmond, authorities said tonight, has admitted that his automobile struck something near where passing motorists found the girl dying with a dislocated neck. He denied that he was the man who Nelson said left the beer garden with the grade school girl Sunday night. It is a police theory that the girl was either pushed or jumped from Richmond's automobile.

WOMAN KILLED, MATE HURT AS TRAIN HITS AUTO

4 Deaths Raise Cook Toll to 901.

Mrs. Henri Dobbelaere of 917 Woodlawn avenue, Des Plaines, was killed instantly and her husband probably fatally injured late yesterday when their automobile was demolished by an Illinois Central train at North avenue near Elmhurst, just west of the Cook county line.

Dobbelaere was removed from the wreckage, which was dragged more than 500 feet, by Villa Park police and taken to the Elmhurst hospital.

Four deaths in Chicago yesterday raised the Cook county motor toll for the year to 901. Last year the 900 mark was not reached until Nov. 28. Yesterday's victims:

Mrs. Sarah Friedman, 59 years old, 1846 South Lawndale avenue. Died at the Mount Sinai hospital of injuries received on Monday when she stepped from the curb into the path of an automobile driven by Donald Ritzman, 3141 West Polk street.

Oliver Vanderpoel, 49 years old, 1859 West Grand avenue, a truck driver. Died of a fractured skull in Holy Cross hospital as the result of injuries received on Monday when his car plunged into a ditch at Archer and Narraganset avenues.

Bernard Kramer, 70 years old, 3323 Ogden avenue. Struck Sunday at Hamlin avenue and 19th street by an automobile driven by Miss Whetmore Holmes, 19 years old, 536 East 36th street, and died yesterday in Michael Reese hospital.

Unidentified man—About 45 years old. Fatally injured when struck by a hit and run autoist at 22d street and Lawndale avenue.

C. M. PEPPER, 70, NEWSPAPERMAN, WRITER, IS DEAD

New York, Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Charles M. Pepper, old time newspaper man and magazine writer, died today at the age of 70. His newspaper career began with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and from 1885 to 1894 he was Washington correspondent of that paper. Then he went to Chicago and bought a half interest in The Mail, selling to the Scripps-Booth people a year later.

Subsequently Mr. Pepper became an expert on Latin-America, writing magazine articles and later taking directorship of the Chile-American association. He held that connection until his death, doing much to inform the public about Central and South America.

Mr. Pepper latterly resided with his daughter at Chevy Chase, Washington.

The clergyman had just left a meeting of the executive committee of the general conference of the Free Methodist church when he was stricken. He was secretary of the committee. His daughter, Mrs. De Witt Showers, 6151 Glenwood avenue, survives him.

STOCK MARKET EASIEST ALIBI FOR TRADE DROP

But Leaders Fail to Lead, Says Survey.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Energetic salesmanship is the thing most needed to bring trade and industry out of the current depression. The great American consuming public needs to be convinced that commodity prices are reasonable and that now is the time to buy. And merchants and manufacturers also need to be convinced along the same line. This is the argument of A. M. Schulz, Inc., 221 North La Salle street, Chicago, in a current situation survey.

"Practically every line of business and industry has been muddling," the survey says. "Although we have turned the corner, it is still apparent that we are still very much in a muddle. The easiest alibi for general drop-off in business is the stock market and all who participated in its orgy, both professionals and amateurs. But the outstanding fact is that we have witnessed a pitiful failure of our leaders to lead.

Fears Grip Leaders.

"Fear gripped the hearts of our financial and industrial leaders and naturally permeated the ranks. So today we have serious unemployment, a national problem of tremendous proportions. But there is no need for any of us to point the finger of scorn at any one else. We are all to blame, so let us face that fact.

"We have been attempting to whoop up our own sales but in the next breath have instructed our associates, our employés and the folks at home to 'buy nothing.' We have generally assumed that the other fellow would keep on buying what we have to sell but we ourselves would economize and not buy from him. And so we caused the stagnation of our own businesses.

"American prosperity has been built on the foundation of free spending. Our great prosperity of the last 25 years is due to the fact that all of us aspired to and were able to obtain more than three meals a day, a bare sustenance. However, we cannot expect the rank and file to buy our automobiles, radios, insurance, real estate, clothing and furnishings when we do not buy from others. The return of general employment and resultant prosperity will be delayed just so long as we submit to the dominance of fear.

"The only people who can make business good again are those who sell. We cannot look to our bankers, who are by nature conservative. Their inclination at all times is to discourage the withdrawal of funds and to caution their depositors against any and all ventures or expenditures whether for pleasure, profit or long time investment.

Cites Low Inventories.

"Our industrialists cannot be expected to lead us out of the wilderness until they find a market for the goods they manufacture. Wholesalers, distributors, retailers, have in many instances allowed their inventories to run to such a low point that purchasers cannot obtain a selection and in certain instances can't even get delivery on certain standard styles or numbers of cataloged goods.

"Now that business is slowly but steadily manifesting signs of healthy recovery, sales have their big opportunity. They have had it all year but most of them have failed to measure up. Salesmen today have an unequaled opportunity to assert their leadership, to prove themselves more than the common variety of 'fair-weather' producers, provided they spend their time and energy, not in reporting failures, but in turning potential prospects into buyers. We must get money into circulation in order to make money ourselves. We must get action now through our sales forces in order to restore the hum of wheels in factories.

"It can be done, provided we have not lost the fine art of hustling, provided we keep our heads up, provided we use of God given intelligence to work instead of to whine. We therefore suggest this slogan for the new month: "Make November Mean Now."

Ponders Feasibility of Employment Stabilization

BY SCRUTATOR.

The extent to which stabilization of employment is desirable is just as uncertain as the extent to which it is possible.

Stabilization, as ordinarily conceived, suggests that employers design a system under which they keep a certain number of workers on their pay rolls for a certain number of weeks a year. This, of course, is the ideal, and it has been carried out with some success in manufacturing that is little subject to swift changes in style or demand.

It is feasible, as is well known, in the soap business and in floor wax. Leading companies in these fields have found it possible to guarantee their employés minimum annual work time. The demand for such products does not fluctuate as does that for automobiles or steel, and the goods themselves lend themselves to storage over the slack periods.

Less Stabilized.

In actuality, the last ten years has found industry less stabilized than it ever was. Since the war, there have been such shifts of employment as were never before known. Something like ten million workers, it is estimated, including those who left farming and mining and railroading as well as increases from immigration and natural growth of population, have been absorbed in some manner in American economic life.

How this was accomplished is still something of a mystery in its details. In general, these shifted workers engaged in occupations that were new or in the expansion of industries established, but still on the upgrade. Automobiles and petroleum in their widest extent absorbed specifically more than any other industries.

Had there been stabilization of employment at maximum figures, and there is not much sense in having it at anything less, there would have been little or no labor available for the new industries. Nor is it clearly demonstrable, under present conditions, that a concern which employs an average of 5,000 workers throughout the year is doing best for society by always employing exactly that number instead of 4,000 part of the time and 6,000 at others. At the last named periods we have 1,000 who have some income which they would have to fight a good deal harder for if everybody else had his job stabilized.

If Willing to Pay Price.

If the world, or the American part of it, were willing to pay the price, stabilization could theoretically be accomplished. The price would be the disestablishment of a standard of living that would not be improved. Production and distribution could be declared amply efficient, or too efficient, and steps taken to reduce this efficiency where necessary. The farmer could go back to the single horse drawn plow and discard his combine for methods nearer the primitive, while manufacturers would refuse to install any betterments in machinery.

That price is, of course, too high. The program that has been adopted is exactly the opposite. Labor saving devices are constantly driving men and women out of occupations furnishing goods for which the demand is limited. There is no hope that we shall ever be able to give a larger part of the population a living growing foodstuffs and little that we can increase the relative number mining coal.

There will be more in proportion making new products and furnishing new services. The 600 or 700 million dollars spent each year for radio sets, which were not known little more than a decade ago; the fifty million gallons of lacquer instead of the three million used in 1923; the 93 per cent of the metal working firms which report, on authority of the American Machinist and Product Engineering, that they are developing improved products for next year, are pointing the way to future happenings.

With the new developments has come a shortening as well as a lightening of the hours of labor, although the process is gradual. Stabilization is in opposition to this tendency as well as to others suggested. It would be as illogical to freeze living standards at the 1929 level as at the 1829 level.

DR. SCHACHT ASSERTS GERMANY STRIVES TO PAY OFF OBLIGATIONS

That Germany is honestly and energetically endeavoring to pay her financial obligations was the message delivered last night by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, world famous German economist and former president of the German Reichsbank, in addressing a joint gathering of the Commercial club and the Industrial club at the Blackstone hotel.

"The Financial and Economic Situation in Germany" was the subject of Dr. Schacht, who related the post-war economic ills and the complex politico economic troubles now besetting Germany during this worldwide trade depression. The tendency toward an increase toward state socialization and the critical unemployment situation of nearly 4,000,000 workers in an industrialized nation were mentioned. Since Germany has 30,000,000 people dependent on industrial employment, the current business depression has further aggravated the country's financial burdens in supporting, through insurance, the great number of unemployed industrial workers, he said.

Near the end of his address Dr. Schacht casually referred to the Young plan of reparations as affecting Germany's financial obligations, but dismissed that subject by saying that it was not the subject of his speech.

Dr. Schacht will be the guest of honor and principal speaker at a noon luncheon today of the Bond Men's club at the Union League club. Today's subject will be the "Economic Side of Reparations."

Smaller Receipts Force Prices Up in Hog Market

(Livestock quotations page 32.)

Small receipts and broader eastern demand forced hog prices up 5@15c on yesterday's market, both the top and average showing 10c gain at $9.45 and $9.10, respectively. Packing grades were scarce and in good demand at 15@25c advance.

Small packers, city butchers, and shippers bought freely at the strength, taking about 17,000 head, mostly at $9.05@9.25. Larger houses refused to pass $9.00 for good grades and obtained less than 2,000, leaving about 7,000 in the pens at the close. While receipts dropped off during the first two days of the week, shipments from Chicago increased. Outsiders bought 20 per cent of total arrivals, against 13 per cent during Monday and Tuesday of last week.

Winter Hogs in Demand.

Lightweight hogs for January and December delivery attracted most attention on the hog futures market yesterday. Three carloads were sold at $8.75 for December and two at $8.80 for January. Light and mediums for the last half of the present month were offered at $9.25@9.40. Next March lightweights were offered at $9.50 and bid $9.30, while mediums were offered at $9.50 and bid $9.15. Today's medium weight hogs were bid $9.25 on the "to arrive" market, while 170@210 lb. averages were bid $9.00.

Continued small receipts brought cattle buyers on the market early yesterday with strong to higher bids. Fully 25@50c of last week's late decline has been recovered, and some of the good grades of medium weights show as much as 75c advance since the low spot last week. Receipts at the 20 leading markets in the country show a decrease of 82,000 head, or 3 per cent, in two days, compared with a week ago.

The advance estimate of only 11,000 for today is smaller for Wednesday in several weeks, and compares with 12,585 a week ago, with 14,570 a year ago, and with 14,894 two years ago. Fancy 1,095 lb yearlings topped the market at $13.40, being within 20c of the highest top since early last June. Medium weights averaging 1,240 lbs at $12.65 stood highest on the weight in recent weeks. Cows and heifers failed to show the improvement noted in steers. Calves sold steady to 25c lower. Stockers and feeders were in demand at strong prices.

Lambs Recover Losses.

Lambs recovered the 15@25c loss recorded late Monday with bulk of yesterday's sales in line with the high point early the previous day. Bulk of good to choice ewe and wether native lambs sold to packers at $8.00@8.25, while a few to city butchers and packers later in the day reached $8.35@8.50. Aged sheep and yearlings were scarce and unchanged.

Feeding and breeding stock met good demand at steady prices. Sheep receipts at principal points are running smallest in some time and are expected to keep light until the movement of fed western lambs commences in volume. The seven markets in two days show a decrease of 40 per cent compared with the Monday and Tuesday total of last week.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 11,000 cattle, 25,000 hogs, and 15,000 sheep, against 12,584 cattle, 22,091 hogs, and 14,043 sheep the previous Wednesday, and 14,570 cattle, 26,015 hogs, and 20,501 sheep a year ago.

WALL ST. SCANS ELECTION FOR A CLEARER VIEW

Eyes Its Effect on Slack Business.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 4.—It is doubtful whether Wall street has paid as much attention to politics this year as politicians have paid to the stock market. Nevertheless there has been the usual disposition on the part of traders to look for a clarification of the stock market outlook after election day. It is difficult to see how today's results can materially affect the world-wide state of business depression, but so far as the securities markets are immediately concerned this is probably beside the point.

Even if the changes in the composition of congress brought about by today's voting could affect business conditions at home, the new congress will not meet until next spring, by which time the business situation may have undergone radical change. But from the point of view of professional Wall street, the importance of an election is apt, frequently, to be not so much its outcome as the fact that it is over.

Oliver Farm Equipment Co.

Would you please give me a report on Oliver Farm Equipment listed on the New York Stock Exchange? Thank you in advance for your answer.—P. O. J.

When Oliver Farm Equipment company directors in August voted to omit dividends on the participating preferred stock the company's president stated that this action was deemed advisable in order to conserve cash resources. During the first half of this year the volume of sales had been about equal to that of the first half of 1929. Profits, however, were lower because sales of tractors had been on a reduced basis pending the design and introduction of a new complete line of four cylinder tractors.

The treasurer of the company had stated earlier that although sales of combines had not suffered from the heat and drought during the summer, the sales of medium powered tractors which are used for fall plowing would be affected. Sales of farm equipment companies generally during the summer months had not been up to previous standards and it was expected that collections would be more difficult.

Oliver Farm Equipment company was incorporated in February, 1929, and acquired several pioneer agricultural machinery makers. These included Oliver Chilled Plow works, Nichols & Shepard company, Hart-Parr company, American Seeding Machine company, and McKenzie Manufacturing company. A full line of farm implements is manufactured and sold under various well known trade names.

In 1929 sales totaled $27,437,973, and net income was $3,502,996, equal after preferred dividends to $4.41 per share on 522,496 convertible participating shares and $1.97 per share on 374,172 common shares.

The profits for 1929 were materially above the combined profits of the predecessor companies for the preceding year and followed the upward trend established in 1927.

On Dec. 31, 1929, financial position was strong. Current assets were $33,355,728, and current liabilities were $4,651,978, leaving a net working capital of $28,703,750. Profit and loss surplus was $10,841,590.

The $3 cumulative convertible participating preferred is speculative. The common is more so.

Lambert Simmons Co.

Would you be kind enough to reply in the enclosed addressed envelope regarding 25 shares of Lambert Simmons company stock issued in July, 1917? The company was incorporated in the state of Maine. Is this company in existence, and any particulars? — R. E. B.

The secretary of state of Maine informs us that the Lambert Simmons company filed its last return in 1917 and that its charter was suspended in 1918 for nonpayment of the franchise tax. We have no further information on this company.

FOREIGN GRAIN MARKET PRICES WORK LOWER

Winnipeg and Liverpool were the only important grain markets open yesterday, all the American grain exchanges being closed for the general election. A bearish feeling prevailed, with Liverpool closing ⅝c to 1¼c lower, cables reporting foreign markets depressed by Russian offerings.

Buenos Aires was off ⅜c early and Winnipeg declined 1⅜c, on heavy selling from the outside. The market became oversold and a good rally followed on short covering, due to Broomhall's cable, saying: "Heavy general rains fell overnight in the Argentine and it is now damp. If this weather continues it may favor rust extending into Cordoba, although at the present time the situation is not alarming."

Oats and all the coarse grains were under pressure, with declines to around the lowest of the season, oats being off 1¼c, but rallying and closing ⅝c to ½c lower.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

New Orleans was the only American cotton market open yesterday, and it had a moderate trade, with the close 4 to 12 points lower for the day, the latter on October. December lost 7 points, Liverpool opened quiet and steady. Spots were in moderate request, with sales 5,000 bales. Weather reports were more favorable, temperatures being higher, with little change predicted, although light frosts are expected for Alabama and Oklahoma.

Time proves the importance of good bonds

SOUND bonds always have been, always will be, a safe investment. They hold an attraction for careful investors, in any market.

There is something inherently substantial in their ownership. They provide a necessary tempering element for every investment account... When other forms of investment become less desirable, good bonds continue to yield in cash their coupon equivalents...Today presents an ideal opportunity for their purchase.

This company offers only the best of high grade bonds. Write or call for a list with attractive income yields.

cial community appears frequently to have been more engrossed with foreign political developments than with those at home.

In the light of the present world-wide economic conditions this is, perhaps, a not unnatural state of affairs. Although the United States can, as President Hoover has pointed out, make a recovery from its present state of industrial depression independent of foreign nations, conditions abroad have an important bearing upon our own prosperity. Europe, for its part, appears to be looking to this country for leadership out of the present economic difficulties.

To Confer Again.

That the interdependence of the nations is fully recognized by financial authorities is sufficiently indicated by the decision of Gov. Harrison of the federal reserve bank to go abroad again to confer with European central bankers so soon after his discussions with them last March.

The policy of concerted action to reduce money rates in all the principal markets of the world, with a view to stimulating the bond market and thus giving encouragement to new business enterprise, which was determined upon at the conference last spring, has been in operation some seven months. It has had some effect, though not, possibly, all that had been hoped for.

The bankers hoped, by creating extreme ease in money, to render the return on high grade short-term investments so unattractive that money would be forced into other sections of the bond market which had been neglected. So far as the European bankers were concerned, the hope that the United States and France would be moved to invest heavily abroad was also a factor.

Easy Money Results.

The results of this easy money policy have been to decrease the yield on government securities, bankers' bills and other forms of prime short-term investments to extremely low levels. The banks have been forced to lower the interest rate paid by them on deposits and are talking of still further reducing it. But unattractive as such high-grade investments have become, the movement of funds into other sections of the bond market has been disappointingly slow, and the prospects for large foreign financing here appear even worse than they did in March.

Four 20-hour flyers daily

LEADERS of a fleet of twelve trains from Chicago to New York daily, four Pennsylvania flyers, the Broadway Limited—The Golden Arrow—The New Yorker and the Manhattan Limited, make the trip in an even twenty hours.

They travel the short route, over one of the smoothest roadbeds in America, and although there is no faster way to travel except by air, this shorter route means that you enjoy a wide margin of safety and comfort.

Three other Pennsylvania trains make the trip to New York in less than twenty-one hours.

When you plan your next trip to New York you will find a Pennsylvania train that fits your individual plans. For here is one of the most flexible schedules ever set up between two great American cities.

To Washington and Baltimore the Pennsylvania offers a fleet of ten trains daily, led by the Liberty Limited, which leaves Chicago at 12.30 P. M.
